

REORGANIZATION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENTS IS URGED BY THE GOVERNOR

Eberhart Declares in Favor of Initiative and Referendum.

Advocates the Creation of State Public Utilities Commission.

"Blue Sky" Law Regulating Sale of Stocks Is Urged.

MEASURES URGED BY THE GOVERNOR

Reorganization of state departments in the interests of economy and efficiency. Legislative and congressional reapportionment. Presidential preference primaries.

A state public utilities commission. A "blue sky" law regulating the sale of stocks and other securities to protect the public against wild-cat stocks.

A workingmen's compensation act. Extension of agricultural and industrial training. Good roads measures.

A legislative reference bureau. Initiative and referendum. Reforms in judicial procedure.

There is also a discussion, without recommendations, of the proposed law, pensioning destitute mothers.

(By a Staff Correspondent.) St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart delivered his second annual message to the legislature before both houses in joint session today. The document contains about 5,000 words, as against 3,000 words two years ago.

"One of the most important recommendations of my last regular message was the reorganization of our state departments," says the governor. "My further experience in administrative affairs of this state has convinced me more strongly than ever that this reorganization is the most important recommendation of my last regular message. For more than half a century we have operated in the administration of our state affairs under a system unbusinesslike both in principle and application. The state should be administered under the best approved business methods with economy and efficiency combined."

"I again emphasize the fact, that in order to secure efficiency, it is absolutely essential that there should be a definite fixing of responsibility in state departments and the most complete co-operation between them. That there is neither economy nor efficiency in the creation of a large number of boards or commissions to transact the business of the state is conceded."

"There can be no possible excuse for the existence of the fee office. If the fee inspection service of this state were abolished and placed under the state treasury, it would be a saving of $100,000 a year."

PASSING OF OLD GUARD

New Leaders Have Come Into Power in the Legislature.

Both Branches Are Being Organized Along Progressive Lines.

(By a Staff Correspondent.) St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The old order changeth." The final overthrow of the various plans to take the power of committee appointments away from the progressive presiding officers of the two branches of the Minnesota legislature means several important things.

It means more than that J. A. A. Burnquist, progressive, will be lieutenant governor and president of the senate, retain the power of organizing the senate committees, and that Henry Linder, a progressive, will be speaker-elect of the house of representatives, retain that power in that branch of the legislature.

This is itself important, because it means that so far as these two men and their advisers can compass it, (Continued on page 10, fifth column.)

DELIVERS HIS MESSAGE TO STATE LEGISLATURE

ADOLPH O. EBERHART, Governor of Minnesota.

COMMITTEES ARE REDUCED

Rules Adopted By Minnesota House and Senate Are Simpler.

St. Louis County Delegation Meets to Consider Local Measures.

(By a Staff Correspondent.) St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the simple ceremonial characteristic of this state, Adolph O. Eberhart was inaugurated for his second elective term as governor this morning and delivered his customary message before the legislature in joint session in the house chamber. Preliminary sessions were held in each branch, in which little was done. Governor Eberhart was escorted to the house chamber by a joint committee consisting of Senators Fugli, Wilson and V. L. Johnson and Representatives J. T. Johnson, McGarry and Minette, and was sworn in by Chief Justice Calvin L. Brown. He began the delivery of his message immediately, and this completed the ceremonies.

The governor was applauded politely on his entrance, and at several points during the delivery of his message, notably when he called attention to the legislators' duty to provide reapportionment.

COMMANDER DIES NEAR SOUTH POLE

Capt. Bahlel of Fitchner Expedition Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Buenos Ayres, Jan. 8.—The whaling ship Deutschland, with the German Antarctic expedition under Lieut. Fitchner aboard, has arrived here. Capt. Bahlel, commander of the vessel, died during the voyage from an attack of heart disease. The others of the expedition are in good health.

Lieut. Fitchner found that the new land known as Prince Regent Luitpoldland extended as far as latitude 79 degrees and 50 minutes to the south of the Weddel sea. He established a station on the coast of the new land, but the high sea destroyed several miles of the great ice barrier and carried off the station, obliging the explorers to go aboard their vessel.

On March 8 they entered a new ice zone and were obliged to remain there until Nov. 27. They found the depth of the sea to be from 4,740 to 5,148 meters.

Lieut. Fitchner will return to the Antarctic after a rest and continue his exploration, which probably will not be completed for two years.

GIRL CHLOROFORMED WHILE IN CAR BERTH.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 8.—Miss Evelyn Stewart of Jacksonville, Fla., was found unconscious in her berth in a sleeping car on a Big Four train. She had been chloroformed and an empty bottle, which had contained the drug, was found in her berth. Her arms were tied behind her.

The young woman was taken to a hospital, where she has since been recovering. She had been carrying $100 in paper money and a ticket to Knoxville, Tenn., were found pinned in her berth.

The train attendants declared it would have been impossible for anyone to have entered her berth during the night, and said that all occupants of the car had been accounted for.

HALF OF CROP MAY BE FOUND MARKETABLE

Higher Temperature Renders Smudging Successful in California Orchards.

Growers Unite in Declaring That Bearing Trees Are Uninjured.

Lemons and Oranges Only Slightly Nipped Are Now Safe.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—With markedly higher temperatures prevailing, smudging was successful last night in saving oranges and lemons that had been only slightly nipped by the cold of the previous two days. According to citrus experts, fully half of the $50,000,000 crop may be found to be in marketable condition.

Many groves were reported uninjured in San Bernardino county and in Santa Ana, thirty-five miles southeast of Los Angeles. The growers saw a ray of hope in the fact that a sudden thaw, which was feared last night, did not materialize. The weather bureau forecast that the return to normal conditions would be gradual.

Although the foliage in the trees in many districts was shivered by the cold between Sunday and yesterday afternoon, growers unite in the declaration that bearing trees were uninjured. Great havoc was wrought, however, in orchards where the trees were young.

On the basis of 50 per cent crop damage, the railroads stand to lose $3,000,000 in reduced freight receipts, according to estimates today.

TO INVESTIGATE LOANS OF BANKS

Committee to Get Information Through Comptroller of Currency.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Affairs of the national banks, particularly their loans and securities for loans will be before the house money trust committee for investigation today. The committee has endeavored in vain to obtain information on the subject through the office of the comptroller of the currency. President Taft, acting on the opinion of Attorney General Clegg, declined to direct the comptroller to furnish information.

The committee expects to place on the stand tomorrow George W. Baker and V. L. Johnson and Representatives J. T. Johnson, McGarry and Minette, and was sworn in by Chief Justice Calvin L. Brown. He began the delivery of his message immediately, and this completed the ceremonies.

The governor was applauded politely on his entrance, and at several points during the delivery of his message, notably when he called attention to the legislators' duty to provide reapportionment.

ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF COMMERCE COMMISSION

FRANKLIN K. LANE, Commissioner of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

ARGUMENTS IN ARCHBOLD CASE

Managers of House Begin Their Final Arraignment Against Judge.

Three Days of Oratory Will Bring Proceedings to a Close.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Managers representing the house opened final arguments against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court when the senate reconvened today as a court of impeachment to try the judge on the charge of official misconduct. Three days of continuous arguments will bring the trial to a close.

The propriety of a Federal judge's writing to an attorney on one side of a case that had been argued before him, for information to clear up doubtful points, became the point around which members of the senate freed questions at Judge Archbald yesterday.

Cross-examination of the accused jurist, begun by Representative Stirling, one of the house members who is conducting the prosecution, was virtually taken out of his hands when the charge was reported involving Judge Archbald's correspondence with Attorney Helm Bruce of the L. & N. railroad. Members of the senate demanded of Judge Archbald time and again, whether he did not think it improper and unfair to the other parties in a suit, to request of one attorney an explanation or correction of evidence, without giving him privilege to the other side. He insisted he thought there was nothing improper in his conduct.

Archbald held the witness stand for nearly four hours. The end of all testimony in the case came before the close of the day's proceedings. There remain now only the closing arguments, and the vote of the senate as to whether Judge Archbald is guilty or not.

HAS RESULTED IN SAVING OF LARGE SUMS

Taft Asks Congress for an Appropriation of $250,000 for Commission.

Has Been Working on Economy and Efficiency of Departments.

Says Continuation Will Result in Great Benefit to the Government.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Congress was asked today in a special message from the president to appropriate $250,000 for continuing the investigation of the commission on economy and efficiency into the executive departments of the government.

In his message the president points out that there "is no greater service that can be rendered to the country than that of the continuance of the work of the commission until some form of organization is provided for continuously doing this kind of work under the executive departments of the government."

The president expresses the opinion that the technique and procedure of every branch and office of the government should be submitted to the painstaking examination as that given those on which reports have been made. To do this, however, President Taft says that ample funds must be provided and he asks that congress make the $250,000 appropriation by March 4 for the incoming president.

"In my opinion," says the president, "this is not a matter in which the congress should assume that public money is being wasted."

FOUR MEN KILLED IN COPPER MINES

Cave-ins at Bingham, Utah, Prove Fatal—Three Injured.

Bingham, Utah, Jan. 8.—Four men were killed and three seriously injured in copper mines at Bingham yesterday. Three of the killed were crushed beneath a pile of rock and earth in a cave-in at the Jordan mine of the United States Mining company's property early yesterday, and one was killed last night at the United States mine when he fell down a shaft and broke his neck. Three Austrian miners were caught beneath a rock slide at the Highland Boy mine. Two received broken legs. One was injured internally. He will recover.

The dead: EVERETT SQUIRES, shift boss. WALTER HARVARD, machinist. TWO GREEK MINERS. For a while Squires communicated with the rescuing party through a wall of rock. A pipe was inserted into the cave-in and the men air immediately the crash of a second cave-in was heard and communication with the entombed men was lost. It is believed they were killed by the second fall of rock. The bodies of the reported missing and believed to have been buried by the cave-in, has been accounted for.

SERVIAN GOVERNMENT DECIDES TO WITHDRAW FROM THE ADRIATIC SEA

FORMER DULUTH MAN IS TURKISH ADMIRAL

BUCKNAM PASHA.

LUCKY STAR AGAIN RISES

Duluth Soldier of Fortune Restored to Command of Turkish Fleet.

Bucknam Pasha Recalled From London to Again Take Command.

A dispatch from Athens says that Admiral Bucky Pasha has been recalled from London by the sultan and placed in command of the Turkish fleet in the Dardanelles; also that he planned the successful sortie against the Greeks at that point early last week.

Bucknam Pasha, as he is known in Turkey, was once a resident of Duluth and sailed out of this port as mate of a lake steamer. He was employed by Capt. Alex McDougall here, and later sailed on the wheelhouse out of Duluth. His right name was Ramsford D. Bucknam, and according to Capt. McDougall, was born at sea in 1870, his father being a sea captain, and from whom it is evident that he inherited his acknowledged genius for reported missing and believed to have been buried by the cave-in, has been accounted for.

ELEVATED COACH FALLS TO STREET

Leaves Rails and Runs on Ties Twenty Feet Before Falling.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—The rear coach of a Chicago & Oak Park elevated road train became derailed and fell from the structure to the street at the Fifth avenue and Van Buren street curve on the union loop yesterday. Two men passengers who were in the car when it left the rails and bumped over the ties for twenty feet before plunging from the elevated structure, escaped injury by stopping in a car. The train had discharged most of its load of several hundred passengers and was returning to the western terminal of the line when the accident occurred.

GOATS BANISHED FROM WARSHIPS

Mascot on New Hampshire Has Audacity to Butt the Admiral.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 8.—A belligerent goat's lack of respect for the uniform, it was said today, was the cause for an order of Rear Admiral P. M. Doyle banishing all of the sailors' pets and mascots from battleships, cruisers and receiving ships at this station. Admiral Doyle is supposed to have been inside the uniform when the goat, a mascot aboard the New Hampshire, butted it so vigorously that it toppled over on the deck. The goat now is in exile and with it went a long train of cats, dogs, parrots, bears and other goats.

CLERKS KEEP TAB ON JUDGE'S WORK.

New York, Jan. 8.—For the first time in the history of the courts here, the clerks of the supreme court began Monday to keep tab on the work done by the judges. This will be the nearest approach to a time clock that has ever been kept on the judges in this state.

The suggestion was made by the State Bar association, in connection with the charges by certain lawyers that some of the judges "loafed." Compilation of the records is to be submitted at the next meeting of the association.

Unexpected Action Regarded By All as Notable Step Towards Peace.

Ambassadors Begin Discussion of Greek Claims to Aegean Islands.

Montenegro Declares That She Must Hold Scutari at Any Price.

London, Jan. 8.—The Servian government today decided to withdraw from the Adriatic sea. This action is regarded in all quarters as a notable step in the direction of peace.

Greece Wants Islands. London, Jan. 8.—The ambassadors have begun the discussion of the Aegean islands. They examined a memorandum presented by the Greek premier, in which he enumerated all reasons in favor of the annexation of these islands to Greece. Furthermore, he pointed out, Greece had sacrificed men and money to conquer the archipelago, and the Greek colors are now flying over all the islands except those temporarily occupied by Italy.

In the memorandum, the premier expressed the belief that the principal reason why the islands should be annexed to Greece lay in the fact that by this means it would be possible to conclude with Turkey a peace that was really permanent and would not be disturbed by further Greek aspirations. BURKE INDORSED BY LEGISLATURE

North Dakota Solons Support Him for Cabinet Position.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota legislature, in joint session this afternoon, unanimously passed a resolution endorsing the nomination of John Burke for a position in President Wilson's cabinet.

HEIRS OF NEGROES AWARDED $110,000

Court of Appeals Decides Case in Favor of Workmen Long Dead.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—The United States circuit court of appeals has decided that the heirs of twenty-eight negro stevedores, who were killed in a naphtha explosion on the steamer Tigra, Chicago, after twenty-three years ago, are entitled to $110,000 damages.

Every heir of the identified dead, other than those who died or disappeared, the steamship company wound up its affairs. The heirs of the dead, who defended the case and the lawyer who prosecuted it, are dead. The case, Bruxton vs. Union Steamship company, was one of the oldest pending Federal cases in Chicago, in which there had only been one appeal. Attorney Charles Furthman, son of the original plaintiff's attorney, won the case.

It is said there will be an opportunity for the heirs of the dead to collect damages, if any can be located. The company deposited a $200,000 cash bond before it went out of business.

HANNA TAKES GOVERNORSHIP

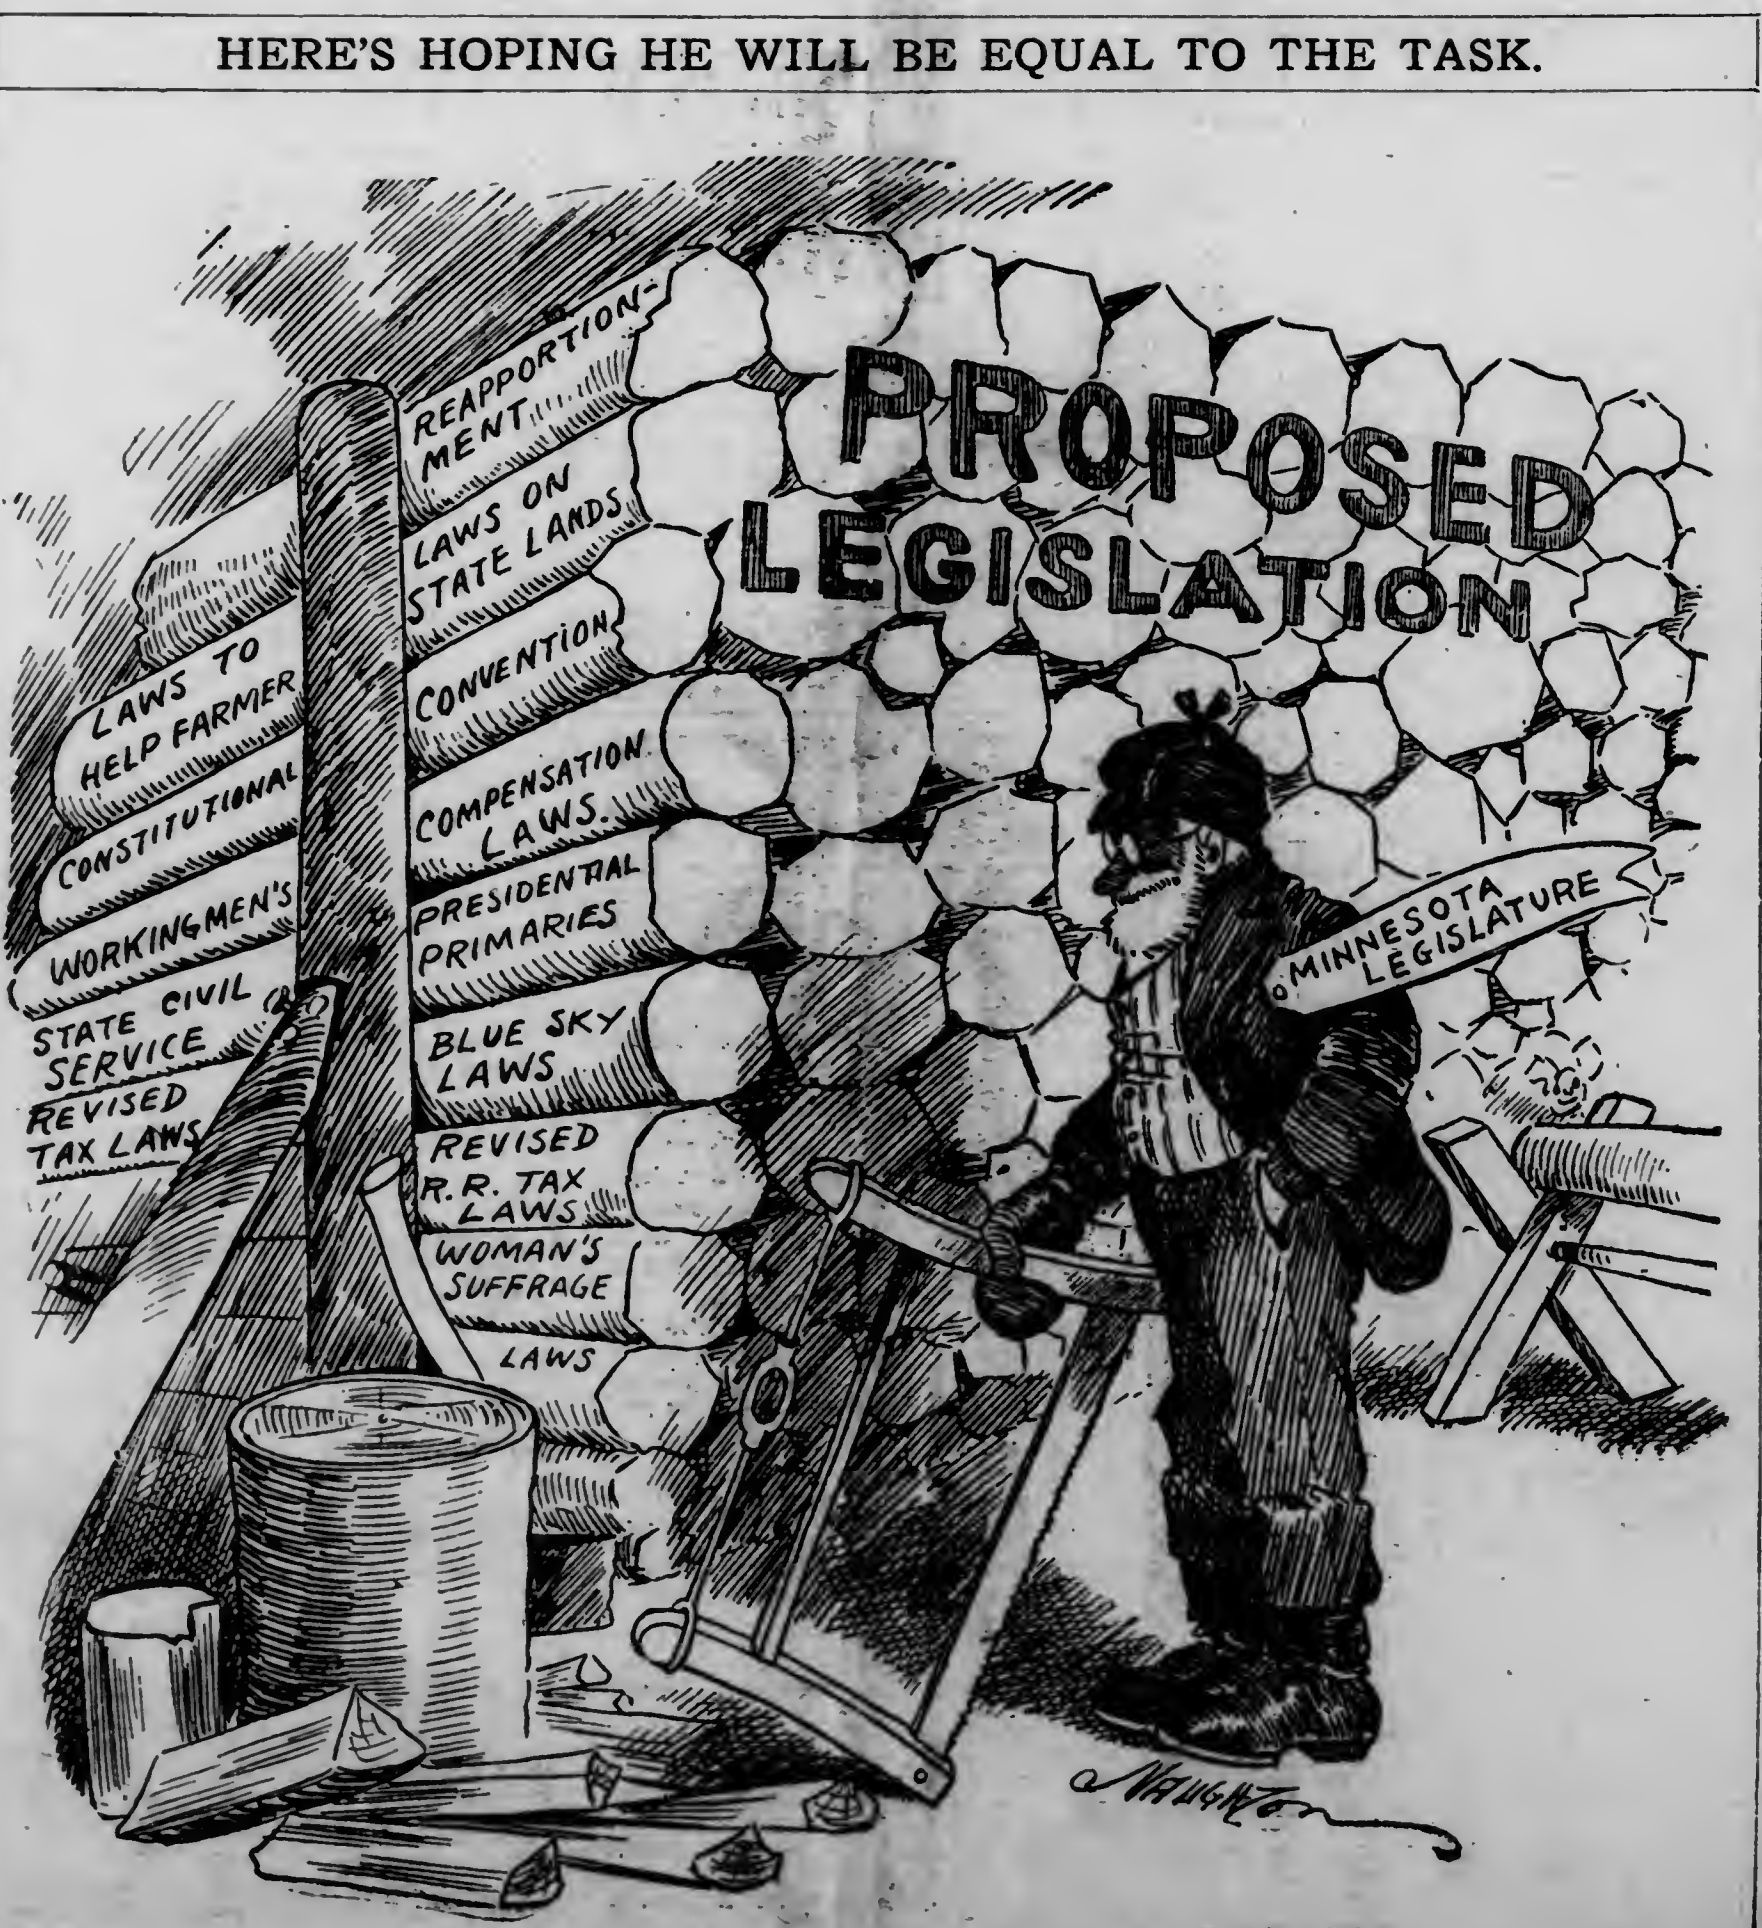

First Message By New Executive of North Dakota.

Warns Against Extravagant Expenditure of the State Funds.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—In presenting his first message to the state legislature today, Governor L. B. Hanna warns the legislators against the extravagant expenditure of state funds, and he expects to submit, at a future date, another message bearing upon the finances of the state. That reports of educational institutions and other state institutions should be studied carefully in the making of appropriations is his plea.

Under the head of education, Governor Hanna pleads for aid for the consolidated school, the use of uniform text books in the public schools, and the unification of the system of governing the higher institutions of learning by the high schools of the institutions of higher learning of academic work should be brought about, he contends.

Six Thousand Clergymen
Asked to Observe Jan.

New York, Jan. 8.—The 6,000 clergymen who last year observed Child Labor day are today being asked to speak on that subject Sunday, Jan. 20 or Saturday, Jan. 25. For seven years the national child labor committee has issued such an appeal, and the interest aroused by the last Child Labor day resulted in a general demand for the passing of the Federal children's bureau bill, in improved child labor laws in ten of the fourteen states holding legislative sessions, and an increasing use of lecture slides and exhibits about child labor.

The day has never been used as an appeal for funds and this year special attention is called to child labor in tenement-house manufactures. The national child labor committee also reminds clergymen that child laborers become unskilled adult workers, and the Chicago Vice commission gives as the second greatest cause of poverty the sacrifice annually to an immoral life. "The economic stress of industrial life on unskilled workers with the encircling influences on the will power." This cause the commission gives as second only to the lack of ethical training and religious instruction.

BIGGER JURY BOX NEEDED AT VIRGINIA

A jury box large enough to accommodate twelve men is wanted at the Virginia courthouse. The one in use now only holds ten. It being necessary for two of the twelve tried and true to sit outside.

The last grand jury at the range term of court passed a resolution calling the county board's attention to this fact.

A copy of the resolution, which embodied a request that the box be enlarged, was received yesterday by the board at its annual meeting.

No action has yet been taken upon it, although it will probably be disposed of today.

stitutions is asked. He points out the need of the establishment of the same system in all institutions, in the counties, and in state offices.

He believes that a reasonable appropriation should be made for both the San Francisco and San Diego exhibitions for the maintenance of a state exhibit at each.

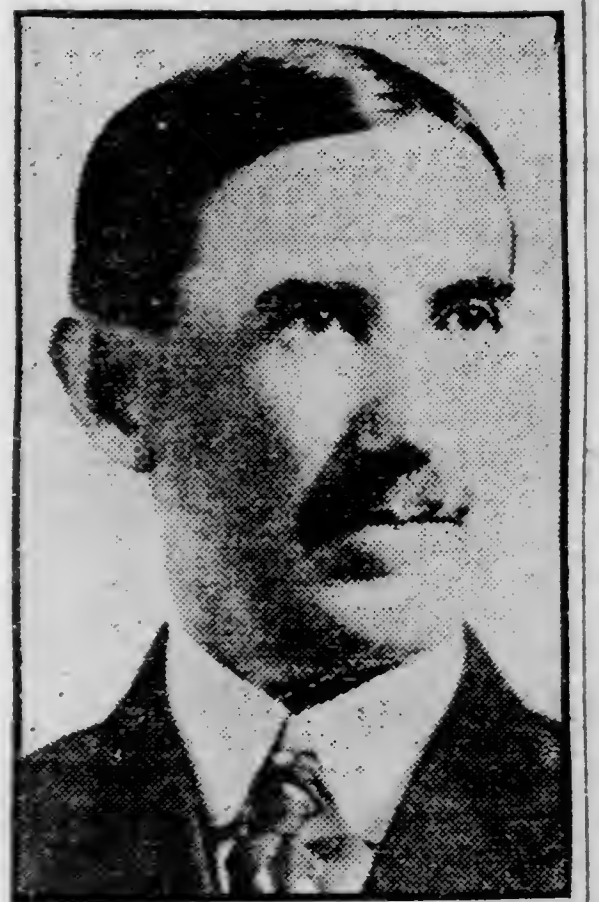

Bonds for State Highways.

On the question of good roads he proposes the issuance of $1,000,000 of state bonds. The automobile tax, which he says soon will total about $10,000 a year, would be sufficient to pay the interest and to retire the bonds in time, and under state supervision a thorough system of good roads could be constructed.

He also urges the use of convict labor in the building of state highways, believing the plan perfectly feasible.

Resumption of the farmers' institute is also proposed. Governor Hanna believes them a great value.

An appropriation by the state for the purpose of making experiments in raising this object.

GOVERNOR L. B. HANNA.

the utilization of flax and other straws is urged.

Farm credits are also given attention, the governor believing in the establishment of a system whereby farmers would be assured of money on loans at a lower rate of interest than now prevail.

Establishment of the office of fire marshal is urged.

Traveling men, railroad men and railway mail clerks, the governor contends should be permitted to vote while away from home, and he proposed the use of the mailing system in gaining this object.

Short Ballot Urged.

Consideration of the question of the short ballot is also urged, the governor contending that the present unwieldy ballot is undesirable.

The election of state officers for four-year terms, and of making an official ineligible for service in continuous terms, is approved.

Establishment of an office of business and development agent for the state is proposed, such agent giving his time over to the question of developing the state's resources and of bringing new industries to the state.

He says he believes in the firm enforcement of all laws on the statute books or their repeal.

Generally speaking, he says he is in favor of the present game laws. The creation of additional protected bird reservations, abolishment of spring shooting of geese, protection of deer for several years, more encouragement for fish hatchery work, are among features he proposed.

He proposes the inspection of coal that is shipped into the state oil inspector.

Enactment of proper health laws is urged.

Payment by the state of the expenses of the U. S. A. veterans to the reunion at Gettysburg is given approval.

He believes the state should complete the payment for the silver service for the United States battleship North Dakota.

Governor Hanna favors the appointment of a deputy under the commissioner of agriculture and labor who would give his time to the labor problem.

He favors the enactment of a "blue sky" law.

Better support of the state militia and of the Boy Scouts is urged.

That the cost of hotel inspection should be paid for from the general fund rather than from fees is Governor Hanna's belief.

He thinks certain Mandan citizens should be reimbursed for money spent in purchasing a site for the Federal experiment station located there.

Lighted Biquettes.

As it appears a suitable blinder has been found for the purpose of making biquettes from lignite coal, he favors a reasonable appropriation by the legislature for experiments to determine the practicability of making and placing these biquettes on the market.

Amendments to the oil law are proposed reducing the gravity test.

In conclusion, Governor Hanna says: "To Hon. John Burke, who is retiring from office as governor of this state, and who has been the executive for the past six years, I extend my best wishes for his future success and wish him Godspeed in his future public and private life, and to you, gentlemen of the assembly, let us strive earnestly to push forward the work with which the people have entrusted us, with a firm determination to enact Lighted Biquettes.

Amendments to the oil law are proposed reducing the gravity test.

In conclusion, Governor Hanna says: "To Hon. John Burke, who is retiring from office as governor of this state, and who has been the executive for the past six years, I extend my best wishes for his future success and wish him Godspeed in his future public and private life, and to you, gentlemen of the assembly, let us strive earnestly to push forward the work with which the people have entrusted us, with a firm determination to enact such legislation as will be of lasting benefit to the people of the state. Let us remember the pledges that were made in our platforms wherein we promised economy in the expenditures and appropriations, and remember that the promises that were made before election we are in duty bound to carry out after the election is over and may we ask him, who is the ruler and guide of nations, to help us in the work in which we are engaged, so that when our labors shall be over we shall merit the respect and confidence of the people of this commonwealth.

BURKE'S FAREWELL.

Final Message as Chief Executive of the State.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Burke, in his final message today as chief executive of the state, gave expression of thanks to the members for their support in the previous years of suggestions made by him, and said that in instances where his recommendation had not been followed, he believed it was because of an honest difference in opinion.

He warned the assembly against making appropriations beyond the state's income. The Constitutional provision which gives the governor the power of vetoing only items or entire bills, rather than paring them down, is pointed to as one which acts against the best interests of the state, and under which the governor is subjected to unjust criticism because of necessary vetoes of appropriations when they are found to be in excess of the state's income. To appropriate a large sum and then leave it for the governor to cut down, is shifting the responsibility.

Governor Burke urged that the legislature get away from the old system of transacting most of the business during the last day or two. Two years ago 24 bills were brought to the governor's office after 8 o'clock on the last night of the session. This custom, he said, was not fair to the governor, who must consider all bills within fifteen days.

He advised legislative economy in all things. Changes in laws regulating reports of state institutions so as to make those reports readable, were urged. They are at present too voluminous. He would have the counties made responsible for the feeble-minded inmates of Graham, in the same manner that insane people are cared for.

At the school for the deaf he believed provision should be made for an industrial school, only printing and carpentering being taught there now.

He recommended an increase in the capitol building maintenance, and said the present building is in fair condition now. He believed the state was in danger of losing its capitol building and land grant by reason of the transfer of $20,000 several years ago from the building fund for the construction of the street car line, and urged that the assembly make a direct ap-

$18,288 to print the amendments offered in the last session, and which came up again before the present assembly. A less expensive method of publicity was proposed, the pamphlet plan being approved.

He favored changes in the taxation laws insuring assessment of properties at full values, and he approved the tax commission's work. He also favored the enactment of a "blue sky" law.

Discussing the state institutions, he would have the counties made responsible for the feeble-minded inmates of Graham, in the same manner that insane people are cared for.

At the school for the deaf he believed provision should be made for an industrial school, only printing and carpentering being taught there now.

He believed the state was in danger of losing its capitol building and land grant by reason of the transfer of $20,000 several years ago from the building fund for the construction of the street car line, and urged that the assembly make a direct appropriation to pay the amount back to the fund.

Approximately $25,000 is needed to pay indemnity under the glandered horse act, and he advised such appropriation.

Other recommendations were: Encouragement of the dairy industry; an annual appropriation of $1,500 for the maintenance of the Rock Island Military reservation; appropriation sufficient to pay for the publication of a book narrating the experiences of the North Dakota regiment in the Spanish-American war, such work to be written by members; good roads, declaring the township system is antiquated; abolishment of the gravity test for oil; additional appropriation for the state fair, if the finances of the state warrant; representation at the San Francisco exposition; passage of the initiative and referendum; enactment of a workmen's compensation law; which will clear up several features that are not now entirely clear, are urged.

He reported $5,700 worth of bonds of school District No. 30, Barnes county, have been declared invalid, and the state must make good that amount to the school fund. In closing he recommended that the legislature pass appropriate resolutions upon the service to the state given by the late

Chief Justice D. E. Morgan of the supreme court and Judge C. F. Templeton of the first district.

The Salvation Army Industrial home at 1202 West Superior street is at present one of the busiest places in the West end. Ensign Robert Trembley, who is in charge of the local corps, this week employed several more men in the various departments of the institution.

The waste paper department and the stores are exceptionally busy, according to Ensign Trembley, and are prospering better than at any time since the institution was started. About twenty men are now employed at the home and work is being found every day for men applying at the local headquarters.

HOME FOR THE AGED PLANNED

Vasa Order Considers Establishment of New Charitable Institution.

Norwegian and Swedish Fraternal Orders May Join in Project.

The local lodge of the Vasa order is planning to erect a home for the aged somewhere in St. Louis county. The project means an outlay of about $50,000, for which the members of the order plan to conduct an active subscription campaign throughout the county.

The plan has already met with favor among the Swedish residents of the city, who are anxious to have such a structure erected in this locality. The Norwegians of Duluth have also considered the erection of a home for the aged and there is the probability at present of a joint Scandinavian home being erected. In this case, the funds could be more easily secured, there being a much wider field in which to work.

Nothing definite is yet known about the project, except that it has been discussed by several of the fraternal organizations of the city. At present the Vasa order is the only one that has seriously considered the matter, but has delayed action pending the joining of the Norwegian and Swedish orders in the erection of the building. Ten acres of land is to be purchased somewhere along St. Louis river, which would cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 and about $30,000 would be spent in the construction of the building. The remaining $10,000 could be used in furnishing the structure.

The Vasa order will take the matter up at its next meeting and at that time consider the advisability of joining the Norwegian and other Scandinavian orders in the erection of the building.

ELECTIONS OF CHURCH OFFICERS

R. R. Forward Again Heads Grace M. E. Sunday School.

The annual elections of local church societies and boards are still being held.

Last evening the Sunday school board of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, held its annual election of officers. R. R. Forward was chosen superintendent of the school, and will continue in that position until next year. The other officers named are: Charles Dice, assistant superintendent; Daniel Donaghy, superintendent of teachers; Carl Brown and George Sullivan, assistants to the superintendent; P. T. Gorman, treasurer; Miss Hazel Moir, organist; and Miss Edna Gorman, assistant organist.

The Sunday school teachers of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, elected their officers as follows: Rev. C. Olson, pastor, superintendent; Ole Olson, Nelson Peterson and Carl Gustafson, assistant superintendents; Miss Hilda Olson, secretary; and Gust Bergquist, financial secretary.

The congregation of the new Trinity English Lutheran church held its annual meeting last evening at the Bethany church. The meeting was held until next Thursday evening, when the new pastor, Rev. F. O. L. Galsburg, will be installed. The church council of the Bethany church will hold its annual meeting Friday evening at the parsonage, 2305 West Third street, in its efforts to secure a membership of at least 100. There are now about twenty charter members in the organization, all of whom will take part in the campaign to be launched Sunday afternoon.

BOAT CLUB WANTS NEW MEMBERS

Campaign Will Be Held to Increase Membership to 100.

The Central Boat club will launch its membership campaign at a meeting to be held Sunday afternoon at the Redje Clothing company's store, 2015 West Superior street. August B. Wirth, president of the club, started yesterday afternoon that the club will make general canvass of the West end in its efforts to secure a membership of at least 100. There are now about twenty charter members in the organization, all of whom will take part in the campaign to be launched Sunday afternoon.

If the desired number of members is secured before next March, the club plans to erect another clubhouse near the present structure between Twenty-ninth and Twenty-first avenues west. The building now houses ten motor boats and the addition will be arranged to hold a similar number. The property at this point has been leased from the Northern Pacific railroad.

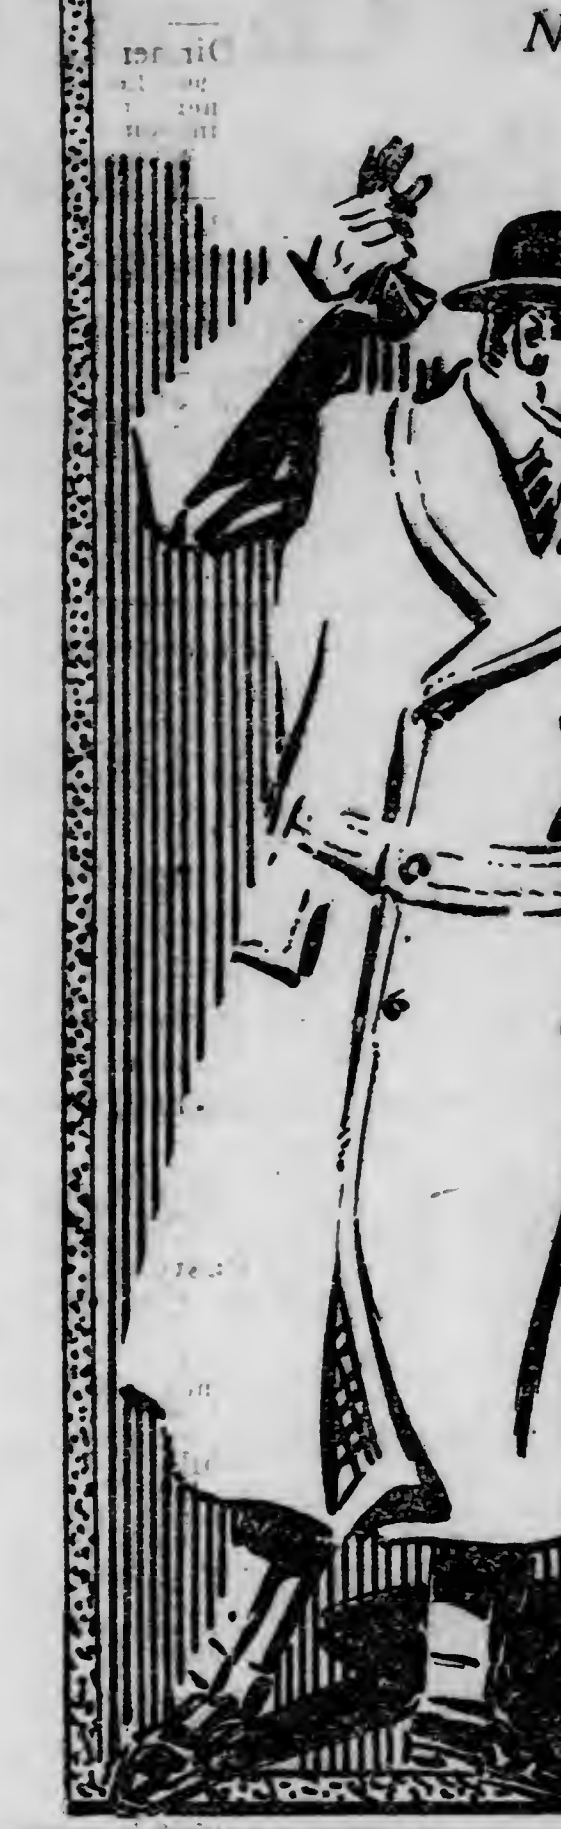

One of the features of the enlarged organization will be the social activity, in addition to the boat races and events to be held from time to time. A large pavilion is planned for the foot of Twenty-first avenue west, where refreshments will be served and dancing enjoyed by the members of the club.

In addition to the membership campaign, the advisability of holding a series of dances this winter for the benefit of the club will be taken up at the meeting next Sunday. The work for the year is also to be outlined at the meeting.

The officers of the Central Boat club are: August Wirth, president; Severin Aune, vice president; George Fare, secretary; and Al Blewett, treasurer.

C. O. F. to Install.
West End Court, No. 179, C. O. F., will hold its annual installation of officers this evening at the St. Jean Baptist church hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. The officers to be installed are: Joseph Porter, chief ranger; A. J. Villet, vice chief ranger; H. T. Pare, secretary; Wilfred Le May, financial secretary; J. P. Burdick, recording secretary; J. J. MONTANA'S "JEAN VALJEAN" IS FREE

Murderer Who Came Into Fame Through Gifts to Leave Pen.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 8.—Albert J. Beckman, often styled Montana's "Jean Valjean," who was sent to the penitentiary from Butte in 1905 for life for murdering Helen Kelly, because she refused to marry him, has had his sentence commuted and will leave the penitentiary on condition he leave the state and never return. The Beckman case attracted widespread attention because of the brutality of his crime and the fact that many Butte people protested against the act of the acting governor who granted the commutation.

From his cell in the penitentiary Beckman sent contributions to Denver charity workers, making the money by selling brides and other penitentiary-made goods. The attention of a Denver paper, which turned out several "sob" stories about him and gradually worked up a sentiment for his release. He has been a model prisoner and penitentiary officers urged his release.

TUBERCULOSIS "CURE" OF BARLEY AND FLOUR.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Oscar Anderson, a bookkeeper, was ordered removed to Fargo, N. D., to be tried on a charge of using the mails to advertise a fraudulent tuberculosis "cure." Government chemists testified in Judge Carpenter's court, where Anderson's hearing was held, that the "cure" consisted solely of boiled barley and rye flour. It was in powder form. Witnesses testified the mixture was absolutely worthless. Anderson is said to have received $20 a month for "treatment" from his patients.

The pseudo physician is accused of having defrauded persons in Fargo and other cities in the Northwest.

NEW RULING MADE ON PARCEL POST STAMPS.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has decided after conferences with officials of the post office department that the distinctive parcel post stamps might be used for the payment of postage on packages sent by registered mail. The decision was telegraphed to postmasters of all important cities in the country.

It is therefore, that both the ordinary postage stamps and the distinctive parcel post stamps may be used in forwarding packages by parcel post to foreign countries. Under the law, however, ordinary postage stamps may not be used to pay postage upon parcels sent by registered mail from one point to another in this country.

Postmasters have been notified, too, that packages sent to a foreign country by international parcel post cannot be insured as domestic parcels are, but they may be registered as in the past.

LARGE SUMS OF MONEY POUR INTO NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 8.—Money is pouring into New York in such enormous volumes that the clerks in the large banks are working past their usual hours to handle the golden deluge. At the treasury offices the strain upon employees is especially heavy, and men are at their desks until late into the night, sorting out the United States notes and gold and silver certificates handed in for redemption. Currency is coming in from all directions, especially from the Middle West and South.

An influx of money is usual at this season when large sums sent into the interior in the fall for crop-moving are released, and millions disbursed on interest and dividend payments, returning to the banks.

The tension in the money market has disappeared and call loans were made under 2 per cent.

A. D. Davidson Tells Real Estate Exchange of Evils of Law.

Says Tide of Land Buying May Turn This Way.

A communication received by Oscar Mitchell of Duluth from A. D. Davidson, land commissioner for the Canadian Northern road and formerly of Duluth, caused action to be taken yesterday by the real estate exchange and the legislature will be asked to repeal a law long on the statute books and which is believed to be a detrimental one to Minnesota. The subject of the law is the right of aliens to hold lands in the state except under certain conditions. The only other state in the Union having such a law is said to be Illinois. The St. Paul and Minneapolis real estate men will be asked to co-operate. A copy of Mr. Davidson's letter follows:

"I wish you would take up the real estate men of the state on the subject of having a bill put through the legislature this winter so that aliens may hold lands in the state of Minnesota. Mr. Alfred Uihlein
Schlitz Brewing Co.
Milwaukee, Wis.

Dear Sir:

Answering your favor of recent date in regard to the influence of light on the quality of beer, will say that our observations, extending over the last twenty-five years, have convinced us beyond a doubt that exposure of beer to light has a very detrimental influence on its quality generally, but especially upon the flavor of the beer.

Not all beers are alike susceptible to this influence of light, pale strong hopped beers of the "Pilsen" character, that is, the type that is most favored in America, being especially susceptible, and acquiring, when only exposed for a few minutes to the sunlight, a disagreeable odor.

We have tested beers repeatedly in this direction placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable, on account of the peculiar odor developed.

The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are therefore recommendable.

Authorities on the subject of the detrimental influence of light on beer are:

C. Lintner, Lehrbuch der Bierbrauerei 1875, S. 343
Beck, Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1882, S. 370
V. Huth, Der Bierbrauer 1876, S. 127
Ney, Allg. Zeitschr. f. Bierbr. u. Malzfabr., 1878, S. 273

The latest and most exhaustive series of experiments on this subject are those by the well known scientist J. Brand, in an article entitled "Tests on the Protection afforded by the beer bottle glass against the influence of light." "Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen," 1908, page 333.

Yours very truly,

RW/B

Wahl-Henius Institute

Letter to Mr. Alfred Uihlein, written by Robert Wahl, President of the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, Inc., Chicago.

"Beer bottles should be manufactured from reddish-brown glass, inasmuch as same will to a much higher degree than any other kind of glass, minimize the influence of the rays of light on the quality of beer, and will protect the latter against acquiring the disagreeable taste (Sonnengeschmack) due to the chemical action of the light."

"In white and green glass bottles the beer is most affected by the action of the light. Such bottles are, therefore, absolutely inappropriate and should never be employed by brewers." (Signed) Prof. Dr. F. Schonfeld.

From the Illustrated Brewery Encyclopedia, p. 99 (Illustriertes Brauerei Lexikon.) Published by Dr. Max Delbrück, Privy Councillor, Professor at the Royal Agricultural College and Director of the Institute for Fermentology at Berlin. Berlin: 1910.

"Bottles of strong glass should be selected. They should never be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid." (Lintner.)

Extract from Die Malz und Bierbereitung. Published by E. Leyser, Director of the Brewing Academy in Augsburg. Tenth Edition, Stuttgart, 1900, page 680.

"The beer in the white glass bottle had taken on disagreeable odor and taste and was absolutely undrinkable. The beer in the dark bottles did not show this peculiar odor and taste." (G. Beck.)

Translation of Extract from Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1882—page 370.

"It appears that chemical changes are produced in the beer, which attains an exceedingly unpleasant taste and a disagreeable odor." Extract from Letters on Brewing (Vol. 5) published by Hantke's Brewers' School and Laboratories. Dr. G. Thevenot.

"While beer quickly deteriorates when it is exposed to direct sunlight, such deterioration will eventually take place in diffused light."

Extract from Proceedings of the Second International Brewers' Congress held in Chicago, October 19-21, 1911.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor. Beer so affected is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Extract from Beer Bottlers' Handy Book (By Philip Dreesbach, Bottling Expert and Instructor in the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology.) 1906.

Dr. W. Schulze (Allgemeine Zeitschrift für Brauerei, 1888, p. 593) finds that dark brown bottles offer the best protection against the rays of the sun.

"It is interesting to note the observation that beer in colorless bottles exposed to diffused light will undergo a change, precipitating a heavy sediment and taking on a disagreeable odor and taste."

Extract from Die Theorie und Praxis der Malzbereitung und Bierfabrikation. Published by Director Julius E. Thausing, Leipzig, 1893, Fourth Edition, page 920.

"In recent years the observation has been made that the rays of sunlight effect a chemical change in beer. For this reason the use of beer bottles blown from colorless glass is diminishing, bottles blown from colored glass being chosen; the amber colored bottles, which, when held towards the light, show the color of light beer, are particularly to be recommended."

Extract from Die Praxis der Bierbrauerei. Published by G. E. Habich, 1883—page 786.

"It is a known fact that sunlight and daylight influence unfavorably the taste and flavor of the beer and care must be exercised in the selection of the bottles."

J. Brand (Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1908, p. 333).

RAILROADS AND COMMERCIAL CLUB ARE FREELY RAPPED BY SPEAKERS AT THE GREATER DULUTH CLUB BANQUET

CALL CLUB A "MORQUE"

Passenger Service From Duluth to West Warmly Scored.

Committee to Present Complaints to Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

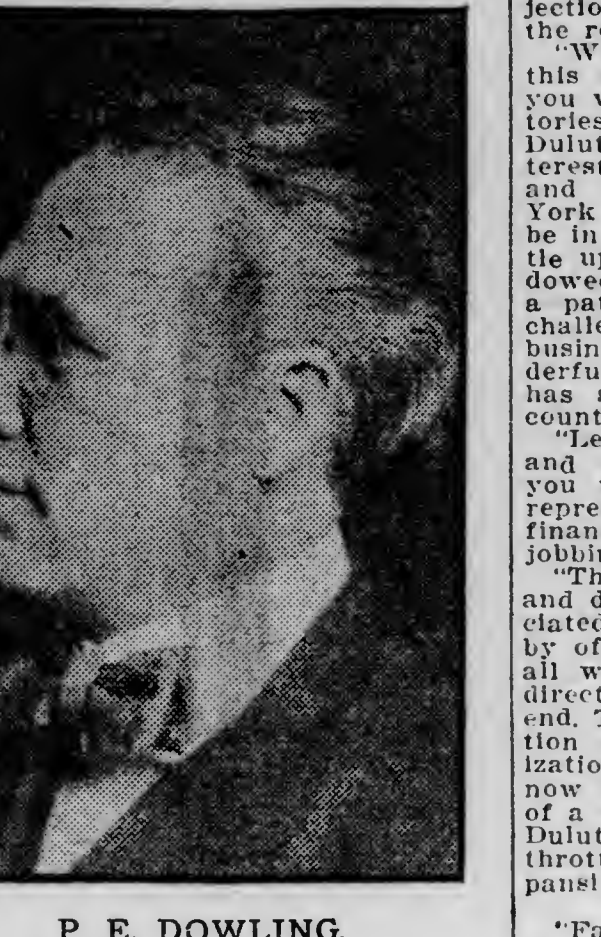

Traffic to West Is Now Routed by Twin Cities.

C. P. CRAIG.

RAY M. HUGHES.

P. E. DOWLING.

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads and the Duluth Commercial club all came in for some lively criticism at a meeting and banquet of the Greater Duluth club, which took place in the dining room of the Spalding hotel last evening. There is to be a determined, vigorous protest against the discrimination that is claimed to be practiced against Duluth in favor of the Twin Cities in the matter of passenger service, especially with the Western country. Mr. Dowling charged that Commercial club affairs are in the hands of a few men and that the club is not working to supply the real needs of the city. More than a hundred representative business men of the city were present at the banquet. A series of resolutions, presented by Walter Dacey, were unanimously passed, providing for the appointment of a committee of five, which shall present the complaints of Duluth in the matter of passenger service to the officials of the Great Northern lines. This committee will be appointed by P. E. Dowling, president of the club. Mr. Dowling said last evening that he would not be ready with his appointments for several days.

Mr. C. J. Wallace, who acted as emcee, introduced the speaker with many anecdotes, which kept all present in the best of humor, notwithstanding the forcible presentation by other speakers of the city's grievances at the hands of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Dowling's Speech. Mr. Dowling made the following statement of the city's case:

"The story of Duluth's natural advantages and her growth has been told and retold so often by press and from platform that little, if anything, remains untold.

"Twenty years ago, the so-called 'city of destiny' was painted on a canvas large enough to warrant a city of half a million people. To date, that prospective masterpiece is far from completion. The dreams of yesterday have not been fulfilled in the actualities of today.

"Why is it that Duluth has not kept pace with the other cities of the West? Why is it that Duluth has struggled even to maintain her natural birth rate while St. Paul and Minneapolis and the cities of the Pacific coast have doubled and even tripled in population?

"Look at the incomparable advantages of this city. After calling to mind the fertile soil, healthful climate, extensive mineral resources, deep forests of superior timber and possession of that great tactical position of where rails and water meet, take your map and note this location in the very center of the Western Hemisphere. Measure on that map the advantages that Duluth has in distances from various bases of supplies. Then ask yourself how and why it is that Duluth merchants sell flour made in Minneapolis instead of in Duluth. Ask yourself how and why Duluth no longer boasts of a flouring mill that once held the world's record for daily production in barrels of flour. You will answer why Duluth, with cheap hydro-electrical power has not, long ago, fought strenuously to regain her lost prestige and strangled milling business.

"Northwestern Minnesota and the Red river valley region of North Dakota possess over half a million people willing and anxious to maintain Duluth their main trading center. If they were given railroad facilities equal to those of the Twin Cities, they would do it, too.

"In proof of this, note the prosperity of Duluth from convenient and comfortable communication on the iron ranges.

"What has held Duluth back. What has kept Duluth from attaining the greatness that should have been hers by natural law and right? What irresistible power has held her back? What sinister influence has cheated her out of her birthright? What influences—political, social, or commercial—have infatuated the people that they have failed to knock off the shackles that hold them down? To help arrive at an answer to all that, note, if you will, the circuitous route taken by the special interests.

A serpent in Eden could not have taken a more crooked trail. Some ten years ago—perhaps a little less—there was much agitation as to Duluth's commercial health and what would best make her grow. As the special interest physicians diagnosed the case, Duluth was very ill and anemic because of the high cost of living.

"Now mark you, the price of living is higher today than ten years ago. In this suffering city of Duluth.

"That diagnosis by the clever doctors of the special interests made the people attempt to find a remedy through the investigation and regulation of the Michigan street commission houses. Those purveyors of things that sustain life were voted guilty but as nothing could be done to remedy conditions, a propaganda was started to develop agriculture in St. Louis county.

"Some doctors of the special interests prescribed and indorsed this as an ethical remedy for local human ills, and although selfish in trying the remedy, since the Northern Pacific and Duluth & Iron Range railroads owned 2,000,000 acres of lands that had been granted at the expense of the common people, good really came out of the matter.

"Here those special interests fell short in making Duluth carry the entire load of developing agriculture, but they succeeded in this ally support the heavy cost of the propaganda, putting entirely too high a price on their lands, or even refusing to sell them at any price; and in failing to give adequate and satisfactory accommodations to the public within Duluth's territory, especially along the Northern Pacific and Great Northern lines.

"Prescience of Perplexity.

"Duluth people persisted in being perplexed over the fact that other cities were growing, getting factories and mills and satisfactory service by public service corporations, although their own people, good really came out in some cases, than in Duluth.

"Therefore the learned doctors, urged on by the special interests, again diagnosed and decided that there was a serpent in Eden. They said that the one worst symptom of all, Pricelessness, had been the cause of the abundance but still Duluth failed to pick up or to come into her full measure of health and strength.

"Another diagnosis seemed imperative. The real trouble has been located. The Twin Cities are the real cause. They have combined with the railroads. The discriminating rail and rate rates, in fact, the Twin Cities was and is the cause of Duluth's ills. Lake Superior nearly 200 miles further back than Duluth. No big blower over the ridge and into the remote bear trails of the stump lands.

"The second diagnosis and contained some truth but was entirely inadequate to make Duluth as sick as she was.

"These doctors for the special interests failed, however, to note or report existing conditions. They forgot to take into account the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, strictly a Duluth enterprise, grown into proportions second to none on the American continent, in spite of conditions that the wise doctors said would make us believe made such growth impossible.

"These experts in municipal and commercial health forgot to tell about the F. A. Patrick company which, a few years ago, was but an experimental station in wholesale drygoods but which has grown to be the pride of the city.

"Concerns like these do not seem to be badly hampered by lake and rail rates, which are reputed to keep away wholesale houses and manufacturing enterprises.

"Take the wholesale grocers—where will you find men with bigger minds, wider experiences, heavier financial resources and more prosperous trade?

"Now, my fellow citizens, I propose to make a diagnosis of my own, despite the protests of the special interest doctors of the special interests. I propose to dig this woodchuck out of his hole. I propose to show you the real cause of Duluth's weakness and retarded development.

"The Hill interests, by grant and purchase, by cunning and design, secured as much of Duluth's water front and terminal facilities as to give most assurance that no other railroad interests, outside the Hill interests, ever could enter Duluth, unless graciously permitted on Mr. Hill's own conditions.

"Note the condition of the Canadian Northern today, unable to get north the business center of Duluth than West Duluth—conditions conditions laid down by other railroads.

"These several adjustments of which worth little as it was not dock frontage in the city, but not fit for business. But the gentlemen leading the conservation club here and the supposedly standing for Duluth, backed up the opinion of the Northern Pacific and the Soo might have been the narrow strip, less than one acre, over Duluth. The appraisement commission, however, valued the right-of-way at but $2,000, and the Northern Pacific accepted the same without legal objection. These facts are taken from the records.

"With this sort of leadership, with this sort of commercial bossism, do you wonder why we have neither factories nor mills? Do you wonder why Duluth does not grow? The big interest in this country, whose officers and directors are residents of New York and the East, can certainly not be in accord with this attempt to bottle up our city, whose people are endowed with a friendship and loyalty, and this alliance and respect that would challenge the admiration of any big industrial and business center. Duluth has saved the big interest of this country many millions of dollars.

"Leadership requires co-operation, and in Duluth's common cause you will find not only the railroads represented, but as well, a couple of financial institutions and two or three jobbing houses.

"This triple alliance on offensive and defensive lines is intimately associated, connected and joined together, and this triple alliance, this conservation of special interest, this centralization of power, is the very thing that has shaped us as to be in the hands of a very few, is the one influence in Duluth above all others that is today throttling this city's growth and expansion.

Members Not at Fault.

Far be it from me to indict the thousands of members of this club for in so doing I would actually indict myself. The great majority of commercial club members are residents of Duluth and are working for Duluth's success, but by cunning and design their interests are almost completely frustrated through this triple alliance and through a selfishness which is not in the position with larger interests, disqualifies and unfit for such leadership. As a friend, neighbor and citizen he has no peer.

It is surely pertinent to ask what this triple alliance has accomplished for Duluth in the past five years, outside and beyond the real secured friendships for the expansion of certain jobbing interests.

"The factory, mill or jobbing house has the Commercial club brought to this city, and the Commercial club interest has this club induced to come to Duluth. What are the accredited benefits to Duluth outside of fuss and blarney, beyond agricultural propaganda which is direct benefiting the 2,000,000-acre land grant given the Northern Pacific and Duluth & Iron Range roads by this state? It must be admitted that Duluth will eventually be benefited, but should not this campaign be carried on at the expense of the city? When these lands in many instances have been advanced fully $10 to $12 per acre, the besting of the city campaign? Why should the Commercial club be expected to bend its every energy in this line? Why should these land-granted railroads have inaugurated such a system of experimental farms instead of waiting for such men as John G. Williams, C. J. Hartley, Dr. W. W. Magle and others, who have long ago demonstrated a great capacity for adaptability and productivity of the soil of this section? If the Commercial club is so straitlaced as to be in behalf of agriculture for the benefit of Duluth, why was it that C. P. Craig and John G. Williams, who have alone had to spend their own time and money in the last legislative session in St. Paul, for the purpose of having laws here an experimental school? I speak to you men not with the motive of fault finding, but to prove to you and awaken your interest in Duluth that you may see Duluth as it really is and take your own course as stimulated to revise the existing evils.

Traffic Commission Free.

"I am the president of the one branch of Commercial club activity which is fortunately comparatively free from the blighting influences of the alliance, for at the head of the traffic bureau, and best men, not only of Duluth, but of the entire Northwest, are in the Commercial club and free from corporate influence and who can without fear or favor represent all of the people of this city and as a result of his leadership this city has gained equitable rates on grain with Minneapolis from the Western wheat fields.

"My object men, is to arouse you to a full responsibility of your duty to the city in which you live and be representative of the people and construct a club that is purely representative and in shorn of every special interest and every attempt to centralize and monopolize.

"You must organize a club that stands for Duluth. It must be a representative body in which the people will have voice and can participate, not only at social functions and in the use of the commissary department, but at all of the deliberations of the club. You must organize it and secure a wide awake man as secretary, equal to the position, a bright, active, energetic young man who knows how to work and who is willing to give all his time and energies to the work of a man who is not afraid to turn down any person who seeks to block the coming of any industry to Duluth, but who stands willing and ready to welcome every enterprise to this city, irrespective of whose trail he may camp on.

"It must not be a club that will continuously seek to attract a salary and control every other civic organization standing for a bigger and better Duluth. It must be a club that is not a steam roller method to civic clubs seeking to advance by independent methods the best interests of Duluth. Such a club, divorced of all existing evils, can then be a club that can be easily and readily represent all classes of men and interests in this city. Duluth and its citizens can we have a united citizenship in which every man will have hand and heart in the cause of Duluth.

Winnipeg and Duluth.

Raymond M. Huggins, I want to know why it was that Winnipeg, only half as old as Duluth, was twice as big. He compared the country about Winnipeg with that around Duluth, contrasting the poor and sparsely settled territory north and east of Winnipeg with the wonderfully resourceful country north and northeast of Duluth. He also spoke of Duluth's enormous advantage of position at the head of the 'unsalted seas,' and of the splendid agricultural region to the west. Yet something was holding Duluth back while Winnipeg forged ahead. What Duluth lacked, he said, was proper passenger train service. He declared that the train service west of Winnipeg was excellent, while that afforded Duluth by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern was wretched. He declared that the Northern Pacific had never given Duluth the proper train service. He said the Northern Pacific did more business in Duluth in one month than it did in St. Paul in a year, and yet that railroad discriminated against Duluth. The Great Northern, he said, collected more freight out of Duluth than out of any other city. Yet both of those roads were run in such a way that to come from any small town west of Duluth to this city, one almost always had to go down to the Twin Cities and then come back to Duluth to get proper train connections. He spoke of a time when a large party of Shriners, on coming directly from Fargo to Duluth, found that all their baggage had been routed to Duluth via the Twin Cities. The result was that they had to go without their baggage all day, waiting for it to come to Duluth. When one attempted to go directly between Duluth and the West he was apt to be obliged to lay over some thirteen hours at a small country station to make train connections. Here was a city half a century old with better natural advantages than Chicago. The freight and passenger service were doubling. Yet what ruins were the people getting for the unfair treatment that they were suffering at the hands of the railroads in favor of the Twin Cities.

Landslide Kills One.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 8.—A landslide near Tye, on the Great Northern railway, west of the long Cascade tunnel, buried five laborers yesterday. One man was killed, the other four were taken out alive. The weather in the mountains is warmer and snow is falling. The slides are almost continuous.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Gossip, Comment and Sporting Editorial Review
as Written By Bruce.

It is reported on the best of authority and several sporting pages that Ralph De Palma, some driver, oh yes, some driver of the benzine, is going to quit the racing game and leer in the expectant countenance of the Grim Reaper, the dismal entertainer. Here's letting go a battered two-bit piece that you'll find him back in the game.

Did ye ever read Thackeray's "Vanity Fair"? There's an old kink by the name of Sedley who's been hit an awful kick by the market. He's down and out, and he's selling the furniture and seek modest quarters and all that sort of thing, you know.

This and Sedley have been brought up in the big league stuff; big business, large transactions, and all that sort of thing. His son comes to the front and the old gent enough to keep him on speaking terms with the butcher and grocery man. But there wouldn't be any of the East—the old gazabo went to forming combines and had to mortgage his regular remittance to escape the rude and ugly balliffs of that time.

Old man Sedley couldn't keep away from the big stuff. He was down and out, all right, but he didn't know it.

The sporting game isn't, friends, so much different from the other side of life. We are all human, those of us making this great family, and when a poor soul is down and out in the sporting game, he is just like old man Sedley, longing to get back to the triumphs of old.

The old grad, pulling a black clear, which is bad for the wind, sits in the reserved seat section and watches the football game. Someone makes a bum tackle, fumbles a punt, or runs back and is then thrown for a loss.

The old grad bites his kick savage, clenches his fist and says: "I wish I was out there; I'd show them how to play real football!" He mutters beneath his sullen breath and his dinky little mustache.

He really thinks he would. But he wouldn't. Chances are that his body has become soft, his wind rotten and his judgment of distance bad. The second team would find him a mark if he were given a brief trial on the first.

But just the same the old grad longs to get back into the game. Like old man Sedley, he thinks he's there. If it wasn't for the three-year rule he might be playing yet and be good—but, bill, get 'em out and let them cold—well, you know, they don't come back.

Yes, but they try. Wait and see if Ralph De Palma isn't driving this season. Wait and see if Gotch doesn't wrestle again. Tommy Brown is talking about fighting Emma Calve. Couldn't be kept off the stage, more's the pity. Patti was meant to be the public than had been so good to her. Jim Jeffries was lured back to the game. T. R. fell for the fever. Nat Nelson is still going. Kestrel and Jimmie Hill Taft; fat men fall for this stuff, too.

What is it? It's the limelight, my boys—it's the limelight.

There are lots of charming little housewives that hang around the house most of the day and five or six evenings out of the week. They have all the stuff the bright light gazers have, but Bill, get 'em out and let them cold—well, you know, they don't come back.

On the other hand the cafe explorers can't retire. They want to keep on going when they should be old enough to know better. And right here is where a head waiter with jolly can increase the receipts.

The little housewife listens to sophisticated sister's tale of the cabaret and the glitzy and the suddenly remembering, she exclaims:

"Oh, Blanche (or Vivian) come and see the little! That five or six evenings out of the week. They have all the stuff the bright light gazers have, but Bill, get 'em out and let them cold—well, you know, they don't come back."

Well, these limelighters in the athletic game say the same thing when they have been out of it. They long for the adulation, the admiration and all the rifles and thrill that go with big brass symbols, the tom-toms and the big cabaret show. They are lured back, as the light draws the moth. Sometimes when you read, pal, of some fellow trying to come back, don't laugh out uncharitably and yell lustily for the hook; remember, he's human, even as the rest of us—feel sorry for him, rather.

That battered two-bit piece still goes down on De Palma.

ES, we're all sorry to lose Art White. He's a good scout and there'll be a gap in the ranks when he departs. Art's smile was something like the morning sunshine, a sort of cheer institution that made you feel better. Some one with advice to put in books and pamphlets, said something about smiling and watching the world smile back. But we don't all do it. Art White did, and that's one of the fifty-seven varied reasons why so many will miss him. Good bye, Art, old boy, be good. Tell all the baseball stories that maybe he won't, perhaps he's so pal, don't ever permit them to inveigle you into a game. Remember the last time in St. Paul.

OUT on the coast, where the pugilistic procession is proceeding, they are saying that McCarty can't hit. Anyway he should worry. He must have won the world's heavyweight championship (question marks are reserved for the parenthesis) on his shape. Billie Nolan, pilot of the high denomination meal ticket, Willie Ritchie, says Luther can't wallop and never will. But at that the holder of the Uncle Tom McCarty belt has done fairly well for a boy just 20 years of age, and he hasn't been fighting more than a year.

And, by the way, lots of you around here know Charley Cutler, the wrestler. They say he can make $10,000 right away by letting go of his contract with Jess Willard. With all that money he could paper his poolroom, but maybe he won't, perhaps he's so pal, don't ever permit them to inveigle you into a game. Remember the last time in St. Paul.

ZBYSZKO MAY WRESTLE
GOTCH DURING SEASON

Stanislaus Zbyszko, Cyprian, of Poland, is to be given another meeting with Frank Gotch. When Zbyszko first came to the United States he was simply a mountain of brawn, muscle and flesh. He is now an expert wrestler and, as the above picture shows, a real athlete as regards physique.

Not only is Jess Westergaard the champion of America, but he is also the greatest wrestler that the Swedish race has developed since the halcyon days of the great Beck Olson. In Minneapolis last night it was a Swede against a Norwegian, and today the Swedes throughout the Northwest are yelling for the match.

In Duluth it will be a case of a Pole against the great Scandinavian. That this match is one of the real ones of the wrestling season is proven by the eagerness with which St. Paul promoters went hopping on its trail. However, it will be wrestled here, and Duluth fans will see Zbyszko against the best man he has met the present season.

Unless Zbyszko wrestles Gotch the present season, and it is begun to be whispered that the pride of the real ones of the wrestling season is proven by the eagerness with which St. Paul promoters went hopping on its trail. However, it will be wrestled here, and Duluth fans will see Zbyszko against the best man he has met the present season.

WESTERGAARD
WINS MATCH

Defeats Ordeman of Minneapolis for Heavyweight Championship.

Ordeman Gets First Fall and Westergaard Gets Next Two Easily.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 8.—After Henry Ordeman of Minneapolis had the first fall on a half nelson and croch and in twenty-four minutes his opponent, Jess Westergaard of Des Moines, won two straight falls here last night and claims the heavyweight wrestling championship of America. Frank Gotch, retired champion, was referee.

Westergaard won both his falls on a reverse nelson. The first in nineteen minutes and the second in one and a half minutes. Ordeman's hip and shoulder were injured in the second fall.

Both Martin and Munch are defeated by the Duluth flyer, attempts will be made to get a race with Harley Davidson, the St. Paul skater, who is the undisputed champion of the world. Harley is in Australia by the present time, but is expected to return before spring. A meeting between Davidson and Bryant would really show whether the little local flyer can class with the very best men in the world.

Three years Bryant has been skating around the Head of the Lakes. He has defeated every man and child around these dignities. After conquering the best skaters in Duluth, Superior, St. Paul and Minneapolis, Frank looked for more worlds to conquer. He ran afoul of Harley Davidson at the old Lincoln park rink, and the head of the world's champion skater proved too much for the mere kid.

Now it is believed that the race would be different. Since that race with Davidson, Bryant has gone right on getting better. He has taken several trips throughout the Northwest, defeating every man who met him. He had added the scalp of Joe Munch to his collection, and has worked to the point where he stands ready to challenge Davidson.

Frank Bryant is a fast, rummy, heady youngster, and a race between the local star and Davidson would be a contest well worth seeing.

Palmer After Wells. Will Try to Climb-Back to Championship Level—Not Much Hurt.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Al Palmer is going to England to fight Bombardier Wells as the first step in an attempt to climb back to a position from which to challenge for the championship honors. This announcement was made by Palmer here yesterday. He was a fellow passenger with Frank Chance, the baseball leader, on the train from Los Angeles.

Palmer had a slightly discolored eye at a moment in his fight with Luther McCarty on New Year's day. He said that he suffered little in the battle, however, and was able to continue when he was declared a defeated man by the referee.

tention, and he wanted to see if he could "get along without the national game for one year anyway."

Knowing that Mr. Farrell expected him to lead his club, he had made the long trip from California to tell the Eastern magnate personally rather than write him, that he could not accept the place this year.

Mr. Farrell visited E. B. Johnson, president of the American league, who is ill. Chance expected to begin negotiations looking to the sale of his home in Ravenswood. He expected to leave for California Saturday.

Frank Bryant, Northwestern champion roller skater, was yesterday matched for a series of races with Joseph W. Munch of Milwaukee at the Nicollet rink of Minneapolis.

Munch is the skater whom Bryant defeated for the title. In the event that the little Duluth boy is victor in the coming speed contests with Munch he will take on Fred Martin, the Pacific coast champion, the races to be held at the Riverview skating rink of Milwaukee.

CRITICISM IS CHEAP; CONSTRUCTION TAKES WORK

Vice Chairman of Public Affairs Committee Replies to P. E. Dowling.

Says Whole Address Is a Tissue of Misrepresentations.

"A tissue of misrepresentations and misstatements of facts," is the manner in which P. E. Dowling's address at the banquet of the Greater Duluth club last night was characterized today by Julius H. Barnes, vice chairman of the public affairs committee and chairman of the traffic commission of the Commercial club. In the absence of W. A. McGonagle, the chairman, Mr. Barnes was asked for a reply today.

In defense of Chairman W. A. McGonagle and the work of the Commercial club, Mr. Barnes said: "Loyalty to a friend and honor due to a man of high civic ideals compel me to protest against such unjust and unfair criticism of men and motives as was presented at a public meeting last night."

Two columns of denunciation of railroad and commercial institutions in our Commercial club is followed by a paragraph of commendation of the work of myself and associates in the traffic bureau. I repudiate the praise of the traffic bureau in connection with the criticism of one of our best citizens and his associates. The work of the traffic bureau, consisting of the railroad, has brought necessary conflict with the city, but it is a conflict which we have never hesitated to attempt to settle in a proper way. Through all of this we have had the heartiest support of Chairman McGonagle. The so-called railroad affiliation has never induced him to attempt to hold our hands in the prosecution of questions with the railroads and disputes with them.

In a condition of health which should long ago have forced his retirement from public duties except for a most conscientious desire to serve the community in which he lives, Mr. McGonagle is under orders today to take a forced vacation at once for his recuperation. This attack comes with especially bad grace at such a time and a man who really criticizes one of the big constructive forces working unselfishly for the welfare of this city should know his facts first.

Constructive Work Needed.

"The whole address of Mr. Dowling's is a tissue of misrepresentations and misstatements of conditions and facts. Not one single project that meant the advancement of Duluth's interests has ever been framed upon nor stifled by Mr. McGonagle and his associates. Every plan that met the ordinary requirements of business analysis and ordinary common sense has received his encouragement in time and effort and in money."

The great body of our citizens who believe in the future of this city and are willing to give something of their time and care to develop it, will continue to work with the constructive forces and without indulgence of more criticism and detractors. Criticism of public works is cheap but constructive work requires sacrifice of time and effort and money.

"I want to express public appreciation of a citizen whom all Duluth should delight to honor, fair, just, able and energetic. I say this for the enlightenment of all those good citizens who want to know the truth, who believe in this city and desire honestly to forward its development."

"It is no time in Duluth for a division of effort. The city stands at the beginning of a great future. It has had a good past. A larger percentage of income should be used for the betterment of this city, needs no explanation as to what is wrong with Duluth."

Fair discussion and patient investigation point the proper way; then intelligent, vigorous effort is needed, not idle criticism."

COMPLETE TANGLE ON SPEAKERSHIP

Illinois Legislature Is Split Into Dozen Factions.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—When Secretary of State Cornelius J. Doyle called the house to order by the convening of the forty-eighth general assembly at noon today members faced the most complex tangle in connection with the speakership in the history of the state. With the four political parties represented on the floor split into nearly a dozen factions, each predicted that the house members would battle all day without electing a speaker.

Lieutenant Governor John G. Oglesby, who called the senate to order, faced a situation approximating that in the house.

The complexity of administering the oath of office to members and other details took up some time this morning. The speakership contest in the house and the speakership contest in the senate were placed ahead by the members presiding officer.

In the house, Homer J. Tice, the eleventh-hour nominee of the Republican caucus for the speakership, drew considerable support from William Hubbard of Carrollton, a Republican, getting a majority of the Republican support.

PLAN SUBMITTED TO THE POWERS

Proposes Retention of Adrianople By Turks After Dismantling.

Constantinople, Jan. 8.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, has submitted to the powers a proposal preserving Adrianople to Turkey, according to a statement made today. The retention of the city will be subject to the dismantling of the fortifications and under economic restrictions. It is understood that the proposal stands a good chance of acceptance.

NEW OFFICES FOR CANADIAN NORTHERN

Suite of Rooms in Fidelity Building Has Been Leased.

The Canadian Northern railway company will soon open general offices on the seventh floor of the Fidelity building. For the present the offices of an auditor will occupy half the seventh floor, but it is understood that the road has an option on more room, and perhaps that there will be a semi-headquarters here. About fifteen clerks will be employed here.

Moline, Ill., Jan. 8.—Frank G. Allen,

Only One Way to END CATARRH

Reach the raw, tender, inflamed membrane infested with Catarrh germs, and destroy them. You can reach the nooks and crevices with liquid preparations—there is only one way—breathe the germ destroying air of Booth's HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mei) directly over the inflamed and germ infested membrane.

HYOMEI contains no opium, cocaine or other harmful drugs, it is a balsamic air made of Australian eucalyptus, thymol, and some Listerian antiseptics. It is guaranteed to end the misery of Catarrh and Croup, or money back. It's the cure for Colds and Coughs.

Ask about Booth's HYOMEI outfit to-day—bottles are only $1.00. Extra bottles, if later needed, 50 cents. Druggists everywhere. Just breathe it—no stomach dosing. Boyce Drug Store guarantees it.

* 1912 includes Virginia courthouse.

Disbursements from the St. Louis county treasury during the year 1912 exceeded those during 1911 by $725,850.02, according to figures now obtainable at the office of County Auditor Olin Halden. During 1912, the various county funds were drawn upon to the amount of $6,812,988.40, as compared with $6,017,138.38 for 1911. But a small percentage of this amount went for running expenses of the county or for public improvements. Of the $6,812,988.40 paid out during the past year, $5,731,225.60 went to the state and various tax districts, the county acting merely as a collecting agency.

The amount of $5,731,225.60, with which the county had nothing to do except to collect and apportion it, was divided as follows: Paid to the state, $2,233,354.08; paid to school districts, $224,098.70; paid to cities, towns and villages, $2,144,634.09. Out of $5,077,584.00 collected and apportioned to the state, $4,905,994.23 went to the state government, $2,009,255.38 to the various cities, towns and villages of the county and $2,144,634.09 was apportioned to the various cities, towns and villages.

The most notable increase for 1912 is shown in the amount paid out of the state fund. The figure last year exceeds 1911 by $452,252.78. There is also an increase of $24,098.70 shown in the 1912 disbursements to the school districts. Payments from the fund for cities, towns and villages show a gain of $41,222.06 for 1912.

The only decreases shown are in expenditures from the county revenue fund and in the amount of interest paid on outstanding bonds. The latter is the most notable, the county cutting down its bond interest expense $29,967.50. The figures also show that the county poor commission made a saving of $2,563.45 as compared with 1911.

The actual county running expenses for 1912, which include disbursements from the county revenue, poor, care and control of courthouse, sanatoria and miscellaneous funds, show a gain over 1911 of $15,521.96. This does not include money spent on road construction.

For bonds taken up, interest, etc., the county last year paid out $204,753.90, as compared with $200,753.90 for the year previous. During the year 1912, the county expects to take up the Mesaba aid bonds which were issued twenty years ago for $250,000.

The matter of the injunction of the bonding company holding bonds for the street railway company against the city for the purpose of preventing proceedings of the city to annul the franchise of the company, will not come up until the regular term of United States court which will begin on Jan. 14. It is believed that a date for hearing will be stipulated between the parties and it is expected that that date will be Jan. 20.

Frank Day in Hospital.
Rochester, Minn., Jan. 9.—Frank A. Day, private secretary to the late Governor John A. Johnson, submitted to a surgical operation at St. Mary's hospital here Tuesday. His condition is not considered serious. Mrs. Day and a daughter are in the city with him.

Under Social Control.
Societies are placed under complete control of the insurance department of the state, subject to state inspection just as old line insurance companies, banking associations or other financial institutions are placed under inspection requirements.

"In order to provide against frauds and deceptions on the part of officers of societies, we can not understand the present outcry against the laws of Minnesota. Your laws are good and are administered by an efficient and honorable man as has ever served as commissioner in any state. J. O. Freese is an honorable, well informed and forceful man and if the people of Minnesota do not want to be jobbed they will do well to follow his advice."

"The proposed attack upon the administration of the insurance department and the attempt to provide for wide open legislation by the insurance Modern Woodmen of America is vicious and should be frowned upon. Unfortunately men who are hurt by the readjustment of rates by that society do not realize that it is a question of life and death with the society itself. If the present plan of readjustment adopted by the St. W. A. fails, it will sound the death knell of the society. Many of the members who are misleading the members of that organization know better, but for personal and private reasons prefer to attack and destroy the society itself."

"In fact, the present situation of the Modern Woodmen is deplorable and I fear, is getting worse every day. The management is making a horrible struggle to protect and save the society from going on the rocks and is entitled to the sympathy and support of every citizen of Minnesota."

"The society I am connected with is the Royal League. We readjusted our rates in 1908, on a table higher than the table adopted by the Modern Woodmen of America. As a result we have today a satisfied membership on adequate rates and are making as fine a financial showing as any society doing business in the state. Our surplus has grown to over $2,250,000, more than $300,000 it invested in the state of Minnesota."

Governor Marshall Makes Sharp Criticism in His Final Message.

Says the Supreme Bench Usurps Functions of the Legislature.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—"Unless progressive legislation is enacted, the people, some day, will open up the cul-de-sac even though the opening may lead representative government over a precipice into pure socialism or paternalism," said Governor Marshall in his message to the Indiana legislature today.

"Representative government does not mean that present-day conditions cannot be remedied. Upon the contrary, progressive legislation may be enacted with no disturbance to the checks and balances of our system of government."

"The last general assembly, recognizing our unfortunate condition with reference to the amendment of the state Constitution, ordered presented for adoption or rejection by the people at the election in 1912 a new Constitution. An action was brought to enjoin and restrain the governor and the other members of the state board of election commissioners and the secretary of state from putting the question of adoption or rejection upon the ballot. The litigation resulted in a permanent injunction by the Indiana supreme court upon a divided opinion, three members of the court being in favor of the injunction and two against it."

"With utmost respect for the majority of the supreme court, I felt that I had usurped the functions of the legislative and executive branches of government; that the sheriff of the court would have a rather interesting time in getting possession of my body and punishing me for contempt; and that such decisions, given greater impetus to the recall of judges and decisions than all the opinions of our laymen touching the usurpations of the courts. Yet, I realized I might be wrong."

Possibility of a Review.

"Though believing that it was making of the supreme court the only branch of government which we had still I felt that this was a possibility of a judicial review. I should not set myself up as a judge and resist by force of arms the theory of an encroachment of the judiciary upon constitutional rights. I was wholly unwilling to permit my personal views to result in anarchy. I believed that an orderly procedure with respect for the court, however, little respect I might hold for its opinion, was the one thing for me to pursue. I felt assured that the supreme court of the United States would not punish me for trying to be a law-abiding citizen by refusing to decide the great questions involved in this controversy upon the theory that they were not judicial but political in their character."

"The question has not passed beyond the mere domain of party politics. The majority opinion leaves the state in doubt as to whether it can even call a constitutional convention, and as to whether our fathers did not foresee upon posterity its right to alter and reform the system of government. It also leaves involved a far greater determination—that of the right of the court to strip the legislature and executive of their constitutional rights and to set itself up, not as a co-ordinate, but as a supreme, branch of government."

"In accordance with these views, I have sued out a writ of error to the supreme court of the United States with confidence that that court will assume jurisdiction and decide the questions involved and set me free if I thought I was right. I should have totally disregarded the decision of the supreme court, defied its authority, thrown its sheriff out of my window, called out the militia to defend my position and submitted the question to the people regardless of the court."

Warning Against Usurpation.

Governor Marshall's message contained a warning against the subtle influences of the lobbyist and recommended that all bills be reported out of committee within four days. Governor Marshall suggests among other things that a Panama Pacific exposition commission be appointed. He recommends the enactment of an inheritance tax law.

Legislation to prohibit stock watering and to prohibit the use of money in investing their money in that which is not property but mere promise in those schemes which are ordinarily known to the business world as "blue sky."

Immediate enactment of a workmen's compulsory compensation act. Anti-loan shark legislation. That trust companies be treated the same as banks and that the people be protected against them.

Stringent housing laws. Establishment of a state penal farm for male prisoners.

Strengthening of laws against sale and use of cocaine and opium. Revocation of liquor licenses upon conviction of their holders. Ratification of proposed amendment for popular election of senators.

DISTRICT COURT JURORS ARE IDLE.

These are quiet days for the January term jurors of the district court. Since the call of the jury cases which began Monday, only one action has been brought to trial. A verdict in this case was returned yesterday afternoon.

An unusually large number of the cases which have been called for trial by jury at this term have been settled out of court, or at least stricken from the calendar.

Judge Ensign has charge of the calendar term.

MICHIGAN WOMEN MAY YET VOTE.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 9.—In the lower house of the legislature yesterday Representative H. H. H. of Detroit introduced a resolution providing for re-submission to the voters at the spring elections in April next of the Constitutional amendment giving women the right of suffrage.

The amendment was defeated last November by a few hundred votes.

HAS WIVES TO GIVE AWAY

Boston Woman Wants Governor to Vouch for Character of Some Possible Husbands in Duluth.

Do you want a wife?
If so, apply to Mrs. Charlotte Smith of Boston.

According to a dispatch received from Boston, Mass., today she is to have wives to give away.

The Herald today received this dispatch: "Mrs. Charlotte Smith of Boston is to send bachelor girls to your city for husbands, provided the governor of the state will vouch for the character of the men."

Aside from the stupendous task the writer of the telegram plans for the governor, the chief phase of interest is that the bachelor girls of the city had better get busy. If they are not well enough acquainted with the men of the city, they might ask Governor Eberhart, who is vouching to grin New England for the character of the men of Duluth. Maybe the governor will start a state matrimonial bureau. Two or three of the bachelors of Duluth who were shown the telegram received this morning by The Herald got "sore"—not.

One did not say: "We need no importations. In Duluth right here, we have the finest bunch of bachelor girls that the country affords. The Duluth girls are too practical and seem to think that sentiment is a thing apart. Well so far as I'm concerned, I'm willing to make it a thing apart if they will listen to it on that basis. Gee, but we have a fine bunch of girls in this town, and I would like to capture one only they don't seem to care about listening to me. Other fellows have the same experience, so that is my only consolation. The dispatch neglects to state who Mrs. Charlotte Smith is, and gave no information about the wives to be or who is vouching for them aside from Mrs. Charlotte.

Railroads Refused at First.

New York, Jan. 8.—To arbitrate or take a strike vote, is the alternative confronting the representatives of 24,000 firemen on fifty Eastern railroads. Through their conference committee, the managers of the railroads rejected yesterday afternoon the firemen's proposal to arbitrate under the Erdman law their demands for increased pay and other concessions. Instead, the

Gall Stones Removed Without an Operation

After suffering for one year with gall stones, I was told by a friend to try Swamp-Root. I began with the fifty cent size and after using four bottles found that I was much better. Then began using the larger size bottles and after taking three bottles I was cured. That has been seven years ago this summer and I have never been sick since that time from this disease.

I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to any one for kidney and bladder troubles hoping it may do as much good for many people as it did for me.

Yours truly,
MISS EMMA HOLDEFER,
20 North Thorpe St., Kansas City, Kan.,
State of Missouri.

On the 11th day of August, 1909, personally appeared before me, a Notary Public in and for said County and State, Miss Emma Holdefer, who subscribed the within statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

MORE FLOUR MADE HERE

Milling Business Creeping
Back to What It Used to Be.

Nearly 1,000,000 Barrels
in 1912.

The flour milling business at the American Head of the Lakes, while by no means what it once was, has been increasing. During the year 1912 the total shipments of flour into the Head of the Lakes amounted to 5,382,150 barrels and the shipments out came to 6,566,610 barrels. The flour manufactured in the two cities during that year came to 3,844,490 barrels. During the year 1911 the total shipments of flour into Duluth and Superior amounted to 4,235,970 barrels and the total shipments out of these cities came to 4,516,565 barrels. During that year 729,845 barrels were manufactured in the two cities.

The amount manufactured in Duluth and Superior in 1912 was larger than that manufactured here in any other year since 1902. In 1910 there were manufactured 781,790 barrels, and in 1909, 624,240 barrels.

The largest amount of flour manufactured in these two cities in any one year was 560,023 barrels, produced in 1902. The small amount was 345,460 barrels in 1900, the year when the great merger known as the United States Flour Milling company went to pieces.

The export flour business of the Head of the Lakes has been likewise increasing. In 1912, Duluth and Superior exported 156,755 barrels. This was the largest quantity exported in any one year since 1905. In 1911 the exports amounted to 47,325 barrels; in 1910, 51,065 barrels; in 1909, 76,250 barrels. The largest amount exported since 1899 was 1,228,292 barrels in 1896. The smallest year's export was 19,900 barrels in 1906.

It is interesting to note in this connection that while the large wheat crop of the Northwest has greatly increased the flour milling business at the Head of the Lakes, it has at the same time worked quite a diminution in the price of flour. A year ago, when No. 1 northern wheat brought a cash price at Duluth of $1.06, the best flour sold by the single barrel at $5.60. Now, with the same wheat selling for cash at 81 cents, the price of a barrel of flour has dropped to $4.60.

the record to the district attorney of the district of Columbia for criminal prosecution.

The case threatens to involve the ultimate question of the money trust, the fact that the money trust, which probably would be taken to the supreme court, is a national bank, and that among the government's legal experts in the department of justice differ.

If the Henry case is fought out to the conclusion the committee is in the questions to which it is related, may be blocked pending a decision.

As one of the star witnesses in the search for the so-called money trust, George F. Baker, who is on today's program of the house money trust committee, Mr. Baker, who with J. L. Morgan and James Stillman, make up, according to Senator Underwood, the full group of financiers in New York, was called to testify before the committee.

The relations of these three men, the institutions in which they are factors and the funds they control.

A retinue of attorneys accompanied the New York financiers to the hearing, headed by Mr. Baker, his brother, and chief counsel and former Senator John C. Spooner. They still guard his interests while he is under the examination of Mr. Underwood.

Mr. Baker, despite his seventy odd years, appeared cheerful and hearty as he prepared to submit himself to what promised to be a long ordeal in the witness chair. He is robust and ruddy.

Before the examination of Mr. Baker began an executive session of the committee, in which the national banks which were called to testify to the speaker of the house and the case of George C. Henry, who declined on Wednesday to reveal the names of the financiers who participated in the syndicate flotation of the California Petroleum company.

Mr. Baker testified that in 1874 the capital of the First National was $500,000, increased in 1901 to $1,000,000 by a dividend of $500,000; surplus of $1,000,000 was paid after that dividend. He went over the yearly dividend of 20 to 25 per cent.

In the last four years dividends of 25 per cent have been paid. In 1906, beside a regular dividend of 32 per cent an extra dividend of 10 per cent was declared for maintaining the First National security to do business not authorized by the national bank act. He said the company did little business in stocks.

Mr. Baker testified that in 1908 he owned individually more than one-half of the stock of the Chase National bank. None, he said, was held by the First National.

He could not say when that control was acquired but thought about five years ago. He said no assets of the First National had been used for the purchase of the Chase stock.

Non-partisan Primary Bill.
A sweeping new deal in public affairs in Minnesota is proposed in a bill offered by Senator Julius C. Collier, Democrat. It puts on the non-partisan ballot at primary elections all state and local officers except the governor, lieutenant-governor, members of legislature and United States senators and congressmen. It provides that when any candidate, running on the non-partisan ticket, gets a majority of all votes cast in the primary election, he shall be declared the winner and it through the general election, and it provides that the primaries shall be held in June.

Public Utility Bill.
Senator Murray offered a public utility bill, based on New Jersey system, creating a commission of three members into the hands of which all power over all public utilities, including railroads, is to be put, with ample authority to regulate services, charges, issuance of securities, etc. Senator Murray's idea, he stated this morning, was to merge the railroad and warehouse commission into this new body.

Wants Seventy-Day Session.
Senator Sageng proposed a seventy-day session instead of a ninety-day session in a resolution offered this morning, which provides for final adjournment March 20 instead of about April 25. His request, the resolution was referred to the rules committee.

Sensor Wilson delayed consideration of his resolution protesting against the exemption of American coastwise vessels from Panama canal tolls, at the request of the committee, in a bill introduced by him today.

A strict anti-labor bill, forbidding lobbyists to work anywhere around the legislature except to make appearances before committees, was proposed by Senator Murray.

Sensor Forsaugh proposes a tuberculosis sanatorium in each congressional district, under the direction of a state tuberculosis commission, in a bill introduced by him today.

Sensor Murray was the author of a sweeping bill forbidding the white slave traffic within the state or from this state into others and vice versa, under heavy penalty.

Sensor Stebbins proposes public regulation of collection agencies in a bill offered today.

Expert Witness Abuses.
Sensor Forsaugh proposes to abate the expert witness abuse by a bill which came in today, forbidding such witnesses from creating an artificial witness fees except where more is granted by the court, and providing heavy penalties for witnesses who accept greater compensation than this.

The use of automatic shotguns is prohibited in a bill offered by Senator Marden, and Senator Peterson offered a bill forbidding the use of anything more deadly than a bullet in hunting deer.

Sensor Clague, in a bill introduced today, proposes that in civil jury cases, after a verdict has been rendered, a jury may provide a verdict that shall be legal.

The senate adjourned till Monday at 3 o'clock and will also adjourn till Monday to some time Monday, though it promises to be kept busy most of today with the rules committee and several other anti-organization measures. be delayed, now that the conference is suspended, it might become imperative for Europe to take interest in the matter, and the conference would lose the prestige of settling her to dictate her will in smaller matters, such as creating an autonomous Albania and partitioning the Balkans.

One suggestion is that, failing a better solution, Adrianople may be ceded to the powers who could transfer it to the allies after getting the Turks to agree to the terms of the conference, guaranteeing other conditions, as the reservation of religious and property rights to the Turks and the creation of certain courts for the trial of civil suits arising between the Muslims.

EKERN REMOVED BUT WILL MAKE A FIGHT

Wisconsin Insurance Commissioner Discharged By the Governor.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8.—Following a public hearing of the Insurance Commissioner Herman L. Ekern, was formally removed from office by Governor McGovern yesterday on the grounds of "wilful misconduct or neglect of duty," as contended.

The trouble arose over Ekern's reported activity in the interest of L. L. Johnson's candidacy for speaker of the assembly.

Attorneys for Ekern are preparing to take the case to the circuit court. Ekern will fight his removal by every legal means, it is said. The order of removal followed a public hearing held yesterday morning in the executive office, when Ekern and other witnesses were examined in the effort to show whether facts sufficient to warrant removal existed. The governor decided the charges were sustained.

Ekern's Friends Bitter.
Friends of Ekern are bitter against the removal. They will see to it that the senate, which is believed to be favorable to Senator La Follette rather than to the removal, will refuse to sanction the removal. Ekern is an adherent of the senator, who the governor is now avowedly hostile.

Mr. Ekern comes from Whitehall, Trempealeau county. Clem P. Host, Milwaukee, is mentioned as a possible choice for the position. So is also his brother, Zeno M. Host, former insurance commissioner.

DISEASED BEEF SOLD TO INDIANS

Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray Says Department Officials Knew of It.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Sales of diseased beef to Crow Indians with the knowledge of interior department officials was charged today by Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray, an investigator, before the senate Indian affairs committee hearing Senator Townsend's resolution to send the Crow records to the attorney general for investigation.

Mrs. Gray declared that the flesh of cattle with lump jaw, sold to the Indians by Indians of their hands, had produced lump jaw in the Indians. Senator Townsend declared he was convinced by the evidence of their hands, had perpetrated on the Indians and that investigation should be made.

Quick Action Prescription

Cures Colds in a Day

The best and quickest prescription known to medical science for colds and coughs is as follows: "From your drug get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake it well. Take one to two teaspoons after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age." Be sure to get only the genuine Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin seal-top sealed case. Any drugist has it on hand or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. There are many cheaper preparations of large quantity but it doesn't pay to experiment. This treatment is certain cure. This has been published here for six winters and thousands say it has no equal. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.

PEST HOUSE

West End Man Says Quarters Are Cramped and Insanitary.

Says Present Manager Is Not to Blame for Condition.

Severely criticizing the pesthouse for smallpox patients, although warmly commending its management, Gust Landin of 21 North Twenty-first avenue west returned home yesterday, after spending the last two weeks at the house.

Mr. Landin claims that the conditions there are most insanitary, that the place is foul smelling, that twenty-three people were compelled to sleep in six rooms while he was there and that all these people ate and lived in one room. The wagon, which brings the patients to the house, is in a disgraceful condition, he said.

"It is a shame," said Mr. Landin in discussing the house yesterday afternoon, "for the city and county to operate such an institution. The building is an old structure and one of the worst I ever saw. Although the poor farm is but a short distance from the pesthouse, the latter building is lighted by lamplight, while the other institution has electric light.

"The wagon only has one seat and the patient is almost killed making the drive, being constantly thrown about the interior. While I was in the wagon a small glass window broke and the falling glass nearly cut my leg. The city and county should provide for a large wagon, suitably arranged on the interior for the patients. They are not animals, but suffering human beings and they should be treated so."

"While I was at the house there were twenty-three people, confined there. These people, including men, women and children, all lived in one room, in the center of which is a stove. They slept in six rooms. There is a hot air system in the building, but it is now out of order and the foul air from the basement comes up through these open radiators in the floor."

"Neil McDougall, who is in charge of the institution, is a splendid man and it is a shame that he is compelled to work under such conditions. He is always obliging and is willing to do whatever he can. It is not his fault, but those above him, and it is time something should be done."

FROM PEACE RIVER.

Brainerd Man Returns and Tells of Far Northwest.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Newgard, a well-known Brainerd man, has just returned from the Peace River country in Alberta, Can., where he took up land for himself and brothers. In his journey to that section and back Mr. Newgard and his companion traveled over 3,000 miles. Later they met former Brainerd people. The Brainerd family, who have taken up a ranch and who make a business of raising deer, are making a big money. One of the sights along the muskeg trail out of Edson, near Eskim lake, Grande Prairie, are bands of wild horses, the descendants of animals abandoned by the Klondikers on the gold rush of 1898. Each band is led by a big stallion and they are as wild as deer or caribou. They are pretty well settled up, but good home-lands can be obtained in the Peace River district, the beauty spot of the Peace River country.

START MINOT BUILDING.

Believed Government Will Soon Begin Work on New Structure.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 9.—That the government proposes to begin the erection of the new Federal building in the near future is the interpretation generally placed on a letter just received by E. J. Thomas, city engineer, from the supervising architect of the treasury department at Washington. The letter directs Mr. Thomas to begin work immediately on a survey of the Federal building site in this city, and to forward the plans of the survey, photographs of the site, and all other available information in regard to the location. The letter explains that this information is needed as soon as possible, although it makes no explanation of the reason for this haste. The general opinion is that the government is at last ready to prepare plans for the proposed building and desires the information concerning the site on that account.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible. If you are overweight and also have to physical exertion and likewise find the table still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, write the Marmola Co., Farmer Building, Detroit, Mich., and give him (or send them) 75 cents. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat at the rate of 12 to 16 ounces a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that fatty flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural, self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

ORDINARY COWS RECORD MAKERS

Farmer Living Near Brainerd Shows What Good Feeding Will Do.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter Lang, who has a farm of 120 acres in the vicinity of Brainerd, believes in testing his herd of cows, keeping track of the milk and butter they obtained. A cow named Freia, in the past year gave 6,524 pounds of milk which yielded 246.55 pounds of butter fat. Another cow, gave 5,889 pounds of milk which yielded 237.89 pounds of butter fat. Her record for 1912. Beauty gave 6,000 pounds of milk during the year which brought 192.37 pounds of butter fat. Pearl in a year gave 4,170 pounds of milk and produced 172.14 pounds of butter fat. Rosie yielded in 1912 4,665 pounds of milk which gave 185.22 pounds of butter fat. Freia is a half-blood Ayreshire, the second calf of Freia. The figures show what ordinary cows will produce when given good food. They also indicate the trend of the times, doing farming on a business basis and keeping books on each cow. Mr. Lang will gradually replace his herd with blooded stock.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY MEMBERS CONSIDER LOCAL MEASURES

It is stated, one in Duluth and one for the iron range assistant, and the present allowance is insufficient to provide for them.

Traveling Expenses for Gilpin. The same committee was asked to investigate the necessity for the request of Judge of Probate S. W. Gilpin for an increase of $1,000 a year in his salary, and also for the traveling expenses for himself to cover the cost of his range term of court. At present Judge Gilpin is making monthly trips to the range, where he holds terms of court at which estates can be probated, thus saving large sums to the widows and orphans of that section. The county range attorneys transact all intermediate business with the probate court by correspondence, and it is this work on which the request for additional clerk hire is based. There is provision now for paying the traveling expenses of the Judge of Probate, and he is paying them out of his own pocket. The delegation is very likely to grant his request, at least so far as the traveling expenses are concerned. The other requests are being considered. The other requests are being considered. The other requests are being considered.

New Police Pension Bill. The police of Duluth, through Chief Troyer, asked consideration for a new police pension bill. It provides for widows and orphans of policemen, not now provided for by law; it does away with the age limit and puts the requirement solely on years of service and physical condition; and it provides that the policemen shall contribute to the pension fund, which they do not do now. The bill is being considered by the city council. The bill is being considered by the city council.

Board of Welfare Bill. The board of public welfare of Duluth asked consideration for these three general measures: Providing for a legislative reference bureau; providing for the supervision of individuals by public authority; and amending the usury law to make provision for loan associations possible. These are all general bills, not local, and the delegation as a body will take no action on them but its members will consider them carefully. Particular attention will be given to the provision for loan associations possible. These are all general bills, not local, and the delegation as a body will take no action on them but its members will consider them carefully. Particular attention will be given to the provision for loan associations possible.

The only bill local to Duluth that was before the delegation was sent in by H. H. Phelps, authorizing a bond issue of $50,000 to provide for putting Superior street through the point of rocks. No action will be taken on this bill until the council is heard from.

Senator Chadwell, who has interested himself in this measure, says that the plan is to let the $50,000 provided for by the bill act as a revolving fund; to provide a modern rock crusher; to take plenty of time to do the work; to be the sale of crushed rock from the excavation to realize the remainder of the $50,000 that it is estimated the work will cost. An estimate of the cost of the operation is expected by the delegation from the city council.

"No Shustring Districts." The "Shustring districts" which created so much comment two years ago when the Congdon reapportionment bill was before the senate will not be a factor in the new reapportionment measure. The St. Louis county delegation yesterday afternoon decided to make a redistricting of St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties, eliminating the "shustring districts" by which a part of the Mesaba range was attached to Duluth, and turned over to Representatives Knapp, Ribbeck and Warner.

The task of making five senatorial districts in these three counties and distributing five senators and ten representatives—the number provided by the Congdon bill—in a manner satisfactory to all sections. The plan created by this committee will be considered later by the full delegation. The present plan is to have a reapportionment bill introduced in the senate as early as possible, and referred promptly to the reapportionment committee, as a basis for its work. The bill to be introduced, which will be presented by the chairman of the house reapportionment committee—to be named later—will closely follow the lines of the Congdon bill; and if reapportionment is made along constitutional lines it will not be found possible to depart very much from that measure.

"Honest Advertising" Bill. The Minnesota Retail Grocers and General Merchants' association has asked Senator H. W. Chadwell of Duluth to introduce and push an "honest advertising bill," somewhat similar to the one he introduced two years ago. He has just decided what action he will take on it. The measure provides that it shall be a misdemeanor for any person, firm, corporation or association who, with intent to sell or in any way dispose of merchandise, securities, service, or anything offered to the public for sale or distribution, or with intent to increase the consumption thereof, or to induce the public in any manner to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to acquire title thereto, or an interest therein, makes, publishes, disseminates, circulates or causes to be published, or causes, directly or indirectly, to be made, published, disseminated, circulated or placed before the public, in this state, in a newspaper or other printed matter, or in the form of a book, notice, handbill, poster, bill, circular, pamphlet, or letter, or in any other way, an advertisement of any sort regarding merchandise, securities, service, or anything offered to the public, which advertisement contains any assertion, representation or statement of fact which is untrue, deceptive or misleading.

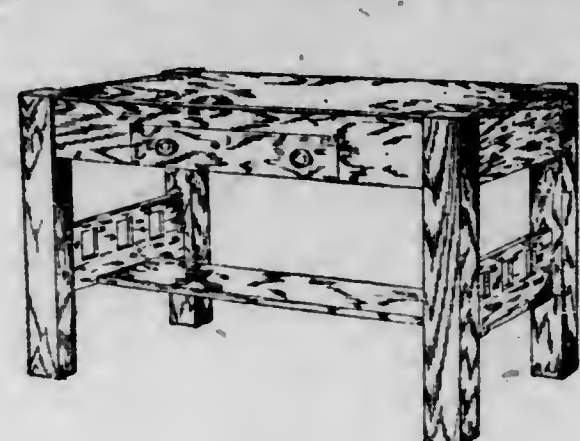

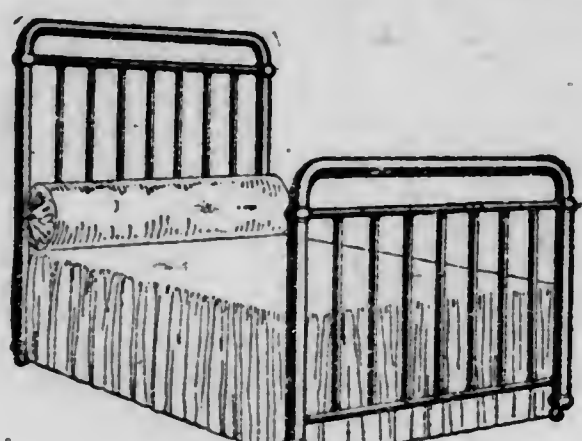

M. H. McMahon of Two Harbors temporarily is dockkeeper at the main entrance of the retail chamber. Harry Lamont of Duluth, by appointment of Senator Phelps, is one of the senate stenographers.

PROGRAM FOR FREE CONCERT

The program for the second in the series of free concerts, to be given next Sunday afternoon in the Masonic temple contains many numbers of interest. Those who care for the vim and stateliness of Wagner will enjoy the "Kaiser" march. Two movements from a Chopin Sonata will please the lovers of the classical. An orchestral suite by Bizet will tickle the ears of those who like dainty ballet music. This number comprises four short movements, including a "Carillon" or church clock movement, and a "Sarabande," a French and Italian village dance. These were originally composed as incidental music for Daudet's play "L'Arlésienne." ("The Woman of Arles"). Light opera will be represented by the overture to the "Pirates of Penzance." A treat is also promised in the vocal numbers, which will be rendered by Miss Carlotta Stockhill, a talented contralto soloist from St. Paul.

CASE OF MYLIUS HELD UP FOR FEW DAYS.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The appeal for admission to the United States of Edward E. Mylius, threatened with deportation at New York because he was convicted in London of criminally libeling King George, will not be decided by Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, until he has heard Edward Holton James, editor of the Liberator, of Paris, in which the alleged libelous story was published. Mr. James is on a steamer due in New York, Jan. 11. He asked Commissioner of Immigration Williams at New York by cable from Paris to delay final disposition of the case until he could present his version of the published account, written by Mylius, alleging that the king of England, years ago, contracted a morganatic marriage. Mr. Nagel granted the request. The immigration special board of inquiry at Ellis Island held that libeling a king was a crime involving moral turpitude, and for that reason, under the immigration laws, Mylius should be denied admission to this country.

ELY'S CREAM BALM OPENS CLOGGED NOSTRILS AND HEAD--CATARRH GOES

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely, Nasty Discharge Stops, Head Colds and Dull Headache Vanish.

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone. End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately. Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucus dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Y. M. C. A. BEGINS COURSE IN SEX HYGIENE FOR MEN

Much has been written recently, on the need of instruction in sex hygiene. In some cities there are societies organized to promote this idea, notably the Society of Sanitary and Moral Prophylaxis in New York, the American Federation for Sex Hygiene of New York, the Health League of New York, the Chicago Society of Social Hygiene, the Boston Health Education society, etc.

The traditional prejudice against discussion of the diseases resulting from the social evil is gradually dying out through the rapidly spreading knowledge among educated people, of their appalling effect upon innocent members of society—knowledge which within a few years has been confined to the medical profession.

Emoryus President Elliot, of Harvard, says: "I am entirely convinced that the policy of silence upon these subjects has disastrously failed. Another subject which ought to be publicly discussed among teachers and parents is the addition to our school programs of instruction in normal production in plants and animals, and sexual hygiene in the human species."

As a result of the publicity given to this need for instruction there has sprung up in most cities a propaganda for this purpose.

Education in Duluth has recently expressed themselves and written about the necessity of this instruction in the public schools.

No organization has done more in this matter than the Y. M. C. A.

For several years Dr. Lyman Sherry has been brought here to lecture and advise any who cared for the advice. Last year Dr. Winfield S. Hall of the Northwestern Medical school spent three days here giving lectures for the Y. M. C. A. before its members. Lectures were given before the high school, the school teachers and before the Commercial club.

In addition a course of studies was carried on throughout the entire winter season for any young men in the city, whether members or not, of the Y. M. C. A.

This year the association is again taking up this matter.

Physicians here have met some woeful ignorance on the part of some of the young men and something is also being done in the line of private advice.

The Y. M. C. A. directors announce that any man in the city may feel free to come to the physical directors for advice without any expense.

To help meet the need a class of instruction is also held every Friday night at 7 o'clock in the special room on the main floor of the Y. M. C. A. building to which any young man, whether a member or not, may come. There is absolutely no expense.

IRON MOUNTAIN CO. PLANS MUCH WORK

Shaft of Cuyuna Property to Be Enlarged to Three Compartments.

Crosby, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. J. St. Germain and B. F. Forrester of Duluth were here the day of the week and stated that the Iron Mountain Mining company has practically completed arrangements for extensive improvements to its property here. The shaft will be enlarged to three compartments 534 feet, inside measurement, and will be sunk to a depth of 900 feet.

The shaft will be built practically the same as the one at the Cuyuna property, and will permit of the operation of two shafts. A large tubular boiler will be installed in case of accident to the present one. Material for the improvements planned has already been contracted for. The company expects to be in a position to ship 20,000 tons next year. It is reported that the 300 line has already completed a survey to the property.

To Build Laboratory.

Lorch Bros. of Virginia will erect a laboratory in Crosby, on the corner of First street South and Third avenue west which will contain all modern improvements. It will be the ninth laboratory that Lorch Bros. have already built in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. The contract for the building has been awarded to Ed. Gustaf and work will be rushed to an early completion. M. C. Hosmer of Hibbing, formerly connected with the Oliver Iron Mining company and the Grassell Chemical company, will be in charge of the laboratory.

CLOQUET HOME BURNS.

Woman of House Saves Her Jewels and Few Clothes.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sam Rivkin's home on Arch street was destroyed by fire last night. The fire originated in the basement, probably from a defect in the furnace, and had such a start within the walls before discovered that little was saved except Mrs. Rivkin's jewels and a few clothes. Mr. Rivkin is proprietor of a clothing store.

PETITIONS COMPLETED

Several Candidates Ready to File, But Charter Prevents.

City Clerk May Receive No Petitions Before Feb. 20.

Although petitions may not be filed until Feb. 20, several candidates for commissioners have already completed their petitions and would file immediately if the charter would allow it.

Marcus L. Fay, candidate for mayor, had his petition completed several days ago. M. J. Philpault, H. H. Phelps and A. H. Donald of West Duluth are all ready to file. W. A. Hicken, alderman from the First ward, said yesterday that his petition is about completed. He will file for a two-year term. W. L. Bernard's friends are busy getting signatures to his petition, and Alderman P. G. Phillips will be a candidate. J. B. Gibson is expected to get into the race, but the pair are the only ones who are in the present council showing signs of being in the contest for the commission.

A petition is being circulated for the nomination of Frederick Murchison, secretary of the board of public works. Mr. Murchison has been in the city hall for many years and is intimately in touch with the work of his department. His friends believe he will stand a good chance of election.

Many of the prospective candidates are holding back to see how the land lies before they get into the race. There is plenty of time. Each petition must have only fifty names, and each of the 11,000 voters in the city may sign five petitions, so there is no chance of the list of eligible signers being exhausted.

Only ten days is allowed for filing petitions, and the city clerk's office will be rushed in the period between Feb. 20 and March 1. On that account the clerk is anxious that all petitions be held to the charter limit of fifty and that the certificates be arranged in alphabetical order.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

ORPHEUM

Amusement Notes.

Blanche Ring, America's foremost singing comedienne, will be the attraction at the Lyceum Sunday and Monday. She is starting this season in "The Wall Street Girl" which is said to be generous in its laugh-producing qualities and its hitting music. "Deedle-Deedle-Dee" has taken the place of Miss Ring's old familiar "Vip-Ady" smile song on Her Comedy. She has found a worthy successor in "I Want a Regular Man." There are eighteen musical numbers in "The Wall Street Girl" and these are all well taken care of by Miss Ring and her comedy company. An attractive chorus will be a feature and in addition Miss Ring will be assisted by Will Rogers, expert lariat thrower, who will introduce his rope specialty in the second act, which represents a scene in Reno, Nev.

Lillian Spencer, who plays the ingenue role in "The Wall Street Girl," was with Maude Adams, playing parts in "What Every Woman Knows" and "Chanticleer." She also played one of the important roles in Miss Adams' big production of "Jean Valere" in the Harvard stadium. Previous to that Miss Spencer was in musical comedy.

"The Three Collegians" who are at the Orpheum this week are in fact what they claim to be—college graduates of recent date.

J. Hugh Fish is a graduate of Yale university, and the other two members of the trio, Frank T. Crumit and Edward O'Rell, are graduates of Ohio university. Fish was the man who organized the trio. He had been prominent in dramatic work in the university and thought that he would like to make that his profession. He was a close friend of Miss Valerie Bergere and she advised him to organize a college trio. By a lucky accident he met Frank T. Crumit, known as "Fat" in the act, and heard him sing. He promptly signed him. "Fat" is a college friend of his and he is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The three were soon added to the trio. O'Rell and Crumit are both members of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The three began their first season out of town, and toured the East last year, that being their first season out of town. They then just six weeks to rehearse their act, get a troupe and secure bookings on the first-class circuits in the East.

A Coffee Cup

Contains Over 2½ Grains of Caffeine.

Physicians recognize this drug to be of poisonous effect upon stomach, heart and nerves. Scientists employed by the U. S. Government found, in the famous Rabbit Case, that an amount of caffeine equivalent to that contained in two average cups of coffee killed a Rabbit.

What wonder then, if you are a coffee-drinker, that you suffer from indigestion, heart disturbance, headache and biliousness, sleeplessness, or nerve irritation?

Multiply 2½ grains of caffeine by the number of cups of coffee you drink each day and you will determine the amount of poison you give yourself daily.

Eminent physicians are protesting against the present use of coffee. (Your family doctor can vouch for this.)

The aches and ills of your own body also protest when the burden becomes too heavy.

Doesn't your own common sense suggest that you quit coffee now?

The New Food-drink,

offers the easy way.

This charming table beverage furnishes a hot drink of remarkable palatability. It has a rich seal brown color which changes to golden brown when cream is added. Tasting much like high-grade Java, it makes the ideal cup for those who want to get away from coffee troubles.

Instant Postum requires no boiling.

It is made "quick as a wink" by pouring hot water upon a level teaspoonful of the powder in a cup and stirring until dissolved. Add sugar and cream to taste and you have a very fascinating beverage.

Grocers sell Instant Postum, 90 to 100-cup tins, 50c; 45 to 50-cup tins, 30c.

DULUTH AND MINNEAPOLIS

A Wandering Newspaper Writer Picks Them as Two Most Promising Cities.

W. D. Taggart of New York, a newspaper man, is making a tour of the country is the interests of the publication he represents, is registered at the Holland for the day.

"On the present trip I have been all over the country," said Mr. Taggart, "and I would like to pick out one or two or even three of the cities I would like to live in during the remainder of my life. I believe Duluth and Minneapolis would run for show with me."

Minneapolis is the greatest of the great cities in the West today. Los Angeles is about the greatest city from many standpoints on the Pacific coast. Louisville is another charming residential city. But for the front and have their greatest growth clearly ahead of them, none of the cities in Minneapolis and Duluth.

Minneapolis today reminds one in a way of New York, and that is the town that I hang my hat in most frequently. It is a city, growing, hustling town, and people down East are looking to it as the liveliest city in the West.

"However Duluth has all the characteristics of the country. I was here last summer and was struck with its handsome appearance. When a man is on the commercial trail a great deal of the time, he comes to regard cities as men do."

"Duluth really hasn't started yet, when it does, honestly believe that it is destined to be one of the largest cities of the country."

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN.

Miss B. K.: The worry and bother of wearing hair-nets and vells to make the hair stay up and conceal that dull "stringy" unkempt appearance you speak of could easily be avoided if you would stop shampooing with soap. The "free" alkali in soap irritates the scalp, makes the hair streaked, dull, coarse and brittle. Shampoo with a teaspoonful of castile soap dissolved in a cup of hot water and your hair will always be light, fluffy and easy to do up, besides looking decidedly neat. This shampoo lathers abundantly, dries quickly, stops itching of the scalp and cleanses as no other shampoo will. The luxury of extreme cleanliness which comes from the use of this shampoo has made it so popular that many of the best hair-dressers now use it exclusively. It is inexpensive and can be bought at any drug store.

Carmen: It is a very easy matter to reduce your weight without leaving the skin wrinkled and flabby if you only know how. Here is the secret: Buy at any drug store four ounces of paraffin and put in 1½ pints of hot water. When cold strain and take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal. This is harmless and the pleasing way it will cut down your weight will surprise you. Avoiding rich, solid foods and taking plenty of exercise will assist greatly in getting rid of your fat quickly.

Nadie: To strengthen your weak eyes and rid them of that dull, overworked look, put in each eye daily two or three drops of a fine, strengthening tonic made by dissolving an ounce of erythrox in a pint of water. This eye-tonic is very soothing and strengthening, and by using it regularly, in a short time it will make your eyes strong, clear and sparkling. I find it unequalled as a good eye-tonic for treating weak, inflamed, expressionless eyes.

Nez G.: Don't worry; almost everybody else has the same troubles. At the approach of winter impurities in the blood usually manifest themselves and what you require to overcome the pimply, muddy complexion which is a good system- tonic and regulator. You can easily make it yourself. Get from your druggist an ounce of karoene and dissolve it in one-half pint alcohol (not whiskey); then add a half cupful of sugar and enough hot water to make a quart of tonic. A tablespoonful taken before each meal will soon rid your system of poisonous accumulations, and make you strong and healthy, bringing the rosy glow of perfect health to your cheeks.

Alma B.: You can rid your skin of those unsightly hairs with a simple paste made by mixing enough powdered talc and water to cover the hairs, and let it remain two or three minutes. Then rub off with Zeas: You must not use face powder if you want a smooth, rosy, healthy complexion. Powder enters the pores, enlarges them and eventually causes coarse, sallow skin—then wrinkles. To have a smooth skin that looks natural and not artificial, you must use cream. Here is a splendid recipe for an inexpensive one: Get from any drug store four ounces of spumax, dissolve it in a half-pint water (or which has) adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply this lotion to your face, neck and arms, rubbing gently a few moments and it will leave a most delicate tone to your skin. This spumax lotion removes the sting and gives you a clean, clear, wholesome look to a sallow skin. If you desire a really charming complexion, talco face powder. They rub off too easily and give that "readily noticeable" "naired" look which this lotion does not. This lotion is fine for cold sores, chaps, pimples, and a sure protection to a delicate skin from biting winds and changes of weather.

AN EXCELLENT MESSAGE.

Governor Eberhart has pointed out a way to fame for the members of the Minnesota legislature. If the lawmakers do nothing more than pass the needed biennial appropriation measures and act according to the program the governor has outlined for them, they will leave a bright mark for this session on the pages of the state's history. Other measures will be introduced, to be sure, of varying degrees of value to the state at large. But the legislative program mapped out by the governor is exceedingly progressive, and is entitled to observance by the lawmakers.

First in interest to Northern Minnesota of the recommendations he makes is that regarding legislative reapportionment, and in the governor's words on this subject there rings a determination to insist on action by the present legislature on a matter too long delayed by selfish interests. The rejection by the people of the proposal to revise the basis of apportionment of representation has removed the last semblance of an excuse for further delay, and the sections of the state which have been forced to get along with unfair and insufficient representation can see new hope for justice at the hands of the men now at St. Paul.

First of all in his recommendations to the legislature, Governor Eberhart places the plan he advocated two years ago for reorganization of the state's governmental departments. He would revise the provisions for the handling of the state's public lands, putting that part of the state's work on a businesslike and practical basis. Nobody will quarrel with this proposal.

Nor will there be any great disposition to find fault with the suggestion that a special department be created to look after agricultural interests in the state. In fact, it must be through some such action as this that the northern counties, just coming into prominence as an agricultural area, are to look for the assistance that is their need and their right in order to help them take their proper place in the work of building up and enriching the commonwealth and making it a haven for homeseekers.

Closely allied to this work that would be of immeasurable benefit to Northern Minnesota, are the proposals for the assessment of state land for the benefit of the settlers who need highways, and the plan for state aid in the construction of good roads. This is a matter that comes very close to the rapidly-filling northern counties, where there has been experienced so much difficulty in getting transportation facilities needed by the settlers. It is unjust to plant a homestead in a locality where he must pass state land to get to a market, and then refuse to help him in the construction of a highway, making him in effect do highway work and bear expense all out of proportion to the benefit that he will get from his labor. Moreover, the providing of state aid in this manner will help reach, just at present, to build up those parts of the state that face conditions similar to those of the old frontier days.

In the way of political reforms the governor's only suggestion is for the provision of presidential preference primaries. This is a matter that already is sure of the sanction of the people, but the governor's recommendation of it to the legislators gives it a start toward realization. It is but a step toward the elimination of the old method of presidential nominations that was thought advisable by the framers of our government in the days when the people were scattered over wide areas, with no ready means of communication, and when it was not recognized that the people could be trusted to do their own thinking.

In line with this is the recommendation for the initiative and referendum as applied to state laws. If the people of the state want these privileges of direct legislation, they should have them. The least that the legislature can do is to give the voters a chance to express their wish in the matter, and there should be no hesitation in doing this.

It would be as well, though the governor did not do more than hint at this, to give the people an opportunity to vote at the same time on the question of extending the franchise to women.

Three other proposals of the governor stand out prominently in the message. One of these is the establishment of a public utilities commission. In the neighboring state of Wisconsin such a body is already at work, and its excellent results have been coming more and more to the attention of the people of Minnesota. As Governor Eberhart points out in his message, twenty-seven other states besides Wisconsin have such commissions at work, and they have more than justified themselves. Minnesota, with its growing number of public utilities, is in need of just such a commission, with ample powers and resources, and the legislature should take this opportunity to provide one.

Workmen's compensation and employers' liability are not new questions for the Minnesota legislature to consider, and there is reason to expect that legislation along this line will be accomplished at the present session. What sort of a bill will be reported remains to be seen. It will be better to pass a law that falls a little short of the demands of both labor and capital than to try to please both sides to the question, as that appears to be the only means of insuring a measure that will provide substantial justice for each. At least it will be interesting to see what kind of a measure is reported by the committee that has been investigating the subject.

One other notably protective measure recommended by the governor is a statute in line with what in Kansas they call "the blue sky law," providing for the protection of investors against the marketing of wildcat stocks and bonds. It is a need that has long been felt in this as in other states, and nothing but state protection in the form of rigid restriction on the marketing of this kind of matter seems able to meet the exigencies of the case. Adequate penalties should be provided for violation of the law.

Taken by and large, the message is an excellent one. It lays down a program of progressive legislation, every step in which is called for by present conditions. The legislature will do well to act upon the suggestions it contains.

Almost everybody will admit that at some time or other he has uttered a profanity that seemed anything but puerile.

IT IS OURS.

There should be no hesitation, no halting, on the part of the forces that are opposing the Lafferty bill, which proposes to turn over the control of the national forests to the separate states. The bill is already safely through the senate at Washington. It must be killed in the house.

What interests are back of this movement has already been shown again and again. The men who want state control of the public domain are the men who believe they could secure special privileges in that domain from the states much easier than they can from the federal government. That is one reason for killing the movement.

Another reason is set forth succinctly and forcibly by the Washington Times, thus:

The public domain of the United States belongs to the people of the United States. It does not belong to the states within which it is situated. It never did.

By statute law and historical custom it is the property of all the people. By statute law and historical custom it has always been administered for the nation at large by the national government. Neither the logic of any political doctrine nor the necessities of existing conditions call for, or justify, either a total abandonment or a partial entailment of that system of national administration.

That the project of the bill to project the protest should be widespread, emphatic and effective.

There is the situation in a nutshell, and that is the platform that should form the text of the opponents of the Lafferty bill. The case is clear. Every community should urge its congressman to oppose this attempt to take from the people of the nation that which is theirs by custom, right and law.

Let's hope that those peace envoys will become filled with the Christmas spirit of peace during their celebration of the season.

THE REAL THING.

Apparently the supreme court intends that the dissolution of the merger of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads must be a real dissolution—not merely what the government attorneys classify as one of the "paper" variety.

The rejection of the railroad attorneys' plan shows that the justices in framing the dissolution order had in mind the actual ownership of the lines involved, not merely technical forms of violation of the federal law.

Under the attorneys' plan, which met with instant objection by the department of justice, the stock of the Southern Pacific company which had been secured by the Union Pacific company was not to be placed on the open market for disposition, but was to be distributed, for definite consideration, among the owners of stock in the Union Pacific. That is, the ownership of the stock was not to be changed, but merely the manner of holding it. Instead of voting the stock en masse, the present owners were to be obliged to vote it individually, and none but the present owners were to be given an opportunity to hold it or use it.

This kind of thing would clearly be a dissolution that didn't dissolve, and the United States supreme court took this view when it ordered that some other form of obedience to its decree be found. If the Sherman act were to be observed only technically, the railroad attorneys' plan would no doubt have answered the purpose fully. But the supreme court apparently does not intend that the scope of the law shall be confined to technical matters, but that it shall bear on actualities.

There is a rule of reason in this—a rule of reason that the people can understand. It is the application of the principle that when congress passes a law, congress means the law to be obeyed, not technically, but literally. If the courts will stick to this kind of a rule of reason in dealing with illegal combinations of capital there will be less popular sympathy with the idea of a recall of judicial decisions.

Somebody has offered President-elect Wilson a cow. What's smarter? Doesn't Pauline go with the job?

Wall Street complains that 1912 was not a prosperous year in its business. But look at the bank! Evidently the people are getting wise.

The administration's attitude toward Cio, Castro seems to indicate that he had announced his intention of becoming a bull mooser.

Now that a coffin has been sent by parcel post, somebody ought to make the record complete by shipping a cradle by the same system.

In view of the way the Morse case turned out it does seem as if it might be advisable at times to substitute a recall of presidential decisions.

One witness before the congressional tariff committee says perfumery is not a luxury. It hardly seems likely that the congressmen will allow themselves to be led off onto that scent.

Woodrow Wilson has expressed the wish that he had been an architect, but the chances are that even he wouldn't have won half the prominence that he is about to achieve as a cabinet-maker.

SHINPLASTERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read your editorial in last evening's paper about government currency, or paper money. I agree with the Boston paper that shinplasters are handy money for circulation through the mails. We have never had as convenient money as we had at the time of the Civil war. I remember the money and, everybody seemed glad to get some of these shinplasters, even if they were soiled a little, and slow as things were going they were slower at the close of the war when the money was called in and the bottom was knocked out of the inflated prices of our commodities. I think the Editor of The Herald would not refuse to roll back the curtain and show whether Sam's guarantee of redemption. I know that I would be glad to get a big consignment of this money, even if it was somewhat dirty, given no terms. I would chance it. I never got enough of this germ-infected money on the black market, and if the government issues stamps for the use of parcel post trade, why not issue some of this paper money for the convenience of the people? I respect your opinion.

CLAIMS CREDIT FOR FRANCHISE FIGHT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The report of N. J. Upham, chairman of the street car committee of the Real Estate Exchange of the city, was only in part true, and I say this because no report should have been made without stating all the facts, as this action was not taken because of any very great activity upon the part of the exchange, but because of the vital interest it held for all of the people of the city of Duluth.

The first resolution bearing upon the subject, that was read before the common council in this city for 1912 was the one presented by the Socialist alderman from the Eighth ward on the fifteenth day of July, and received the unanimous vote of the council.

The Socialist alderman was in close touch with all that transpired after the passage of the resolution. Knowing that the city had much at stake and any hasty action taken without due consideration of all facts and technicalities which may be raised by the opposition, we bided our time and acted accordingly.

I have no fight with the exchange on the work to be done, but it must play the second fiddle. It has no right to receive a report on a public question of so great importance, without making a report of them to the common council. It is a different matter, but as it is the exchange is only a part of those interested.

I am not seeking notoriety nor publicity, neither am I willing that any body of men should win laurels which they have not won.

Yours for the busting of the franchise.

Is the Democratic Party Fit?

By Saward.

The declaration of Woodrow Wilson in New York at an annual dinner of the Southern society in December, that some old things have passed away, and some new things have supplanted them, caused no little commotion in political circles in this town. The president-elect serves notice that if he can bring it about, every public man must stand counted as he stands and where he stands. When that shall be accomplished the separation of the sheep from the goats will be achieved. The servants of the people and the beneficiaries of monopoly will no longer be yoked together in the same political temerity.

The most odious stigma that ever lay on the Democratic party was when, in 1898, some of its leaders in the United States senate put themselves under the orders of Nelson W. Aldrich, the high priest of monopoly, and not only gave their names to the maintenance of the status quo, but sent him material aid when the great Jonathan P. Doolittle, the president of the United States, was being impeached. At that time, the Democratic party was in the legislature to the ballot box of the people of their respective states.

Which is to say that the Democrat in either house of congress who shall run with the hounds and hold with the hares, is a traitor to the Democratic party. It is charged that the seat in the senate lately occupied by William Lorimer of Illinois was bought by the Lumber trust, and the public accepted the accusation as true and established. In fact, Republican politics being what they are, the time of that election, it was accepted as tolerable. If not legitimate, for many a seat in that body had been bought and sold, and paid for in open market. But Lorimer was not the only senator who repented of his bargain. He did not regret it. Numerous Democratic senators came to the rescue when that monopoly was hard pressed, and voted to face the people with the profits of the saw mill.

Now it is not charged that these Democrats recanted the thing they had said. They believe in it, or did, though some of them protest that the light of democracy is shining on their heads. The hedgehog position of Woodrow Wilson last July and his election to the office of president last November, has not changed their attitude. They have tarried in Jericho long enough to grow a beard by the assembling of the stars, and they are now in the next spring. Certain it is they will have to stand up and be counted, and they will find it very difficult to vote for Republicanism and maintain their standing in a Democratic caucus.

But how is it now Wilson going to combat faction in the party? He has told you how in just one word—publicity, which is to say that every man who is elected to office is to be counted as he stands. Did you ever read the diary of David A. Wells, secretary of the cabinet? Men in high places, some of them in the cabinet, were "agin the administration." It was said that the cabinet was "agin the president." The war at least a failure, and that war might have been a failure if faction in the Confederate cabinet had not been so rampant. It was even more rampant than it was in Federal councils at Washington.

It was the Democratic party that made the last Democratic administration, of which Mr. Cleveland was the head, a complete failure. The "Muckraker" conference of about 1894, of which I saw G. Harris was the dominant spirit, composed as it was of party Republican party members, and a league of power of sixteen years' duration that will expire March 4, 1913, was the result of the fusion of the Republican and Democratic parties.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal and put a veto on the thing. Business closed up shop, folded its arms, and gave notice that it had retired from the scene. It was decided whether the American dollar that was "basic currency" was to be worth one hundred cents or not.

Then the panic that had been throbbing returned in greater force than ever and brought unprecedented wreck and ruin on the stock exchange, and the liquidation was accomplished, and in 1897 prosperity came with a rush under Republican auspices, having been rebuked and repelled three years earlier by faction in the Democratic party.

Is that history to repeat itself? The Wilson regime comes in. Mr. Wilson announces that the country shall be kept informed touching all public affairs. If faction should be triumphant and wreck the administration, only one thing can possibly result, and that is, the country shall be kept informed touching all public affairs. The Wilson regime comes in. Mr. Wilson announces that the country shall be kept informed touching all public affairs. If faction should be triumphant and wreck the administration, only one thing can possibly result, and that is, the country shall be kept informed touching all public affairs.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Jan. 8. (Special to The Herald).—And now, class, our first specimen for consideration today will be Mr. Bill Murray.

Already there is one William Murray in congress—Mr. Billy Murray, who is an immaculate, sweet-pea-checked, fair-haired young person from Massachusetts.

But Mr. Bill Murray of Oklahoma, the one we now have pinned under the glass, is entirely different—oh, very different. ? ? ? ? ?

He is a tall, gaunt person with a long, twisted, blue mustache, a generous chevron of tobacco tucked among his teeth, and a habit of sitting on his shoulder blades like the gay razzah-lads who drive low-hung autos. His native garb gives the impression that he has outfitted himself at a misfit parlor at a cost of $2.85, and then slept on the back steps for a couple of weeks with his clothes on during a spell of hard weather.

There is talk that Sockless Jerry Simpson was a Chesterfield fan in the Frank H. Murray case. And that isn't all.

Murray can stand in any given spot and kick out a 22-caliber electric light two feet higher than his head. And then for an encore he can stand on his head right in full view of the audience without touching his hands to the floor. He has other entertaining accomplishments in his repertoire, but these have given the most general satisfaction.

All over Oklahoma he is known as "Coke" and "Cocklebury Bill" because of his championship of certain agricultural laws.

It is a singular little experiment to mail a letter or a postcard containing the phrase, "Wish you were with us," or "We are enjoying it here," to "Cocklebury Bill, Tulsa, Okla., and see what will happen. Those who have tried, say the missive will go right to the top of the building, and come back, without a moment's delay. If the letter or card fails to reach Murray, one is justified then in writing to Frank H. Murray, our efficient and high-minded postmaster general, and ask him to show cause why mail sent to Cocklebury Bill is not delivered.

Based on the birds-of-a-feather theory, Murray and Lee Cruce, the non-dress-suit governor of Oklahoma, would be clubby to a degree. Yet Murray is a practical man, and Cruce is a practical man, and they are both practical men.

Now it is not charged that these Democrats recanted the thing they had said. They believe in it, or did, though some of them protest that the light of democracy is shining on their heads. Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Good Idea.

Aurora News: It is proposed to have the state guarantee county road bonds. The idea is a good one that could be worked out to the advantage of all concerned. The bonds could be passed on by the state auditor and the attorney general before being backed by the state. If they were then approved it would be an easy matter to dispose of them and at much lower rates of interest than now.

A Worthy Purpose.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The state has the power to provide means to the end of giving the needed assistance to prospective and actual farmers, and it is sincerely hoped the present state legislature will pass laws to that effect. The state is continually making liberal appropriations for purposes not half so worthy as this, which cannot possibly benefit the whole state to any kind of a comparison of the result to follow a liberal policy that would encourage settlement of the thousands of fertile acres now lying idle.

People Have Their Chance.

Hibbing Tribune: The liberal patronage everywhere being accorded the parcel post is the best evidence that the people are glad of a chance to evade the express companies, who have so long had a knee on their chest and a thumb in their eye.

Approves of Lynch.

Northfield News: It is a long time since Minnesota has been represented in the president's cabinet. The suggestion of Mr. Lynch for secretary of the interior is one that will meet general approval. Mr. Lynch is a big man in every way, and the president could probably not do better.

Vital Statistics.

Thief River Falls Times: Along with other needed legislation which will come up before the state legislature at its session which starts next week, the Times believes something should be done to revise the present system of securing the vital statistics of the state. Under the present method, township, village and city clerks report to the secretary of the state board of health direct. The Times believes that the township, village and city clerks should report direct to the clerk of court, and that the law should be enacted making it a misdemeanor of office if these clerks fail to report within a stated time after any death or birth certificate is filed with them. Then a penalty should be provided to prevent a failure of any person to report a birth or death to the clerk of his municipality.

If this plan is followed out, the clerk of court in each county will be enabled to insure the correct spelling of the names contained in the certificates, and will have these figures available at the first of each year.

Should Have Practiced.

Ada Herald: One of the remarkable coincidences of the campaign aftermath is the unanimity with which the Republican press is agreed that President-elect Wilson should be guided solely by fitness and capability in giving out orders to his Federal offices, which he will dispose of upon assuming control of the government. Had the Republican press been so loud in demanding this state of affairs in the past the nation would not have so many lame-ducks and political handymen on its payroll.

Looking Ahead.

Cambridge North Star: If the national Republican committee carries out its plans to punish the independent states by reducing their representation in the next national convention they will make it much easier to nominate a reactionary candidate and much harder to elect him.

Begin Again

Every day is a fresh beginning.

Every day is the world made new;
You who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
Here is a beautiful hope for you—
A hope for me and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over.
The tasks are done and the tears are shed;
Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover;
Yesterday's wounds, which smarted
Are healed with the healing which
Are night has shed.

Yesterday now is a part of forever,
Bound up in a sheaf, which God holds tight;
With glad days, and sad days, and days which never Shall visit us more with their bloom and their blight.
Their fullness of sunshine or sorrowful night.

Let them go, since we cannot relieve them.
Cannot undo and cannot atone;
God in His mercy, receive, forgive them.

Only the new days are our own.
Today is ours, and today alone.

Here are the skies all burnished brightly,
Here is the spent earth all springing lightly;
To face the sun and to share with the morn,
In the chariot of dew and the cool of dawn.

Every day is a fresh beginning;
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain,
And, spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
And puzzles forecasted and possible pain,
Take heart with the day, and begin again.

Why the Judge Was Powerless.

Ladies' Home Journal: The jury, after long deliberation, seemed unable to agree in a perfectly clear case. The judge, thoroughly exasperated at the delay, said:

"I discharge this jury."

"One sensitive juror, indignant at what he considered a rebuke, faced the judge."

"You can't discharge me," he said, with a note of conviction.

"And why not?" inquired the judge in surprise.

"Because," announced the juror, pointing to the lawyer for the defense, "I was hired by that man there."

The Cost of Coal

Boston Globe: It was only a few weeks ago that George F. Baer, president of the leading companies, said that there were 700,000 tons of unsold surplus stock of anthracite above the normal consumption. That is, there was no lack of coal at all. Had been mined and was awaiting buyers. And yet today we are told that the supply of anthracite is 5,000,000 tons short of the Eastern demand, and that unless the situation is speedily relieved famine prices for coal will prevail and great suffering will result.

There is a great abundance of anthracite in the Pennsylvania mines, and there is no lack of men to bring it to the surface of the earth. The demand for coal in New England is constant, and there is no lack of men of production and distribution out of fear? If the reason is the lack of coal cars, who is to blame for the shortage? Certainly the consumer is not to blame. He is willing to pay the advance over last year, caused by the increase in the price of miners, but it gets him to pay not only that advance, but also a heavy additional sum due to the alleged decrease in the supply.

Whatever may be the actual cause of the increased cost of coal—whether coal car shortage or cupidity of coal dealers—coal is a commodity, and it is patent: The coal industry is not efficiently managed. It seeks to supply a public need purely for the sake of private profits, and it has failed in its duty, though it reaps the profits. There is no reason why the supplying of a public need should be incompatible with the reaping of profits, but the coal barons do not seem equal to the task. Evidently the coal industry is in sore need of an efficiency expert.

You Can't Make Your Farm Pay

If You Eat the Doughnut and Offer the Hole as Collateral

HERE'S a man out in Illinois who owns a bank and lends money to farmers. He wanted to get at both sides of the question of borrowing and lending, so he got busy on a half-section of land and farmed it on the principle of a square deal to the soil. What he found out was this: It's bad business, both for the farmer and the banker, for the farmer to eat the doughnut and offer the hole as collateral on a loan.

It's one of those simple solutions of a big financial problem that engaged the attention of the President of the United States and a group of Governors, meeting at the White House to discuss this great problem only a few weeks ago. Presidents of Insurance Companies, bankers, men and institutions with money to invest, farmers who want to borrow money—all these people will agree with us that Mr. Harris has thrown the searchlight of common sense on a subject that seemed as thick as a London fog.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JAN. 12.

Genesis 1: 26-27; 4: 4-25; Psalm VIII: 1-8.

CONFESSION.

Following the events of the last lesson we are still in the sixth creative day, but a brilliant climax is reached in the creation of man. We take the general account in the first chapter and the more detailed account in the second chapter and then the wonderful eighth psalm.

THE LESSON.

Made in God's Image, 26-27.

"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the birds of the heavens, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth: And God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him, male and female created He them."

IN DIVINITY.—Like the other animals in his physical life, yet man was made like God in His higher nature.

There seems a solemn pause as if in deliberation upon the stupendous work to be done, then a declaration of His purpose, to the heavenly intelligences as they watched with interest the growing wonders of creation; or to the three Persons of the Godhead who are solemnly summoned to the glorious work as some believe; or to Himself together with these other heavenly intelligences who are also made in God's image and are allowed a sympathetic participation in the crowning act of creation; or only to Himself of whom the plural of majesty is used as He says "let us make man in our image." Not in the physical is the image to be found, though "the human form divine" is the chosen physical form best adapted to the reflection of the divine image. It is in the higher nature, in the personality, that is the chief thing. Also in having a holy nature, with power to know right and do it, though in man that power was limited and untutored, while in God it is perfect. In some sense it is the power of thought, though in God the power is perfect. He thinks instantly without labor, while with us thought is laborious, "from more to more." The other works of creation show what God can do; more shows what God is. God, in a rudimentary way, is here among His works in the person of man, His representative, man's completeness is shown in the creation of his "other half," though we reserve the discussion of it till further on.

will he do? Let us see how he will meet his tests.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

If we would see God's conception of man, we must look upon the face of his Son—him of whom He said: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." That is man; that is the ideal human. It is useless to look in any other direction for God's purpose, for He has been demanding for some time to imitate even our most perfect fellow creature, except in so far as that fellow creature imitates and exemplifies Christ. Do not let us mock one another, and faintly ask if we are made in the image and likeness of God, but let us steadfastly gaze on Christ, marking the perfection of His lineaments, the harmony of His attributes, the sublimity of His purpose, and then, pointing to Him in His solitude of beauty and holiness, we may exclaim, "Behold the image of God!"

Parker.

Knowledge of good never costs too much. The discovery of the North and South poles, the control of the yellow fever, the discovery of aviation, even the lessons of the Titanic horror had to be learned and the price paid, as insurance premiums on the future. But knowledge of evil through experience with evil always costs too much. We can take for granted that the first cigarette cost too much. We can accept the statements of medical men that alcohol is a poison without poisoning ourselves to verify it. We may rest assured that the first light of adversity, with moral evil and disease and crime, without personally diving into the murky depths of the underworld, and "evil" that comes by tasting evil. As J. W. Lee says, "The meaning of the matter is not seen till dust stings the eye by burning his own house."—Cowan.

allowing women to vote on equal terms with men in this state.

Other bills introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon were as follows:

By Senator Haverstick—Providing for a separate state reformatory for women, on a site to be selected by the board of control, and supporting the same. This institution, which takes care of women between 17 and 25, has been demanded for some time by the women of the state. It follows the successful attempt of the women several years ago to provide a separate state training school for girls.

By Senator Haverstick—Providing for the non-partisan election of all county officers. The bill is an amendment of the law which now makes non-partisan the election of officers in cities of the first class and judges of probate and county superintendents of schools, and besides adding the county officers to the list, it also amends that law to provide that where at the primary election there are but two candidates for any office, there shall be no primary election for that office but both candidates shall go on the general election ballot.

Another bill that has been proposed is that any candidate receiving a majority—no plurality—the votes at a primary election shall be declared elected without the necessity of going through a campaign for the general election.

By Senator Wilson—Amending the law repealing the death penalty by providing death for anybody who commits a life sentence who commits an assault with a deadly weapon—presumably to include the case of a condemned murderer assault his keepers.

By Senator Denegre—Providing that the assessment of property for purposes of taxation shall have reference to its value as of January 1 instead of May 1, as at present.

"Blue Sky" laws.

By Senator McCullough—Works Separate "blue sky" law bills, putting the supervision of the sale of securities under the supervision of the state treasurer. The general opinion about the bill is that it will be the best way of handling this work is to put it under a commission composed of the governor, the state treasurer, the public examiner and possibly the legislative council.

By Senator Murray—Establishing a branch school of agriculture at Bird Island, and another at Lake Umbagog.

By Senator Dues—Requiring real estate brokers to take out a license under public regulation.

There will be no interest in Senator Elwell's bill, introduced yesterday, authorizing counties to make a tax levy of 5 mills for road work. The present limit is 2 mills. In order to let St. Louis county under the law it would be necessary to repeal the special law by which its road tax levy is limited to 1 mill.

The bill which Senator Fossett of Minneapolis introduced yesterday to regulate cold storage is substantially a copy of the act passed in 1907, but extended, however, to include a penalty for dealers who offer for sale "stale" or "rotten" foods which have been in cold storage.

Selection of committees.

Senate to the last, yesterday afternoon offered in the senate a resolution to the effect that it is the sense of the senate that after this year the senate committee on education and labor be composed of the lieutenant governor, Senator Nelson and the resolution offered for a day by giving notice of debate.

Senator Sullivan followed this by a bill proposing a law requiring the committees of both houses, after this session, to be elected by each body instead of being appointed by the president of the senate and the speaker of the house.

The proposed bill forbidding senators to explain their votes on roll call found no favor in the senate, and the rules committee dropped it. However, the rule was adopted, though it does not prohibit senators from explaining their votes, as heretofore, but it requires that a roll call shall not be interrupted by any senator's explanation, but that any senator who wishes to explain his vote must wait until the roll call is completed.

NOTE BOOK
BY X

The number of lodgers seeking shelter at the station nights is running surprisingly small.

In former years at this time from fifty to 100 men applied nightly for shelter from the cold. They came back night after night, glad of a chance to rest on the cement floor or seek a downy couch on one of the wooden benches if they came in early enough to get a place on one of them.

This winter scarcely half a dozen men are recommended over night. Last night but five entered their names in the register handled by Jailer Jack Hunter. Work is plentiful and those who refuse jobs are not being put on the back by the police. If they continue to come in they are given a chance to get work and told that they will have to get out and hustle. If they do not take the hint they are arrested for vagrancy. In police court they are handed an average of about thirty days each. Brought face to face with a month's sojourn over the hill most of them ask for an opportunity to get out of the city. This is generally accorded in the hope that the city will get rid of them and save the board bill.

The majority of the lodgers as well as the bulk of the kist are men whose homes are outside of the city. Asked where they live they have been informing the court day in and day out that they come from Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit and other cities, most of them in the East. A great many are sailors who finished the season in Duluth. They had a "good time" while their coin lasted and now they find themselves up against it without a job and without a penny of their hard-earned dollars.

Three "Bowerly wall flowers" in the term coined by the police surgeon, were arraigned with the first this morning on vagrancy charges. Casper Christensen and Mike Sullivan admitted that they are without means of visible employment. Oswald Ellison denied the allegation. Oswald will be tried this afternoon and the other cases will be disposed of at the same time.

James McKenzie didn't make good the other day when he promised to go to work or leave the city. After calling his freedom James sought a job, but not in an employment office. He got busy in a Bowerly booze joint unloading schooners wherever the opportunity offered. Yesterday he was picked up and booked for becoming voluntarily intoxicated. He pleaded guilty and went over the hill for twenty days for lack of $25 and costs.

John Kenna cannot hang on to a seat on the water wagon. He seems to have a faculty for losing the reins or dropping the whip. He doesn't ask any one to help him out but enjoys climbing down to get them himself. Yesterday he landed with a splash and took a bath in the stuff which makes fools and daddlers of ordinary men. He pleaded guilty and will take a forced trip of fifteen days on the little old cart which is in so much favor every New Year's. John couldn't help himself, not being supplied with the useful to meet an assessment of $15 and costs.

Feb. 2 is the big night for the blue-coats. On that date they will give their annual ball at the Armory, where it has been held in past years. The coppers will "help the light fantastic."

and incidentally raise a thousand or odd dollars for the relief fund. Although past affairs have been too hot, the committee in charge of the arrangements, consisting of Detective "Scotty" Irvine and Gust Lahti and Driver Mark Stewart, assert that the coming event will eclipse them all.

Patrolman Wilfred Grandmalson is in serious condition at St. Luke's hospital. He is down with fever, and it will be a long while before he will be able to resume his duties.

John McLaughlin, 26 years old, who has been bothering the cops about his wife, claiming that she isn't true to him, was picked up yesterday at the request of the Superior police. He was later released for lack of evidence. Referring to his matrimonial difficulties the police say that he and his wife have told some pretty hard stories about each other, but no prosecutions have resulted.

William Christensen was arrested this morning on a charge of trespass. He was found sweeping wheat in a box car on the N. P. tracks. He pleaded guilty and sentence was suspended after he had been warned not to repeat the offense.

CHANCE PROMISES

New Manager of New York

Americans Believes He Can Deliver.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Before leaving for New York today Frank Farrell, owner of the New York American baseball club had another talk with his new manager, Frank L. Chance at which details for the team's training trip to Bermuda were discussed along with other matters pertaining to the club's future welfare.

Chance has unlimited confidence in his ability to make the New York Americans a winning aggregation.

"I will win the pennant for you before I get through in New York," Chance said to Farrell. "That may sound like a bold statement to make at this time, but I ask you to remember my promise."

Chance has been given full authority in the management of the team so that if he should fail he will have no body to blame but himself.

Farrell declared today that he would do everything possible to aid Chance in making the team a winner.

Chance expects to manage the team from the bench, although he may get into the game if he considers it necessary. He will leave for California next Saturday, and will report for duty in New York Feb. 11.

DULUTH BIRDS

Park Board Secretary Asks

Citizens to Remember

Them.

Birds are going hungry and many Duluth people have joined a movement to feed them.

Secretary Henry Cleveland of the park board says the best means of feeding birds is by tying a piece of suet to a tree. Many people also throw crumbs out daily and are anxious that others follow the same course.

In very cold weather, and with snow on the ground, the birds have difficulty getting enough to eat. A light thoughtfulness on the part of people will help keep the birds alive.

RESTORATION OF

CANTEEN FAVORED

Others Appear Before

House Committee.

Washington, Jan. 9.—In favor of the restoration of the army canteen, Secretary Stimson, Surgeon General Torney, Brig. Gen. Wetherup and Representative Hamilton of Missouri, appeared today before the house military affairs committee to urge the cancellation of the condition that without the canteen there were worse than when the sale of beer and light wines was allowed at army posts.

Secretary Stimson testified that the government was anxious to clean out the red light district in Cuba before the Panama canal opens for traffic. He said that on his recent visit to Panama he attempted to even negotiations with the government to buy ten acres comprising the district but was refused to do so despite his offer of a high price. Such acquisition would have to be by treaty with Panama.

Surgeon General Torney, U. S. A., said that the President's commission had been much more temperate among the soldiers because of the large number of soldiers just outside the post.

"When men came into the army," said Gen. Hamilton, "they were from families where drinking is permitted, and find no place where they can buy a drink. I put them in a precarious situation. I am in favor of the canteen under restrictions, as in the British army."

BANDIT WOUNDED

AND LATER TAKEN

Harry Evans First Shoots

Policeman and Makes

Escape.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—After shooting Policeman Charles Griffin in the head, Harry Evans, 24 years old, was himself shot and wounded in a revolver duel with a citizen he attempted to hold up this morning. Evans suffered a flesh wound and escaped. He was arrested a few hours later in a rooming house.

Peter Jansen, who was with Evans when the latter shot the policeman, also was arrested.

After wounding the detective, Evans fled with the revolver in his hand, and two blocks away attempted to hold up John Vanderveer, who drew a revolver and fired five shots at the man. Evans fled a short distance and then emptied his revolver at Vanderveer, but the latter escaped injury.

Victims of a number of robberies identified Evans and Jansen at a North Side police station.

Jansen is an ex-convict, according to his own admission. He said he was released from the Joliet penitentiary about six weeks ago and was given a sentence of twenty-three months for holding up a railroad ticket agent at Wheaton, Ill.

Evans also is known as Fred Goodwin. He came from Dallas, Texas.

GIRL TELLS OF

Sensational Story Being

Investigated By Big Four

Railroad Officials.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 9.—Evelyn Stewart, a young woman who was found bound and drugged in a Pullman berth on a Big Four train from Chicago, when it reached here yesterday, told the police a sensational story of an attack on the Pullman car.

Several hours she made every effort to conceal her identity. Later she said: "My home is in Jacksonville, Fla. I was engaged to marry a man in Knoxville, Tenn. I left Jacksonville some time ago and went to New York to shop."

Then I went to Chicago and stopped at the Hotel La Salle. I was awakened by a man sitting on the edge of the berth.

"Have you made a mistake?" I asked.

"No, indeed," he replied. "Then I remember nothing until I awoke in the hospital today."

Miss Stewart's wrists were badly bruised and her throat showed signs of finger marks.

Conductor Brown declared it would have been impossible for any one to have left or entered the Pullman without his having knowledge of it.

The police and railroad officials are united in an investigation.

When found, her arms were twisted under her body and bound with a corset string. An atomizer, half filled with chloroform, was found in the berth.

Flaxseed Market Is Beared Somewhat By the Argentine Cables.

Joseph Stevens, grain and feed merchant at Grand Rapids, Minn., a visitor on the Duluth grain exchange to see through the region of Moose Jaw, says that the fall wheat crop was being done in 1912 in this section. This was due in considerable measure to the fact that it was so early in the season that planting will be consequently earlier than last spring. Another reason that the farmers are anxious to get their wheat planted is the fact that they will not be able to do so if there is very little snow, and therefore they are working very deep into the ground. This means that they have to work from the ground level down to the bottom of the furrows, which would make them like to go.

Mr. Stevens said that principal crops in this region were wheat, corn, flax, and these were likely to be the main crops. He also mentioned that the grains had heavy yields last fall, other than in some places going 125 bushels to the acre. The average yield was about 60 to 35 bushels.

The writer incidentally observed that traction engines were now being used widely on the farms of that part of the country, and that many of the teams displaced, however.

COBB LOOKS OVER SITES

Superintendent of State Fisheries Visits Knife River and Fond du Lac.

Sportsmen Working Carefully on Plans for Proposed Hatchery.

Eben W. Cobb, superintendent of state fisheries, is today visiting two possible sites for the proposed hatchery for this part of the state. One is at Stewart river and the other at Knife river.

Mr. Cobb last evening attended the meeting of the Northeastern Minnesota Game and Fish Protective association. He heard John H. Brigham offer a site at Knife river and was so favorably impressed that he decided to investigate it at once.

Mr. Brigham said that he would also be willing to furnish a site for a hatchery at Fond du Lac. He explained that the location of the hatchery will be of much benefit to this section of the state and that he is anxious that it be established. His generous offer, contrasting so strongly with the common plan of doubling or trebling prices when the state is in the market, was received with a rising vote of thanks.

The association has an architect working on plans for the hatchery. It will then be possible to get an accurate estimate of the cost. With these plans the committee will appear before the state legislature to ask for an appropriation. Mr. Cobb stated last evening that he could not give any accurate figures, but was satisfied that $20,000 would be sufficient, with an annual allowance of $7,000 for maintenance. He added that a free site would reduce the cost materially as well as be an asset when the committee appears before the legislature.

Cameron Hewitt, secretary of the association, states that the failure of the Deerwood hatchery will be an argument in favor of the hatchery in Northern Minnesota. He explains that when the committee completes its arrangements it will be able to show with facts and figures why this one will be a success. He adds that the present facilities of the state are greatly inadequate and that at least one more large hatchery is needed if the streams in all parts of the state are to be properly provided with new stock.

CAPT. SINCLAIR TAKEN BY DEATH

Well Known Vessel Broker Passes Away at Port Huron.

Word that will bring with it genuine regret among many men in Duluth is received this morning from Port Huron, to the effect that Capt. Alex. R. Sinclair had passed the great divide.

His death took place this morning at Port Huron, where he made his home each winter. His summers for many years have been spent in Duluth, where he has been a vessel broker, engaged principally in the lumber shipping business. He had an office in the Manhattan building. He was not only a veteran vessel broker but a veteran lake captain having commanded his ship in the old days up and down the lake lanes, and was recognized as a sailor of more than ordinary merit.

Capt. Sinclair has been in poor health for two years but only recently showed any signs of giving up. He is survived by a widow and three children. The latter are Mrs. Nicholson of Melrose, Minn., C. H. Sinclair of Detroit and D. M. Sinclair of Butte, Mont.

ANOTHER COLD WAVE IS COMING

Drop in Temperature and Snow Predicted By Weather Man.

Another cold wave is coming. The weather man predicts temperatures from 10 to 20 deg. below zero tonight in St. Louis and Douglas counties. There will be some snow this afternoon, and the cold weather will continue through tomorrow and into Sunday. There is no relief in sight, but the weather man does not care to predict beyond Saturday night.

The recent cold snap appeared to end today. The lowest point reached last night was 4 deg. above zero at 7 o'clock, and at 10 o'clock this morning it was 10 deg. above with the mercury still ascending.

PLAN TO MAKE DULUTH SUB-PORT OF ST. PAUL IS BITTERLY OPPOSED

that it will not be endorsed by the president.

Duluth is growing and its marine interests are growing. The hundreds of documents handled through the customs office here would have to go to St. Paul if a change such as proposed were made, as the records would be kept at the St. Paul office. The office here would be left with only the same as at present, and the only saving would be in the salary of the collector. The delays and inconveniences resulting would not make the saving in money worth while.

The department of the treasury has been working on the consolidation of customs offices for several years. Formerly no district could be changed without a legislative enactment, but in the last civil sundries bill, the secretary of the treasury agreed to a reduction of $350,000 in his appropriation in consideration of the consolidation of customs districts being allowed by executive order.

Many consolidations have been made in the interests of economy, but in proposing the consolidation of Duluth with St. Paul, different situation is faced than in most places. St. Paul's business consists only of the collection of customs, which may be conducted by a deputy. Much of Duluth's business is in collection with vessel interests. The keeping of the records here is a great convenience to the vessel interests, and the presence of the collector is necessary. The transfer of the records to the office collector at St. Paul will cause confusion and inconvenience that would make Duluth unpopular as a port of registration.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, the report of the local customs office shows: Vessels reported from foreign ports, 237; vessels cleared for foreign ports, 237; vessels entered from domestic ports, 2,732; vessels cleared for domestic ports, 2,844; value of exports to foreign ports, $87,424; value of imports, $1,361,953; entries of merchandise, 2,211; documents, 1,584; vessels (enrollments, licenses, etc.), 123; duties collected, $247,635.76; other receipts, $4,799.13.

The total cost of conducting the business of the district was about 5 per cent of the total receipts, and the saving to the government by the consolidation of Duluth with St. Paul would be so small as not to be worthy of consideration, according to Collector Wilcox.

TURKS ARE AGAIN MAKING THREATS

Turkish peace delegation, today reiterated the determination of Greece to not abandon the fortress of Adrianople or the islands in the Aegean sea.

"What kind of a conference is this where all the concessions emanate from one side?" he asked. "The Greeks have been known beforehand there would have been no need to go to the trouble of bringing together a peace conference in London," he added.

It is not likely a peace conference will resume its sittings before next week. Premier Venizelos of Greece intends to spend Saturday and Sunday visiting Oxford. Today he lunched with the chancellor, the duke of Lancaster, the Rt. Hon. Charles Hobhouse, and in the course of conversation emphasized the Hellenic claims over the islands of the Aegean sea, expressing the hope that the country which under the late William E. Gladstone gave to Greece the Ionian Islands will refuse its assistance now that Gladstone's disciples are in power.

Greek Losses Heavy.
Salamiki, Turkey, Jan. 10.—The losses of the Greek troops fighting against the Turks in the vicinity of Janina have been very heavy. To date they have lost 7,000 killed and wounded.

The sixth division of the Greek army left here today under orders to assist in the subjugation of the Turkish fortress of Janina.

NO OBJECTIONS TO SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Sabatopol, Russia, Jan. 10.—The Turkish consul in this city has been informed by the customs authorities that there will be no opposition to the opening subscription list for the Red Cross society among the Muslims inhabiting Southern Russia.

CLOQUET JOTTINGS.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Enough funds have been realized from the sale of tickets for the high school program to allow a seventh entertainment to be given, the course comprising only six, and some prominent cartoonist will be secured, the extra entertainment being included as a part of the course without extra charge. Dr. Lester Handolph gave the third number of the course last night and was listened to by a large and appreciative audience.

The Mothers' club will hold their monthly meeting tonight at the Lincoln high school building and the following program will be given: Piano duet, Misses Kaus and Lien; paper, "Influences Harmful to Children," Mrs. Walter L. Case; paper, "Value of Courtesy," Mrs. R. F. Cochrane; reading, "Mother's," Miss Clifford; paper, "Schools and Morals," Miss Martin; vocal solo, Miss Lillian Kelly; paper, "Social Problems of the High School," Mrs. Z. B. Hoyt.

CLOQUET WOMAN DIES.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Arthur Bergeron died Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock after a brief illness of a few days. Mrs. Bergeron was not considered seriously ill until a short time before her demise which was a great shock. She was well known and had many friends. C. & M. GOES TO THE WALL

Mining Company in Which Duluth People Are Interested Is Bankrupt.

Federal Court of Montana Takes Action on Petition of Creditors.

A dispatch from Butte, Mont., announces that the Calumet & Montana Mining company has been adjudged a bankrupt by the Federal court at Helena. Much of the stock of this company is held by Duluth people. It is also largely held in Michigan. Six years ago, shortly after the company was organized, the stock had quite a run, going up between $8 and $9 a share. Then it began to decline. Of late it has been ruling at 10 to 15 cents a share.

The Federal court at Helena took action on the petition of these creditors. The Butte Machinery company, with a claim of $400; the Anaconda Copper company, $744.82, and the Continental Oil company, $182.39.

The petition states that last May suit was brought against the Calumet & Montana by W. J. Cresson, a mining engineer, for $2,352.70; that no defense was made and judgment was awarded in the full amount claimed; that at the time the judgment was obtained the petitioners were creditors of the Calumet & Montana; that no effort has been made by the company to pay off the judgment; that the company desires to favor the holder of this judgment; and that if the priority of the company is sold to satisfy this judgment, there will be nothing left for the other creditors.

The property owned by the Calumet & Montana consists of the mining claims near Clancy, Mont.

NEW PASTOR WILL BE INSTALLED

Glen Avon Congregation Will Hold Open House for Rev. W. W. Lawrence.

Rev. W. W. Lawrence, the new pastor for the Glen Avon Presbyterian church, will be installed this evening with elaborate ceremonies. Mr. Lawrence comes with the best kind of a record, not only as a pastor, but as a pulpit orator, and it is expected that he will be welcomed this evening by the Presbyterians of the city at large as well as by his future parishioners.

Rev. H. B. Sutherland of the Lakeside Presbyterian church will preside and will also offer the invocation and respond to the new minister. The constitutional questions, Rev. Robert Yost, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. J. F. Staub of West Duluth will deliver the charge to the congregation; and Rev. J. A. McCaughey of the Second Presbyterian church will charge the new pastor.

The committee in charge of the affair issued an invitation to everybody to attend, regardless of religious affiliation, and it is hoped that a full church will extend the welcome to the new pastor.

NAVAL OFFICERS INQUIRE INTO ROW

Anxious to Learn Circumstances of Injury to Quartermaster in Duluth.

Officers of the main naval recruiting station of Minnesota at Minneapolis are in Duluth investigating into the particulars of a row, wherein Quartermaster E. Benson, who has had charge of the Duluth recruiting station for some years, received a bad wound in the right eye, resulting in loss of the sight.

The affair is said to have taken place in a hotel on Lake avenue on the night of Dec. 28. It is said that a man described as a woodsman hit Benson, whose right eye was nearly gouged out. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital and word was at once sent to the Minneapolis office.

The investigation is being conducted by Quartermaster J. Erickson, who is temporarily in charge of the Duluth recruiting station. The Duluth police are giving their assistance.

Benson had an honorable record in the naval service, in which he was engaged for sixteen years.

RECEPTION HELD BY THE GOVERNOR.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—The capitol was the scene of a brilliant reception last night by Governor Eberhart and Mrs. Eberhart. The building was illuminated throughout and presented an attractive appearance. It was a gay scene, with the bright uniforms of the governor's staff and officers of the national guard and the handsome gowns of the ladies. Governor and Mrs. Eberhart received the guests in the center of the rotunda on the executive chamber floor, and nearly all the members of the legislature were present. Many of the leading men and women of St. Paul and Minneapolis paid their respects to the governor.

BIG BANK COMBINE.

Minneapolis Trust Co. and First National May Consolidate.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.—The First National bank and Minneapolis Trust company, with $3,000,000 in combined capital and surplus, and approximately $3,000,000 in combined resources, will be brought into close affiliation by increase of the capitalization of the First National and the embracing by First National stock certificates of Minneapolis Trust company stock. If a plan that will be laid before the directors of both institutions at the annual meeting next Tuesday is approved, the plan goes through the affiliation of the bank and trust company, each already ranked among the strongest in the Northwest, will give Minneapolis another financial institution of commanding importance.

FRIENDLY ACTION AGAINST THE CITY

Rights of Council Under New Charter Will Be Determined.

A friendly suit to procure legal determination of the powers of the old city council and officers under the new charter was started in district court this afternoon by Dwight P. Woodbridge against the city.

Mr. Woodbridge is a taxpayer and has consented to lead his name to the action. He has retained C. E. Adams as counsel. (City Attorney Carmichael will represent the city.)

The action is one in which an injunction is asked for restraining the old council or city officers from proceeding to exercise further powers.

Last Monday the council authorized the advertising of bids for the purchase of a police automobile, the sale of $10,000 of bonds and the letting of the contract for the folk street sewer.

The suit will test the legality of these three acts. It is expected that the city attorney will admit the facts charged in the complaint and interpose a demurrer. On the demurrer the case will come before the court, the city attorney taking the position that a cause of action is not stated.

Three district court judges may sit on hand to hear the arguments. Both attorneys have agreed to carry the case to the supreme court, and the questions involved it is expected that it will be given early consideration in the higher tribunal.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Republican senators this afternoon declined the proposition made to them by the Democrats to appoint committees from both sides of the senate to consider President Taft's nominations to office. END OF ARCHBALD TRIAL IS IN SIGHT

Attorneys for Defense Say Judge Has Done Nothing Wrong.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The end of the Archbald trial was in sight today when the senate reconvened as a court of impeachment. Five hours of argument was almost equally divided between the attorneys defending Judge Robert W. Archbald and the house managers conducting the prosecution. It was expected that the final two and a half hours of the day's session would be devoted to the closing argument of the prosecution to be made by Representative Henry D. Clayton of Alabama.

Attorney A. S. Worthington resumed today analyzing the various charges against Judge Archbald, to show that there had been no proof of any wrongdoing on his part; and that such acts as the house managers characterized as "misbehavior" were not of a kind to make him subject to impeachment. Judge Archbald remained seated with his counsel throughout the argument, as he has heard the trial throughout from a seat in the private gallery of the senate.

RATES FIXED IN LONDON

Washington, Jan. 10.—Oral understanding to maintain rates, between the Lamport & Holt line, the Houston line, the Prince line, the Barber line and Weir & Boyd's line, operating between New York and La Plata, Montevideo, has existed since January, 1912, according to testimony given today by Paul F. Gerhart, New York agent of the Prince line, before the house merchant marine committee. His line, he said, has another understanding with lines doing business between New York and South Africa.

"The time was when New York agents of lines were permitted to make certain articles," said Mr. Gerhart. "Now they are made in London."

"When was that change made?" asked Representative Humphrey.

"About two years ago," replied Mr. Gerhart. "Speaking of the South African trade, the witness said he believed there was no pooling, but he had no doubt that the London offices saw to it that each line got its proportion of the trade by regarding the trips of the respective steamers."

Mr. Gerhart testified that with the four or five largest exporters to the Plata special contracts were made by the lines and smaller exporters then given the same rates. Representative Alexander suggested this prevented competition in rates.

"Rate cutting is a most unfortunate position to be in," replied Mr. Gerhart. "You can't run steamers unless on a paying basis. You can't do it on a paying basis except you have an understanding. We have had some bitter experiences."

William E. Halm, New York agent for the Houston line, testified that a London "conference" controlled the New York trade to South Africa. "I may say I know that the freight rates were pooled," he testified. Subject to that conference were the Houston line, the Prince line, the Hansa line, the Union Clay line and the American African line. He declared not a shipper was dissatisfied with the South African service. His line had a special contract with the Standard Oil company, agreed upon in London, and duplicated to the New York Lubricating Oil company.

Chairman Alexander asked whether the Houston line was in any agreement regulating freight or passenger traffic between the United States and the Plata. Rates for this trade, the witness said, were made in New York at conferences between representatives of the various steamship lines, although written agreements were entered into.

The conferences, he said, were held once a week, wherever the representatives happened to get together.

In fixing rates, the witness added, an effort was made to keep them on a parity with rates from Germany and England.

Mr. Halm declared that his company for years had not given rebates on outgoing cargoes from the United States.

"I know nothing about rebates on cargoes from Argentina to the United States," said the witness, "but know from correspondence that rebate arrangements exist."

Representative Humphrey wanted to know whether there were any agreements between railroads and steamship companies as to the through rates. Mr. Halm said that as far as he knew no such agreements over were entered into.

Asked if any lines in the South American trade did not participate in the rate conferences, the witness named the Norton line.

ROUMANIA AND BULGARIA AT ODDS.

London, Jan. 10.—Roumania practically delivered an ultimatum to Bulgaria today by demanding the cession of Silistria and the territory to the north of a line stretching from there to Kavarna on the Black Sea, according to a news agency dispatch from Sofia.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvellously beautiful hair, which, when loosed from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky, fluffy texture and in color a glorious glossy gold. Yet just a year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had any one told me such marvelous results could be accomplished so quickly, I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in color, turning gray in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics but they were all the same and never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well-known physician. It said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Composee and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it and I had my druggist mix 2 oz. of the Lavona de Composee with 6 oz. of Bay Rum and 1/2 dr. of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My hair quickly began to grow. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then my hair grew and grew, as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet and while, of course, I have used the treatment at least until my hair reaches the floor, I must admit that I am perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it."

Those who use it should be careful not to get it on the face or white hair is not desired.

ONE STRIKE-BREAKER CAUSES A BIG RIOT.

New York, Jan. 10.—The appearance of a solitary strike-breaker yesterday afternoon in front of a downtown clothing factory, was the signal for one of the most desperate riots, the police have had to contend with since the garment workers began their strike. Strikers attacked the man, policemen went to his aid and in a few minutes more than 1,000 men and women were fighting to tear the strike-breaker from his protectors. A dozen more policemen rushed to the spot and began to make arrests, but most of their prisoners were wrenched from them almost as soon as they were seized. After a long struggle, the policemen reached the station house with only three rioters; they had been able to keep hold of. The police used clubs and left a trail of broken heads.

Well Known as Preacher and Author of Christian Works.

Bishop W. A. Quayle of St. Paul will be the speaker at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Bishop Quayle has made several visits to Duluth and on each occasion he made a lasting impression. selected bishop. He is a man greatly sought after because of his ability as an orator and as a man of practical life. Many have read with enthusiasm his interesting book "In God's Out of Doors." His latest work, "Laymen in Action," is considered a masterpiece by leading Christian men. The male quartet has been secured to furnish the music at the meeting Sunday afternoon. Watson S. Moore, president of the association, will preside.

SENTIMENTAL REASONS ONLY FOR RAISING SHIP

Washington, Jan. 10.—Lieutenant Commander R. Bruce White, military attaché at the American embassy at Rome, in a report made public at the navy department says there are no reasons apart from the sentimental ones, for raising the old frigate Philadelphia, sunk in the harbor of Tripoli in 1898.

The investigation was ordered last summer after a balloonist flying over the Mediterranean sighted the hull of the vessel, which was sunk in the war wrecked by this country, to put an end to attacks on American merchant vessels by Barbary pirates.

est days of his historic reign, never denied to the majority a place on his rules committee."

Representative Lennan of Minneapolis, who had opposed the organization in the forenoon, supported it in this, and said that all the Democrats wanted was a couple of "spies" on the rules committee to enable them to make campaign material.

Mr. Lennan's intimation that the Democrats were "hushies" brought Representative Harrison of Stillwater, a new member of the minority, to his feet with the statement that he had not expected to be insulted and that he objected to it.

Chairman Nolan of the rules committee said that his committee really was a personal committee of the speaker's, and that the custom never had been to give the minority representation upon it.

Representative Frank Minette denied that the speaker's committee was a personal committee of the speaker's, and said that the custom never had been to give the minority representation upon it.

against all attacks upon it made during the first over the new rules. Every amendment not accepted by the committee was voted down.

Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis put his long-heralded fight for a committee on committees in the form of an amendment to the rules, but as expected he was beaten in the imperative vote of 103 to 7; though he made a gallant fight for his point.

Representative Sawyer of Minneapolis wanted to amend the rules so as to require a two-thirds vote to make a special order of any bill, but he was voted down.

H. H. Dunn proposed an amendment to the effect that any officer or employee giving out the contents of any bill before the receipt by the house should be punished by dismissal.

In explaining his amendment he referred to the absurd proposal by a St. Paul concern that it would furnish copies of bills before they were introduced in either branch of the legislature, and said that he believed that anything of this kind should be rebuked.

Chairman Nolan of the committee pointed out that this had been covered by the new rule doing away with the old requirement that bills should be at the desk twenty-four hours before they were introduced, and said that so long as under the present rules there would be a committee of the speaker who could offend in this respect, and as he was sure the house had confidence in the speaker, he hoped the amendment would be defeated.

And it was, 53 to 45.

H. H. Dunn proposed another amendment providing that the house may call a bill from a committee at any time and put it on general orders, and the rules committee accepted his proposal, so it was adopted.

The rules were then adopted by a practically unanimous vote.

Spencer With Progressives.

Many have speculated about where Representative Lewis C. Spooner would line up at this session. He was one of the leaders of the H. H. Dunn organization in the house two years ago, and was a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and when he failed to get a decision over Eberhart in company with half a dozen others, he ran independent and was re-elected to the house.

The first test came yesterday, when he stood with the progressive organization and against the insurgents in all of the test votes.

Like the senate the house yesterday adjourned until Monday evening. The committees will be announced in both houses Tuesday morning, and will immediately begin work.

Distance Tariff Bill.

Representative H. H. Dunn, speaker of the last house and author of distance tariff bill in that session, will introduce another distance tariff bill, modeled on the Cushman bill already introduced in the senate early next week.

The chances for the passage of this measure are unquestionably much better than they were two years ago, when the only thing that beat it was the argument that its passage would render "moot" the state rate cases pending in the supreme court of the United States. The wait for the final decision in these cases has been so long that it is highly improbable that this argument will have very much weight at this session.

L. C. Hodgson, a St. Paul newspaper man widely known under the pen name of "Larry Ho," was appointed yesterday afternoon as secretary to Speaker Rines, much to the delight of the press gallery and to the satisfaction of the members.

R. W. Bradfield of Chisholm, by appointment of Representative Knapp, is to be the assistant clerk of the house judiciary committee.

Knowing How About Hogs

If a man can raise hogs that are good enough to win the highest honors at the greatest livestock show in the world he must know something about what is good for a hog. That's what we thought when we asked H. T. Morgan to write us an article on what to put into a hog to get the most out of him. More than once Mr. Morgan has brought fat hogs to the International Livestock Exposition that won highest honors on foot and on the block. A hog that wins in the carcass contest has been fed right. Morgan knows how. Read his article.

A Lot of Little Worlds

Down in Maryland Nature has made a ragged job of the shore line. Every few miles there is a long inlet or estuary and boats run away up into the country to get the farmer's produce. Farmers fifteen miles apart have different boat lines, and for that reason they don't get together as often as most farmers. Going across a river presents more difficulties than crossing the road—the hen stays on the other side, too. J. Russell Smith went down there and found that each little peninsula was a little world by itself, growing its own peculiar crops. He has written several articles about these rich little worlds that are surrounded by oyster beds. This is the first of the series.

My Little Farm

This is a story written by a man who is "his own boss" and who doesn't believe in cutting wood with a bucksaw. He came from England a poor man and settled in Canada. His first job was with a truck gardener, and he tells how he improved on his employer's methods and finally came to own a farm of his own. It is a simple story of a man who worked with his shirt and his mind open.

Eating Our Heads Off

That is what some of us are doing. Indigestion is the great American disease. It's a sneak. You go on peacefully eating until it creeps on you and makes you think something else is the matter with you. Heart disease, liver complaints, headaches, are usually only fancy disguises of indigestion. The human body is like a gasoline engine which, when loaded up on poor gasoline, gradually clogs up, slows down and stops. The farmer has the finest food available, but does he use it right? Dr. Roger J. Perkins tells of the evils of Pie and Fry.

The Cereal of the South

We have a growing rice industry. This food crop, the mainstay of several nations, can be grown to perfection on many adaptable lands in the Southern States. It is immensely profitable where well managed. It does not unduly exhaust the soil; it is a crop worth studying. Read about it in the article, "Where Rice is King," by F. G. Moorhead.

EVERYMAN'S GARDEN

Are you willing to pay a few cents a week for a year's instruction, telling you every week, almost in words of one syllable, what to do with that little garden of yours? You are too wrapped up in business to take time enough to learn gardening—but you insist on pottering around your garden and blaming the seedman for your failures. It's our job to prevent the failures. And we propose to do it each week of the coming year in a simple, practical way.

A Corn Cob

The reason men succeed who mind their own business is because they have so little competition. This is the motto that hangs in the living-room of a Kansas farmer. He has mined his own business so well that he now owns a lot of rich prairie land and the biggest battery of silos in the country. He is one of those fellows who puts the oil where the squeak is. He says a moving-machine ought to last fifteen years. His did. He doesn't waste his corn cobs, either. Charles Dillon has written a mighty interesting article on this man and his farm. You'll like it.

Cashing-In

The vital fact in all this rural credit agitation frequently overlooked is: What has the farmer to offer for the money he wants to borrow? How will he pay it back, even if the loan is for a long term of years? What secures the investment? What is the greatest asset of a farm? Why must methods be improved before cash will be forthcoming? These and a dozen other pertinent questions are answered by Mr. R. F. Harris, the Illinois farmer-banker. He knows the farmer's side because he runs a farm of his own; and he knows the banker's side because that is his chief business. What he says is fundamental and mighty important.

Sixteen Years of Plenty

Secretary James Wilson has directed the United States Department of Agriculture through a period of the greatest development of American farming. His report, just issued, is a historic document, tracing the expansion of agriculture through these years of increasing farm production. Read the summary. It is inspiring and suggestive, and a wealth of the future of farming.

A Paragraph That Men Can Skip

During the coming year we shall devote more space to the distaff side of the household. And we shall do this, not by taking away anything from the man's department, but by increasing the size of the weekly. Space does not permit us to tell here all our plans for the countrywoman; but these plans include the woman's sphere from cellar to parlor and from hedge-row to hedge-row; and her clothes from head to foot. In this number we begin a fashion department for women, which will appear fortnightly—often if there is a large demand for it. Nor shall we forget the woman's church and social life, her children and the schools.

Are you willing to pay a few cents a week for a year's instruction, telling you every week, almost in words of one syllable, what to do with that little garden of yours? You are too wrapped up in business to take time enough to learn gardening—but you insist on pottering around your garden and blaming the seedman for your failures. It's our job to prevent the failures. And we propose to do it each week of the coming year in a simple, practical way.

ORANGES AND LEMONS SOAR

Cold Weather in California Sends Prices of These Fruits Up.

Beef and Veal Reach New High Levels—Potatoes Are Cheaper.

Cold weather in California has done a vast amount of damage to the orange and lemon crops. The extent of the injury is not yet known, but the trade is very nervous about it and the prices of oranges and lemons have been boosted in all parts of the country. It may be that they will go yet higher. It depends on what the actual extent of the losses proves to be. There is little doubt that the best oranges will be pretty expensive from now on, though what have been nipped by the frost will probably sell cheaper. This will all probably be the case with lemons.

A box of California naval oranges which a week ago sold for $2.10, now brings $2.50. A box of lemons that sold a few days ago for $5.75 is now priced at $6 and it would not be at all surprising to see the prices go considerably higher. These boosts may be only a beginning. California winter pears are a little higher, a box that a week ago sold for $2.50 now brings at $2.75. These are storage pears and it is but natural that they should advance as the time of their storage grows longer.

Apples have not changed from the prices at which they sold a week ago. They are much cheaper than they were at this time last year. It is reasonable to expect some advance in the near future.

Bananas are cheaper, the wholesale price having dropped from 4 cents a pound, where it has stood for some months, back to 4 cents. This seems to be due to the fact that there is very little demand for bananas just now.

It is reported that the crop for next summer will be short, and that the price will be higher. The Central American banana market says they can tell now about what kind of a crop they will have for the summer trade.

Florida strawberries are on the market. They are very fine in quality and bringing at wholesale a quarter of a price which, of course, is prohibitive to people of ordinary means. That is about the price they usually bring at this time of the year.

Florida wax and green beans, strange to say are cheaper, now selling at $4.75 per bushel hamper. A bushel of wax beans sold at $6.50 and the green beans at $6. The prices of these fancy vegetables are very erratic at this time of the year.

Potatoes are cheaper. Farmers have been bringing them to market in large quantities. There is an abundance of them in the country. The wholesale price, which a week ago was 26 cents is now 24 cents a bushel. Dealers say the potatoes may go even lower in the near future.

Meats of all kinds, including poultry, are very high. Beef and veal are higher than they ever before, were known to be. The wholesale price of beef at Duluth now ranges from 8 1/2 to 12 cents a pound and veal from 12 to 14 cents a pound. Mutton, lamb and pork are also higher. The live stock receipts at the principal packing country have been very low. This is especially true of cattle.

Live poultry is quite scarce. Wholesale prices of frozen fowls. Live hens, which a week ago brought 13 and 14 cents a pound, are now selling at 14 1/2 cents a pound. Live spring chickens, which a week ago sold for 14 cents a pound, are now selling at 15 1/2 cents. Dressed hens are now selling at 16 1/2 cents. Live turkeys are selling at 15 cents a week ago. Dressed turkeys have gone up from 15 1/2 to 17 cents.

Fresh eggs are cheaper, but storage eggs are dearer. Fresh eggs are now selling at 26 and 27 cents wholesale, in place of 27 to 28 cents, but storage eggs, which a week ago were selling at 20 and 21 cents are now selling at 21 and 22 cents. Dealers say the price of storage eggs has been unusually low. Fresh eggs, they say, are more plentiful by far than they were a year ago, because the winter has thus far been so much milder.

HARRY THAW GRAY, STOOPEL AND MEER

Taken From Matteawan Asylum to Court as Witness.

New York, Jan. 10.—A sad visaged man of middle aged with gray hair and a slight stoop in the broad shoulders sat in the Grand Union cafe a few evenings ago. The hand played popular air, but the man was unmoved by the lilting music.

"Holy smoke," exclaimed one of the diners, "can that be the same Harry Thaw who used to leave a streak along the White Way whenever he appeared?"

"No. We are going back to Matteawan," Thaw was brought here to appear in the trial of a suit brought against his mother, Mrs. William Copley Thaw by lawyer John B. Gleason. Gleason brings suit for $25,000 counsel fee.

"GYM" PANTS MAY BE DONNED BY JOHN D.

May Cavort Through the Game of Volley Ball.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 10.—Will John D. Rockefeller, crack golfer and erstwhile oil man, slip his slim thighs into a pair of red striped "Gym" pants and cavort through a game of volleyball with the same careless aplomb he displays in whacking the little rubber golf ball over his forest hill and Pucantico links?

That's the question among fellow members of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, all because the first class meet this week in the new church gymnasium—and John D.'s name led in the list of invitees.

"We might be able to invade him into a mild game of volleyball," said J. G. Percy, doubtfully. Percy, for twenty years a Y. M. C. A. officer, will have charge of the innovation "Gym" work.

Volley ball, you know, is the game in which you knock a soft ball over a net out of the other fellow's frenzied grasp. It is argued John's long and well-tried "reach" and general twisting ability should land him an easy win.

Anyhow, Percy is certain that a card exhibition would have to be a card affair. He fears the visit to the galleries overlooking the "Gym" might result in a riot.

MARRIAGE MAY BAR

Lefty Flynn, Yale Halfback, From Returning to School.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 10.—"Lefty" Flynn, the big Yale halfback, who was married in New York a few days ago to Miss Rene Leary, a chorus girl, cannot return to Yale, according to Russell B. Chittenden, director of the scientific school. Director Chittenden is displeased at the manner in which Flynn was married. He said:

"If Mr. Flynn has contracted a marriage under the conditions as reported, he has communicated himself by his act."

Prof. Chittenden was asked if there was any rule which prevented the marriage of a student during his college course.

"Oh, no," he replied, "not under certain conditions. If a man's parents are heard from, there is nothing to prevent his being married and remaining in the school; but a marriage under such conditions as Mr. Flynn is reported to have made is not the same. Many have married during their college course."

BEAUTY COSTS JOB.

Physical Culture Teacher at Bethany College Is Dismissed.

Bethany, W. Va., Jan. 10.—"They would give no reason for putting me out of the college except that I was too beautiful to remain in the vicinity of the male students," explained Miss Helena Kosterling, dismissed as physical culture instructor at Bethany college.

"Because a girl is pretty and lively she has no right to live in the same room as these 'old fogies' who run the college are supposed to reign over."

Five male students were expelled at the same time in account of their friendship for the handsome gymnasium instructor.

"The trustees told me my beauty was likely to prove a hindrance in my work," said Miss Kosterling. "When I insisted on a reason for my dismissal, they said I had walked into the principal's office after 7 o'clock in the evening with a male student, and that was the reason for my dismissal."

SAY VALUATIONS ARE INADEQUATE

North Dakota Tax Commission Disclosures Set People to Thinking.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A larger assessed valuation of property so the state will get due credit for its wealth, and as a result a lower tax levy so prospective investors will not be frightened away, are what the people of North Dakota demand of the legislature.

For years there has been desultory discussion along these lines, but the matter has come to a more acute agitation since the recent reports of the state tax commission, in order to get what almost every one knew that the property of North Dakota was being assessed at only about 15 to 20 per cent of its actual value, while it was supposed to be listed at something like 40 per cent.

Under the present method the state gets credit for only about $3,000,000 in valuation, when it easily is worth from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000. The ridiculously small total is a laughing stock for the state that aspires to be an equitable valuation, and the tax levy is just as exorbitantly high as the assessment is low.

This latter fact has prevented many settlers from locating here, and frightened a large number of prospective capitalists who wanted to invest money in the state.

Low Levy as Advertisement.

An equitable valuation with a correspondingly low levy would be a big advertisement for the state in two ways and secure the same amount of taxes.

At present there are two extremes. In some towns the business men have the assessment held down to escape county and state taxes, and privately subscribe to support the city government. In others the demands of the city fathers are so great that they get the bond limit high all property is assessed heavily.

IS VERY KIND TO THE CATS

Berlin Judge Inflicts Stiff Damages on Offending Officer.

German Law Is Most Considerate of Family Pets.

Berlin, Jan. 10.—Germany is the paradise of cats. In no other country, except, perhaps, ancient Egypt, where the cat used to be regarded as sacred, has pussy's well-being ever been studied so carefully than it is in the fatherland today. Good Americans, so 'tis said, go to Paris when they die, but American cats can desire no more blissful future state than to be transported to Germany after nine well-spent lives under the Stars and Stripes.

Jerome K. Jerome, you may remember, described how carefully cats are looked after in the fatherland. In "Three Men on the Bump" he tells how he hurled the usual bootjack and other missiles at some Berlin cats whose yowls were disturbing his slumbers, and how he was promptly waited on by a German policeman, who had carefully collected all his ammunition, and demanded to know why the articles had been thrown. When told that they had been flung at cats, he demanded "What cats?" evidently expecting Jerome to be able to furnish the name and address of each particular feline. Then he informed the novel list that in Germany people are not permitted to throw things at cats, even when the animals are preventing them from sleeping. He said the proper course to pursue was to pursue the cat; in other words, follow it home, and thus having ascertained who the serenader belonged to, to make a complaint, which, if unheeded, could be followed by legal proceedings.

Feast Is Dire.

Now, German law has solemnly laid down the circumstances—and the only ones—under which a cat may be shot.

A lieutenant in the army who lives in Berlin shot two, and after the penalty that has befallen him for thus destroying eighteen lives. He has been mulcted as the law has it, in damages amounting to $30, or $15 per cat, besides having to pay all costs.

This lieutenant, whose name is Klotz, has a tame raven which spends most of its time in strutting about in the garden. The lieutenant believed that two cats who kept prowling in the vicinity had designs on the raven, and after he had then a few times, he shot first one and then the other, the latter when it was sneaking along the garden path in the direction which the raven had taken on its morning promenade. No one seems that he acted precipitately. A Teutonic judge has decreed that the owner of a cat or any binner who suspects a cat of having marked a certain bird for its own must wait until he catches the feline in the very act of pouncing on its prey. Then he may shoot it, but not otherwise, even though the yard may be strewn with the plumage of previous feathered victims of the assassin.

The Proper Method.

A cat may not be molested even if it is seen slinking away with your canary in its mouth. That is not conclusive evidence, according to the recent judicial decision. The thing to be done is to arm yourself with a gun, lay in a good stock of patience, and lie in wait for the cat. If you actually see it about to spring on a bird, then shoot, and a good aim to you, but if all these conditions are not fulfilled, the cat may walk past you with peace in its heart and a mocking smile on its face, secure in its legal rights.

In deciding the Berlin case, the judge severely condemned Lieut. Klotz's action in massacring the cats without positive proof that they meditated the destruction of his raven. The learned magistrate held that the cats, having been "scattered" once, could have been scattered again without recourse to bloodshed, and he incidentally laid down the law for cat killing as set forth above. Whether the cuts of Berlin laughed or not when they heard the verdict is not known, but it certainly was enough to make them.

CANDIDATES FOR COMMISSION FROM ALL PARTS OF THE CITY AND FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE

H. J. MULLIN.

If any Duluth voter falls on April 1 to find in the list of candidates for the commission five men for whom he can conscientiously vote, he must be a queer fish.

There will be candidates from all parts of the city and from all walks of life. There will be candidates of proved ability, candidates of unproved ability, and there may be candidates of no ability. There will be Republicans, Democrats, Socialists and perhaps Prohibitionists, all thrown into the race without party designation and forced to make the run on personality, ability and popularity alone. The professional business and the trades will be represented in the lists. If any man is narrow enough to look at nationality, he will have a wide selection. There is no standard to which men may be fitted that may not be applied to some that will be in the list.

The number of actual candidates is increasing daily. For the time the prospective candidates are out of consideration. The men for whom petitions are being circulated are in the public eye and they intend to stay in the public eye until after the election—and they are hoping they will be there after the election.

pear are for John H. Norton, John T. Armstrong and Neil B. Morrison. Mr. Norton has just completed six years as county attorney and has returned to private practice. Some of his friends believe he would make a fine commissioner and they will file a petition for him. Mr. Armstrong was in the earliest list of "those mentioned," and his candidacy has become a fact, so far as the circulation of petitions goes. Mr. Morrison was formerly register of the land office and has been in the insurance business for the last two years. He is a man of high character and is completing and the first ward alderman is laying his campaign plans. Mr. Hicken will be a candidate for a two-year term. Petitions are being circulated for H. J. Mullin, the local estate agent, and for Edward Blackwood, who has been a candidate for a two-year term.

Though the Socialist party can have no candidates at the election as a party, there will be Socialists in the list. Five have announced their candidacy for the five offices, and they will be a real test for Socialist support. Morris Kaplan, who was the Socialist candidate for congress in the Eighth district at the recent election, will be a candidate for mayor. P. G. Phillips, chairman of the Eighth ward, and W. E. Towne will be candidates for commissioner for four years, and Edward Blackwood will run for the two-year terms.

WITNESSES ON TARIFF MUST ALL BE SWORN

ation of congress. The tentative plan of the committee is to follow it very closely. This, in a general way, is the plan of the Democratic leaders with respect to all the tariff schedules covered by separate bills which passed the house and senate at the last session.

The Democratic plan bases the rate on the value of the article instead of the specific rates of the present Payne-Aldrich tariff law and now 15 cents a ton, tungsten zinc ore, hoop iron, hand tools, hardware, wire fencing, wire mesh, wire nails, iron steel cut nails or spikes, wire mesh, cash registers. The Democrats have expected by the Underwood bill to reduce the average duties on the articles in that schedule by 35 per cent and that the schedule would produce $17,477,640 in revenue.

Meets Opposition.
The proposal to put printing presses on the free list instead of a 30 per cent ad valorem duty, as under the present tariff, brought a protest from James E. Bennett of New York, representing twenty-two printing manufacturers, that the present tariff should stand. He challenged government statistics of the printing industry and said when he told him they had to go to the Underwood bill to verify the figures, officials there told him they could not tell whether packages were "printing presses or feather beds." He said as the Underwood bill was concerned, "asked Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, the American printing press manufacturer has a monopoly."

Chairman Underwood told the witnesses that the Democrats were seeking a tariff for revenue and not to protect profits, and that there was no disposition to maintain a tariff unless there was some revenue to the government. The witness contended that the business was being run on a small margin.

Chairman Underwood said the proposition was to make all articles on the dutiable list pay some reasonable duty.

Really Goes to Labor.
Mr. Bennett pressed a suggestion, said to the point of revision that the American bank was willing to experiment with the government on a 25 per cent tariff. Mr. Bennett said the 25 per cent tariff really went to labor, as was less than the difference in the cost of labor between the United States and foreign countries.

Mr. Baker testified that the American printing presses were increasing, they were not making the increase in the foreign markets. He admitted that the tariff would not help the Americans in the foreign markets, his contention being to protect the home market against a cheaper labor abroad.

Edwin Radford of Brooklyn, wanted the tariff on gold leaf raised from 35 per cent ad valorem to 50 per cent, and said any reduction would result in ruin.

"Every Little Olive Tablet Has a Movement All Its Own"

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the bowels and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

clared, Mr. Baker said, to enable the stockholders to take up the additional investment. In 1908, in order to provide a $10,000,000 capital for the organization of the First Securities company to take over the business which the bank could not do under the law. Mr. Baker said, and a special dividend of $10,000,000 was declared. This was in addition to the regular yearly dividends.

In discussing voluntary trust agreements, Mr. Baker said that the election of directors by the voting trust of the Guaranty company was "purely formal."

"Then the directors are a self-perpetuating body?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Yes," replied the witness, "things are done in New York that way without much consideration. If a corporation is going along all right and is paying dividends, there is not any question about the re-election of the directors."

Mr. Baker stated that his bank and the J. P. Morgan & Co. had three directors in the National Bank of Commerce.

"Would you object to giving the committee the list of your individual holdings in the various banks and trust companies in New York," asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Yes," replied the witness with some emphasis, "I think that that is more than I can do with my tailor bill."

"But if the concern of congress whether one national bank controls another such bank," declared the witness.

Mr. Untermyer argued with the witness at some length, and after a conference with the committee, Mr. Baker finally consented to give the list. He said that he owned 4,600 shares in the National Bank of Commerce, 50 shares in the Chase National bank, 1,500 Bankers' Trust, 1,000 Farmers' Loan & Trust, 100 Bankers' Loan & Trust and 350 Astor Trust company.

Mr. Untermyer took the accumulation of about 42,000 shares of National Bank of Commerce stock by Mr. Baker and George H. Silliman from the Mutual and Equitable Insurance companies. Mr. Baker said he would remember the details of the transaction, but he and J. P. Morgan and Mr. Silliman had conferred on the purchase, and they had tacitly agreed that the stock was to be divided after the purchase. A part went to Mr. Morgan. The purchase of the stock of the Equitable Assurance company by Mr. Morgan with a contingent interest by Mr. Baker and Mr. Silliman, also was discussed.

Just Backed Morgan.
"Oh, Mr. Silliman and I just backed up Morgan in one of the charitable things he is prompted to do," said Mr. Baker, in explanation.

Mr. Untermyer elicited that an attempt was now being made to mutualize the companies which had the policy holders take over the stock for the price Mr. Morgan paid for it. Mr. Baker said that he did not believe in his experience with mutual insurance companies, that the Mutual and Equitable was a management and control of the company. He further stated he had never been asked to take over three-fourths interest in the Equitable stock he agreed to take.

Mr. Baker admitted that he and Mr. Morgan and Mr. Silliman consulted frequently about large financial operations and that he and Mr. Morgan were interested in many vast financial enterprises, but that he could not say just how many.

Director in Competing Roads.
In answer to further questions, Mr. Baker said he was a director in the Burlington and Northern Pacific railroads, which he said were competitors between certain points; a director in the New York, Erie and Western valleys and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroads, competing between New York and Chicago.

Mr. Baker asserted that he could see no objection to one man holding directorships in two competing roads that might compete. Mr. Untermyer asked about the conditions of the roads in which he was interested when the law forces them to dispose of their control of the coal mines in the anthracite region.

They just formed a sales company, said the witness, and the companies sold the coal to the railroads at the mines," said Mr. Baker.

"Yes, that's right," said Mr. Untermyer, "just whipped the devil around the stump," commented Mr. Untermyer.

Controller of the Currency Murray, will decline to furnish the house money trust committee in response to its request, a list of loans of $1,000,000 or more made by National banks to any one person or any one interest, it became known today. Mr. Murray said he regarded as confidential the information of this character, which he possessed and felt constrained to refuse to divulge it, unless otherwise ordered by the president. Only thirteen banks are permitted to loan as much as $1,000,000 to any individual, and it was pointed out that the committee might procure the information by subpoenaing officers of the banks.

This is the first meeting since last November, the activities of the organization having been discontinued on account of the holidays.

New committees will be appointed to carry on the proposed improvements for the West end this coming year, which includes a $50 railroad station, the paving of several of the streets and avenues and the establishment of the white way on Superior street.

PATIENTS REPLY TO LANDIN BUT HE HOLDS HIS GROUND

Although a communication has been received by The Herald signed by nine patients at the pesthouse, stating that the charges made last evening by Gust Landin in this column are all untrue, Mr. Landin this morning refused to withdraw any of his statements.

"I have nothing to say against the management," said Mr. Landin when informed that a communication has been received from these patients. "Mr. McDougall is one of the finest men I ever met and his management is all that could be desired. The food and treatment of the patients is all that could be desired. The other conditions of which I complained cannot be remedied by Mr. McDougall. It is not his fault, but those higher up."

"There were twenty-three people at the house just before I got there, a large number leaving at the same time I arrived. If there are only six rooms in the building, how can there only be two in a room. While I was at the house, there were three people in one room. The registers of the hot air system are not covered up at all and the foul air coming up from the basement is not at all stopped, as this communication states. I have heard others at the house complain and the statement that I am the first of 1,600 patients to register a complaint, is untrue."

"It is not Mr. McDougall I am complaining about, but the building. He is too good for a place like that."

The statement sent to The Herald and signed by nine patients of the institution follows: "Mr. Landin says that the pesthouse is insanitary and smells foully and that there were twenty-three people in six rooms. All of these statements are untrue, as there never were more than thirteen patients at the house, while he was here. The bedrooms are all large and airy and there are separate change twice each week. There are never more than two patients in a room. The whole house is swept and cleaned every day and a disinfectant liquid is used on the water. Referring to the heating plant, a hot air furnace is in good order, but has not proved satisfactory as the stoves have been used."

"In regard to the foul air coming through the registers, these registers are all covered up, so that is impossible. Patients do not use one room, but have separate rooms to live in. The patients' clothing is washed twice a week and everything is furnished for their personal comfort. We have three good meals a day and Mr. McDougall is the right man in the right place. So are all the members of the health department."

HILLSIDE CLUB TO CONSIDER CANDIDATES

The West End Hillside Improvement club will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening at the Ensign hotel, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

Among the subjects to be taken up will be the paving of Twenty-third avenue west, Fifth street, and the construction of a number of sanitary buildings in this end of the city. The members will also discuss the candidates for the city commission.

SERIES OF SERMONS ON SECOND COMING.

Rev. J. A. McDougall of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will Sunday evening start a series of four sermons on "The Second Coming of Our Lord." The subjects beginning Sunday evening are: "Jesus is Coming," "When He is Coming," "What Follows His Coming," and "Who Will Participate in His Millennium Reign?" On Sunday morning he will preach on "The Program of God."

SPECKELS WILL CASE MAY NOW BE REOPENED

Honolulu, Jan. 10.—By a decision rendered here reversing a finding of the supreme court of California, the first circuit court of the United States, Judge Henry E. Cooper, presiding, made it possible for John D. Spreckels of San Francisco, and his brother, Adolph, to re-open the famous Spreckels' will case, involving $9,187,612, which has been in the courts since 1908.

Hawaiian property involved directly amounts to approximately $750,000. Suit was brought on Aug. 8, 1912, under instructions from John D. and Adolph Spreckels, to protect their interest in a sale then pending here of property left by their father, the late Claus Spreckels of San Francisco. A deal then almost completed was broken off.

Although the decision applies only to Hawaiian property, the court being a Federal court, appeal can only be taken to the United States supreme court which would have to interpret the will, and if its interpretation differed from that of the California court, there would be a possibility of re-opening the case in California.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF IT.

City Police Surgeon Murphy, in his annual report, strikes clearly for official action on what may be called the human side of the police department's work. He urges recognition of the now established principle that all who come into the hands of the city's guardians are not equally guilty, nor equally deserving of severe treatment.

Dr. Murphy's suggestions are worth while. It is not so many years since there was a feeling that anybody who fell into the hands of the police was bound to be at fault somewhere, and that he was not and could not be deserving of either pity or condonation. Today people and municipalities generally have come to recognize that there are degrees of fault, and that in many cases a bit of intelligent help will prevent the absolute downfall of the individual who has made one misstep or encountered misfortune.

In keeping with this understanding, many cities have instituted welfare work of one kind or another. Help for those who need it and punishment only in cases of actual culpability are becoming the rule. This is the kind of thing Dr. Murphy recommends for Duluth, and that is the system toward which the city has been working for some months.

This report of the police surgeon should add to the impetus of the movement. It is in the nature of a tip from the inside in favor of the accomplishment of the work already begun.

Now perhaps the Los Angeles papers will quit adorning their front pages with invidious comparisons between the climate there and elsewhere.

INCENDIARISM AND INSURANCE.

Starting charges against the insurance companies are made by Joseph Johnson, fire commissioner of New York City, in his report to Mayor Gaynor on incendiary in that city. In support of his charges, Mr. Johnson quotes words ascribed to the manager of the Scottish Union and National Fire Insurance company of Edinburgh, thus:

"Were there no fires, there would be no insurance business; on the other hand, the greater the fire damage, the greater the turn-over, out of which insurance companies make profits. Speaking tonight as manager of a fire insurance company, I say we cannot make profits for our shareholders without fires. And, further, that within certain well-defined limits, we welcome fires."

Accepting this as a text, and coupling it with the results of an investigation into fires in New York and their causes, the commissioner draws the conclusion that "indiscriminate granting of policies by insurance companies, without proper previous investigation of character of applicant and nature of risk, is the main cause of the crime of arson." * * * The present system of conducting fire insurance business in this country is responsible for not less than one-fourth—some authorities say more than one-third—of our annual fire loss.

Comparing conditions in New York with those in other big cities, Mr. Johnson says that during 1910 London had 3,041 fires, Berlin 2,068, Paris 2,030 and New York 1,405. Referred to a per capita basis, the figures are: London, 81 for every 100,000 inhabitants; Berlin 97; St. Petersburg 75; Paris 74; Vienna 59, and New York 300.

Regarding the precautions taken—or rather not taken—in issuing new policies, the report says:

"Though many concerns in New York today have had 'previous' fires—one prominent firm in the shirt waist line having had nine—on which they have collected ample insurance, their ability to obtain more insurance remains unimpaired. Insurance companies make few inquiries save as to the ability of the insured to pay premiums."

In support of this charge, the commissioner further gives statistics to show that his investigators, in the course of their work, secured without difficulty 135 different policies, amounting to $127,000, on property worth only $396.

The New York World, quoting a defense of the companies made by an unnamed champion, says that "it would cost $2.50 to make anything like a proper inspection. * * * After many years of consideration the underwriters have allowed the present system to prevail because it is

KEEP THE DULUTH CUSTOMS DISTRICT.

According to a dispatch from The Herald's Washington correspondent, published yesterday, a movement is on foot at Washington for the abolition of the Duluth customs district as a separate district, and its consolidation with the Minnesota district. Under this plan the Duluth office would be put under the management of a deputy collector and all final determinations of matters arising here would have to be reached at St. Paul.

THAT PROPOSITION SHOULD BE FOUGHT, TOOTH AND TOENAIL, BY EVERY MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM MINNESOTA, BY EVERY MEMBER FROM EVERY STATE BORDERING ON THE GREAT LAKES, AND BY THE LAKE CARRIERS' AND OTHER ORGANIZATIONS, CIVIC AND COMMERCIAL, AND INDIVIDUALS HAVING INTERESTS IN GREAT LAKES SHIPPING.

The proposal for consolidation of the two districts grew out of the decision at Washington to economize in the matter of offices and officials in the work under the treasury department. There are many offices in the country where such action would result in economy and for the benefit of the customs service generally. But the Duluth district is not one of them, for three reasons:

First, the business of the Duluth district is too great to warrant the cumbersome methods naturally attached to having the main seat of operations removed some hundred or two hundred miles from the headquarters of the district.

Second, the office is on a paying basis, which is more than can be said of some other offices in the service. Last year the expenses of maintaining the Duluth district were only some 5 per cent of the revenue from this district.

Third, and most important of all to the shipping interests, the removal of the headquarters from Duluth to St. Paul or any other inland city would mean endless confusion and delays in the transaction of business regarding shipping.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, there were 337 vessels recorded as entering the port of Duluth from foreign ports, and 239 that cleared here for foreign ports; from domestic ports 2,733 entered Duluth, and 2,847 cleared for domestic ports.

In the same period the exports from this port to foreign ports amounted to $897,626 and the imports from foreign ports totaled $1,351,953 besides the return to this country from abroad of American goods on which no duty was collected to the value of $16,358.

IN THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1912, THE TOTAL RECEIPTS AT THE DULUTH OFFICE WERE $252,604.19, AND THE COST OF MAINTENANCE WAS ONLY 5 PER CENT OF THE REVENUE.

But the heaviest burden from the change proposed would fall on the shipping interests. Under the treasury department regulations, clearance papers, questions involving the conduct of ships' officers, fines and all other similar details have to be handled through the office which is the head of the district. Remove that head from a lake port to an inland city and it means interminable uncertainties, delays and aggravations, not only from the fact of distance from the scene, but from the unfamiliarity of officials with actual conditions and the necessity of repeated reports and inquiries.

Shipping interests have had a sample of what that kind of service means in the operation of the Marquette district, which embraces Superior. All business originating at Superior involving a final determination has to be transacted through communication with the Marquette office, and the result has been delay and dissatisfaction.

There is nothing to justify any such consolidation as is proposed for the Duluth district. The treasury department should keep the customs service here on the same basis it is on now. Its continuation is necessary—not for the sake of Duluth—but for the sake of efficiency, expedition and economy of both time and money. The Duluth civic organizations, which are on the ground and can see and understand the situation, and every vessel and shipping interest concerned with traffic on the Great Lakes should unite to oppose the change.

the best economic arrangement that can be made."

If it be true, and there seems to be basis for the charge, that the present system in fact encourages incendiary, it certainly is not a good economic arrangement for the public at large; for every fire started by one of these insurance-seekers endangers the property of others as well as his own. It may be that the recurrence of fires adds, through the breeding of fear in the minds of the people, to the business of the insurance companies, but this is no valid excuse for the encouragement, directly or indirectly, of incendiary. The World says:

"The simple truth is that fire insurance, under its present loose methods, holds the door open for incendiary. For business reasons of its own, it makes arson profitable, endangers human life and deliberately takes its chances in dealing with fraud. It encourages crime rather than loss, commissions and premiums."

This is a serious proposition. The incendiary is more than an insurance fraud—he is a menace to both the lives and property of others. If the insurance companies are not doing their part in the war on such practices, they should be compelled to change their methods.

But to charge the companies themselves with this laxity seems to be going a bit far. Probably it should be laid rather to the eagerness of agents to secure business and commissions. If this is the case, the companies would do well to check up their agencies more carefully, and thereby prove their own good faith and at the same time do the public a service.

While the fruit is freezing on the trees in California, the Ohio river is getting over its banks. Is the country completely turned around?

THANK YOU, MR. DUXBURY.

It is not often that the newspapers of a community are accorded heartfelt and spontaneous praise, even when they feel that they are entitled to it. So the compliment paid the press of Minnesota by State Senator Duxbury is all the more unexpected, and is accepted with the greater

THE EDITOR.

THE "NORTHWEST ANGLE" EXPLAINED.

To the Editor of The Herald: Through columns of your paper kind friends have got the history of "The Northwest Angle" or reference to some book giving it. Yours truly, S. G. C. JOHNSON, Grandy, Minn., Jan. 9.

From "Silent Documents Illustrative of the History of the United States, 1776-1861," by William Macdonald. This book is in the reference room of the Library, Treaty of Paris, made Sept. 3, 1783.

"And that all disputes which might arise in future on the subject of the boundaries of the said United States may be prevented, it is hereby agreed and declared that the following are and shall be their boundaries, viz: On the north, the 45th parallel of latitude, viz, that angle which is formed by a line drawn due north from the source of St. Croix river to the Highlands, along the said Highlands which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the Atlantic ocean, to the northwestern head of Long Lake; thence down along the middle of that river to the 45th deg. of north latitude; thence, by a line due west on said latitude until it strikes the river Iroquois or Cataraugus; thence along the middle of said river into Lake Ontario, through the middle of said lake until it strikes the communication by water between that lake and Lake Erie; thence along the middle of said communication to Lake Erie, thence through the middle of said lake until it arrives at the water communication between that lake and Lake Huron; thence along the middle of said water communication into Lake Huron; thence through the middle of that lake to the mouth thereof; thence through Lake Superior northward of the Isles Royale and Pelee; thence through Lake Superior northward of the middle of said Long Lake, and the water communication between it and the Lake of the Woods; thence through the said lakes to the most northwestern point thereof and from thence, on a due west course to the river Mississippi; thence by a line to be drawn along the middle of said river Mississippi until it shall intersect the 45th parallel of latitude; thence, by a line to be drawn due east from the intersection of the said 45th parallel of latitude and the middle of the river Apalachicola or Cataraugus; thence along the middle of that river to the head of St. Mary's river; thence through the middle of that river to the mouth thereof; thence straight to the head of St. Mary's Falls; and thence down along the river to its mouth on the Atlantic ocean. East by a line to be drawn along the middle of the river St. Croix, from the Bay of Fundy to its source, and from its source directly north to the aforesaid Highlands, which divide the rivers that empty into the Bay of Fundy and those that fall into the river St. Lawrence; comprehending all islands within twenty leagues of any part of the said line, and extending from the one part and East Florida on the other, shall respectively touch the Bay of Fundy and the Atlantic ocean; except that St. John's and its harbor, which have been, within the limits of the said province of Nova Scotia."

Stout admits that he got his start in life through a pull. He is a fact member of the board of directors of the country school he attended, and through influence and political wire-pulling, he obtained a place on the school board. Nominally he was the "custodian" of the schoolhouse, but he had nothing to do with it. He was a "pull" man, and he was a "pull" man in those days raising hogs," he says.

"Every spring my father would make me a present of a runt pig. I would carefully attend to it, feed it and caress it. I would put it up into a right respectable porker. Then when the hogs were driven to market in the fall, my hog invariably got mixed in with the bunch in such a manner that my returns were represented by a single cipher. That, perhaps, had something to do with my general lack of interest in agricultural pursuits as a permanent calling in life."

"A remembrance of my emotions," remarks he, "when I got my first warrant, duly signed by the president and clerk of the board, has served me to make me assume an attitude of hauteur and contempt toward modern great fortunes and latter-day financiers."

"I also made a great deal of money in those days raising hogs," he says. "Every spring my father would make me a present of a runt pig. I would carefully attend to it, feed it and caress it. Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Having in now all the old-time jokes about defeated candidates and Salt River, let it now sink into the consciousness of the casual reader that the next congressman-at-large from Montana, one Tom Street by name, was born on Salt river, out in Halls county, Missouri—in Champ Clark's district.

Stout is a mere youngster of thirty-three and owns a newspaper at Lewistown, Mont. Only a few years ago he struck Montana almost at broke—but through no fault or prodigality of his own. He had saved up a lot of money from teaching school back in Missouri and had nearly $14 in his pocket after buying an emigrant ticket to Montana.

This would have been ample for immediate needs and all might have been well if our young hero had not fallen in with a congenial old chap from Kentucky on the train. When dinner time arrived the Kentucky man insisted on taking him into the diner and putting up for a $2 meal. Not wishing to be a piker, Stout insisted on buying some expensive Havanas, and they whiled away an hour or two at chat, at which he went forward to his chair in the emigrant car, without letting his liberal acquaintances know he was a poor fellow.

Stout kept up this deception throughout the long journey, but insisted on buying a good meal occasionally in order to keep off the train he had just $7 cents left.

In a day or two he got a job rustling news for the Fergus County Argus. His first task was writing the proceedings of the town council, and it was necessary to relate how the city marshal was discharged for drunkenness.

An hour or two after the paper came out the ex-marshal, who had a front elevation like a prominent giant in the fairy tales, sauntered into the office and inquired of Stout about the discharge of the city marshal.

"Are you the fellow that wrote that piece about me?"

"Yes, mean yes," replied Stout, thinking of the quiet pastoral scenes about his father's farm on Salt river, back in Missouri.

"Well, the next time you write anything about me," directed the ex-marshal, "just see that you get my first name spelled right." Stout was startled and he lurched out of the office.

After that Stout and the ex-marshal became real chums.

HUNTER'S PARK HOME DAMAGED

Residence of W. A. Herzog Is Visited By Fire.

The residence of W. A. Herzog at 2316 Wilkins avenue, Hunter's Park, was practically gutted by fire yesterday afternoon, causing a loss estimated at $2,500, partly covered by insurance.

The cause of the blaze is unknown. Neither the family of Mr. Herzog, residing upstairs, or of F. Ball, occupying the lower rooms, was at home. A neighbor saw the flames and running inside, found the kitchen ablaze.

When No. 4 department arrived the fire had eaten through the roof and was threatening the residence of J. J. Wickersham, Robert Sharpe, chief of

W. Schulberg. The roof was injured to the extent of about $75. The loss of the Herzog property is estimated as $2,500 to the building and $500 to the contents.

Hygienic Face Powder leaves the smooth, velvety feeling so much desired and defies detection if properly applied. Sold by Lyeceum Pharmacy.

ASKS REPRIEVE OF 30 DAYS FOR HYDE.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Attorney General Wickersham has recommended to President Taft that he grant a reprieve of thirty days to Charles J. Hyde of Pierre, S. D., sentenced to fifteen months in prison and to pay a fine of $5,000 for the alleged misuse of town lots. This action is to enable the attorney general to make a thorough investigation of Hyde's right to a pardon or commutation of sentence for which he has applied, and followed a long conference of Mr. Wickersham, Robert Sharpe, chief of postoffice inspectors, and James A. Finch, pardon attorney. Hyde is scheduled by the court's mandate to go to the penitentiary on Jan. 15, but a reprieve will operate as a stay.

May Soon Include Books.

Washington, Jan. 10.—In the judgment of authorities of the postoffice department it is likely to be only a short time until books and other printed matter now handled as third class mail at eight cents a pound, will be made available as parcel post matter. Steps, it became known today, already have been taken to induce congress so to amend the parcel post act as to permit printed matter to be sent by parcel post.

Montana Mining Man Killed.

Anaconda, Mont., Jan. 10.—Supt. W. M. Young of the mines concentrating department of the Washoe smelter, of the Anaconda company, died Wednesday afternoon from injuries sustained by being hit by the rim of a hoisting pulley. He was prominent in mining circles in Montana and Utah.

ELECTION ON BONDS FEB. 1

Issue of $200,000 for New Schools Will Be Submitted.

Mrs. T. J. Davis Takes Oath as Member of School Board.

The school board, at a special meeting yesterday afternoon, fixed Saturday, Feb. 1, as the date for holding the special election for passing upon the proposed issuance of $200,000 of bonds for the erection of two new buildings.

The new structures will be the Robert E. Denfeld industrial high school, which will be located at West Duluth, south of the city school, and the first unit of the Roger S. Munger grade school. The latter will relieve the crowded condition of the Franklin and Jefferson schools. The need of added high school facilities at West Duluth has been felt for some time.

The election is to be held on Saturday in order that the school buildings may be utilized as polling places. This has been done for other school elections and has been found to be satisfactory.

Mrs. T. J. Davis, newly appointed member of the school board and its first woman member, took her oath of office yesterday afternoon and took part in the deliberations of the board. Mrs. Davis was placed on the committee on schools and teachers, of which Dr. S. H. Boyer was made chairman. To succeed Wilson G. Crosby, resigned.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

There is probably no woman on the stage more interested in an outdoor life than Blanche Ring, who comes to the Lyceum Sunday and Monday in "The Wall Street Girl." Miss Ring hardly knows what illness means and this is largely because of her exercise she takes. Even on the road she carries with her a large medicine ball and not a day passes that she does not use this to good advantage. Whenever a train on which the company is traveling becomes stalled or has to wait for connections Miss Ring gets busy with the medicine ball and soon has the members of her chorus out in the open, practicing with her.

Miss Ring's summer home is at Mamaroneck on Long Island sound, about twenty-five miles from New York. Here Miss Ring plays tennis, swims, goes roller skating and drives her own motor. Her sister, Frances Ring, can beat her out when it comes to swimming, but Blanche gets her revenge on the tennis court and at the roller skating rink.

Miss Ring is also interested in gardening and keeps her neighbors well supplied during the summer months with vegetables. She is also busy giving the gardener orders Miss Ring does her working clothes and sun-bonnet and puts in a solid day of hard labor herself, each day.

Miss Ring's summer home is in the midst of a beautiful colony. One of her nearest neighbors is Ethel Barrymore, who lives in the same colony. Mrs. Samuel Colt, Eddie Foy (and his baseball nine of youngsters) lives nearby, while Pauline, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Louise Dresser, Grace La Rue and Lulu Glaser are all within easy calling distance.

At least two famous names are contained on next week's bill at the Orpheum, which will open Sunday afternoon. Joseph Jefferson will be headlined in a playlet by William C. de Mille, entitled "In 1898." It is a satire on woman suffrage. Mr. Jefferson is the son of the famous Joseph Jefferson, whose characterization of "Tippecanoe Winkle" was so beloved by theatergoers. He will be assisted by Felice Morris and Blanche Bentley. Another famous name is that of Mary Quive, who will be seen on next week's bill with Paul McCarty in a musical turn. Mary Quive is the sister of Grace Von Studtford and is herself a musical comedy prima donna of no mean reputation. The rest of the bill is promising. Bedini and Arthur, the jugglers, will return. Bedini is the man who once pitched a turnip thrown from the top of any high building on the end of a fork held in his teeth. The other acts will be presented by Claude Golden, Guerrin and Carmen, the Jordan Girls and the Three Melvin Brothers.

There will be three more performances of this week's popular bill. The audiences have been steadily growing all week, such performers as Claude and Fannie Fisher, the Three Collegians, and Minnie Allen proving big drawing cards.

CUT MATRON'S WAGES.

Cass County, N. D., Board Nips Off Some "Side" Money.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—It has been the custom of the county commissioners to pay the wives of sheriffs of this county $20 per month to act as matrons of the jail. When Sheriff Ross took charge this week the commissioners named Mrs. Ross as matron, but reduced the pay to $15 per month. Ross thought his wife would make as good a matron as those of former officials, and declined. The commissioners then reduced the price to $10 and the sheriff for boarding the prisoners from 75 to 65 cents per day.

DEAD ON PRAIRIE.

Schafer, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dead on the prairie six miles from his claim near Trotter's postoffice, was found the body of Thomas Thompson. The sheriff here was notified but as it is seventy-five miles to the location of the body for more details before making the trip.

Increase Postoffice Force.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extra men and a team have been added to the postoffice force in this city as a result of the institution of the parcel post. More help will be added if patronage continues to increase as rapidly as it has in the past few days.

To Again Exhibit Corn.

Mayville, N. D., Jan. 10.—L. S. Thorpe of this place, who has won the state sweepstakes for four years at the state corn show in Fargo, will exhibit corn again this year, but not for competition, as he wants some other contestant to win for a year or two. He is one of the officials of the state association and has done much to promote corn growing in the state.

Ten Men Drowned.

Liverpool, Jan. 10.—The Booth line steamer Ambrose, while proceeding in the Mersey, collided with a fishing smack and lighter, sinking them both. Ten men lost their lives.

SENATOR PUGH WEARS KNEE BOOTS TO EBERHART'S RECEPTION

Senator T. M. Pugh of Duluth wore his knee boots to the governor's reception at St. Paul last night, according to the Minneapolis Journal, but the senator's Duluth friends believe the "boys" were having a little fun at his expense.

Others may wear patent leathers, or pumps or whatever they choose, but the Duluth senator wears only knee boots and he doesn't care who knows it. Whether he really wore them to the reception or not, the Journal yesterday said:

"State Senator Thomas M. Pugh of Duluth, the only man in the state legislature who still clings to knee boots, came today to go to the inaugural reception for Governor A. O. Eberhart tonight at the state capitol, and planned to wear his boots. Twenty-three years ago, when Senator Pugh, now 55, he wore patent leather shoes to the inaugural ball for Governor William H. Merriam, and he took a mighty oath that governor or no governor, inaugural or no inaugural, unforgotten governor's staff or plain clothes governor's staff, he would never again permit the social proprieties to compel him to doff the comfortable, well-oiled knee boots he had worn—not the same boots, of course—since he settled in Blue Earth county in 1855."

SENATOR T. M. PUGH.

NEW INITIATIVE PLAN SIMILAR TO OHIO LAW PROPOSED BY BJORGE

chance at all measures, except constitutional amendments, proposed by the people.

Ten per cent of the voters may propose a constitutional amendment which goes direct to the people at the next general election.

In the case of statutes proposed by the legislature, if it is passed by the legislature, it is subject to the referendum. If it is not passed, or if it is amended by the legislature, an additional petition signed by 3 per cent of the voters brings it before the people. If the people ratify it, it becomes a law; and if the legislature has passed an amendment to the proposed law, the law enacted by vote of the people supercedes it.

The bill provides for referring any measure to the people if petitions signed by 1 per cent of the voters are filed requesting such referendum.

Initiative and referendum bills following the Oregon plan were offered by Representative Bendixen, who proposes a 10 per cent initiative and a 7 per cent referendum, and by Representative Campbell, who wants an 8 per cent initiative and a 10 per cent referendum.

New Buildings at Walker.

The elaboration of the state sanatorium for tuberculosis is being pushed forward by Representative C. H. Walker of Aitkin and P. H. McCarty of Walker, appropriating $100,000 for new buildings to be erected at Walker. The buildings to be erected are: a new service building, $65,000; power plant, $25,000; assembly hall, $22,000; children's pavilion, $7,000; plumbing tower, $15,000; superintendent's cottage, $7,500.

Reapportionment Scheme.

Representative Stone of Park Rapids paved the way for his new reapportionment scheme yesterday by offering a bill proposing a constitutional amendment providing for forty-three senators instead of the present sixty-three and 120 house members, as at present. The amendment makes house representation according to population, but provides that the senate districts shall always remain as they are when the amendment is adopted. Dr. Stone hopes to get through, in the meantime, his bill fixing forty-three senatorial districts and dividing 120 house members among them.

Dr. Stone also proposed a change in legislative procedure, which must be brought about by constitutional amendment, to the effect that no bill shall be received after the thirtieth day of a legislative session except at the request of the governor or by a three-fourths vote of one branch of the legislature. The amendment also eliminates the present constitutional limit of ninety legislative days to the session.

The Congdon reapportionment bill of 1911 made its appearance in the house yesterday afternoon, when it was introduced by Representative Lundeen of Minneapolis and referred to the reapportionment committee, when appointed.

Former Speaker H. H. Dunn proposes to compel high schools to provide vocational courses and teaching, and in a bill offered yesterday afternoon he provides that no state aid shall be given to any high school which does not have at least two vocational courses of four years each. The bill is to be effective after July 1, 1914.

Representative Thomas Kneeland of Minneapolis offered again his proposed constitutional amendment taking the handling of the state lands out of the state auditor's office, where the constitution now fixes it, thus paving the way for the creation of a department of public domain. Mr. Kneeland offered this amendment at the 1911 session and again at the extra session last June, but was not able to get it through. It is likely to have a better chance at this session.

Representative Lundeen introduced an employer's liability bill taking away from employers whose workmen are injured the old defense of contributory negligence, follow servant liability and assumption of risk.

Passes for Railroad Men.

The case of railroad employees who as citizens occupy local positions of public trust, and who find that the railway bosses that are their right as railroad servants are forbidden by the anti-pass law, is met by a bill proposed yesterday by Representative Bouck of Hoyalton, exempting them, to that extent, from the operation of the anti-pass law.

This is a real hardship, and in many cases the kind needed for councilmen and members of school boards, are railroad employees. Yet the law stands, if they accept these places they must give up their passes, except on the roads by which they are employed.

Mr. Bouck also introduced a bill authorizing boards of county commissioners to appropriate not more than $500 a year to advertise their counties and to attract immigration.

"Blue Sky" Law.

Three more "blue sky" laws came into the house yesterday afternoon, one of them with Representative Cleon I. Warner of Chisholm. The McCarty bill puts the regulation of the sale of securities under a commission composed of the secretary of state, the public examiner and the insurance commissioner.

The other bills, by Representatives J. F. Johnson and Steen, provide respectively that the public examiner and the superintendent of banks shall supervise this industry.

In a case like this, where a great variety of bills covering the same subject is before the committee to which they are referred, the committee is likely to reject them all, take the best features of each, and report the result out as a committee bill.

Other bills introduced in the house yesterday afternoon are as follows:

By Representative Lundeen—Providing pensions for indigent mothers, as described recently in The Herald.

By Representative Porter—Providing for five-sixths verdicts in civil cases.

By Representative Lundeen—Providing that hereafter the committees in each branch of the legislature shall be elected by the body itself, and not appointed by its presiding officer.

By Representative Stone—Legalizing mortgages for less than $50 where, as the practice has been up to recently in many counties, the mortgage registry tax was required.

By Representative Campbell, Nolan, Norton and Lennon—Requiring street railways in Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul to station firemen wherever their lines cross steam railway tracks.

By Representative Lundeen—Providing that anybody losing money in any lottery or gambling game of any kind may recover his losses by suit, with exemplary damages of $50 to $500.

By Representative Lydard—Providing for the retirement of district judges at their own request, for physical or mental incapacity, with salary for the unexpired part of their terms.

By Representative Lundeen—Creating a legislative reference bureau and appropriating $10,000 therefor.

DALLAS PLANS FOR SHRINERS

Imperial Council Ceremonial Will Be Held in Texas in May.

Duluth Nobles of the Mystic Shrine are looking forward with much interest to the May ceremonial of the Imperial Council which will be held at Dallas, Tex., and temple will be well represented at the festivities.

Dispatches from Dallas state that a chamber of commerce shrine fund has been started there to raise $50,000 to be used in defraying the expenses of entertaining the visitors. One of the features in the way of brilliant illumination for Shrine week will be the lighting of two of the city's main buildings.

ness thoroughfares with four miles of 2,000-candle power magnified arc lights.

In providing for an ornamental lighting system the committee expect to have the heart of the city so well lighted that it will be an easy matter to see every detail of the spectacular parades that will feature the Imperial council meeting.

The committee is also planning several side trips from Dallas to outside points. Mexico, the land of romance and revolution; San Antonio, with its Spanish atmosphere and its distinction of being the oldest city in the United States; and the ancient Jesuit and Franciscan missions that will appeal to lovers of early architecture, will be among the sights shown to the visitors.

ROOSEVELT DOES NOT BELIEVE IN COMBINING.

New York, Jan. 10.—Theodore Roosevelt replied to a proposal advanced by Frank A. Munsey to bring the Progressive and the Republican parties together. He said:

"I am simply speaking as one of the men in the ranks of the Progressive party. Personally I strongly feel that we should no more enter into a combination with the Republican machine than with the Democratic machine. I firmly believe that all good Progressives who may happen yet to adhere to either the Republican party or the Democratic party, will, in the end, see that the chance for honest government and for the practical achievement of social and industrial justice lies in the Progressive party, and only in the Progressive party."

"We welcome all honest men who adhere to our principles. If they come in with us they shall have exactly the share that any other people have of the party's management. We are under the same obligations to ex-Democrats, like Judge Lindsey and Dean Hickerson, as to any Republicans. To any mind the whole multitude of these at present responsible for the management of the Republican party, shows that it would be folly to try to combine with them."

PINE COUNTY WILL DO ITS SHARE.

H. J. Mullin returned last night from Sandstone, where, as secretary of the Duluth Auto club, he conferred with the commissioners of Pine county, and got through a petition presented to improve what is known as the Great Northern route, headed this way.

This route will pass through Thane, Askov, Bruno, Kerriick and Nickerson, ending at the north line of Pine county. The improvement of this route is now up to the state highway commission, and is part of the scheme to establish a route between Duluth and the Twin Cities. Mr. Mullin says that Pine county has agreed to accept the offer of government aid for postroads on the route from Harris to Sandstone.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

ARE WATCHING LAND CONTEST

Much Interest in Battle at Thief River Over Red Lake Claim.

Question of "Squatter's" Right to Tract of Land Is Involved.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contest of George L. Sterna vs. Peter Olson, involving a claim, is being conducted here and much interest is shown because of other similar cases that will result. At the time the land part of the Red Lake river was thrown open for settlement, two years ago, the department of the interior ruled that "squatter's rights" would prevail on and after April 15, 1912, while the same could not be received until May 15, 1912, but it was rejected by the land office at Crookston. Olson moved his family onto the land and commenced to make improvements and on May 15 offered a filing, which was accepted.

On Feb. 20, 1911, George L. Sterna of this city, local manager for the Tri-State Telephone company, offered a filing for the same quarter and his was likewise rejected. He appealed to the department and it was later decided that the filings should have been accepted. Olson has improved the farm to the extent of $1,500 and Sterna never been on the place, which is located about three miles east of this city. Sterna started a contest and the hearing was held here Thursday before Clerk of Court Cook, who had been appointed referee. R. J. Montague, former register of the Crookston land office, appeared for Mr. Olson, while Charles Loring of Crookston appeared for Mr. Sterna.

MAY SURVIVE INJURY.

Young Man Seriously Shot Near Perham Has Chance.

Perham, Minn., Jan. 10.—Walter Johnson, the young man who was seriously injured by the accidental discharge of a shotgun near here a couple of weeks ago, and whose life was despaired of for some time, is slowly recovering, and unless something unforeseen happens, will be able to leave the hospital within a short time. Dr. Erabee says that while he has lost the entire use of one eye and hand, the nose has been built up, and he will be able to earn a livelihood.

FERDINAND LEUTZ OF HEBRON, N. D.

Hebron, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ferdinand Leutz of this city is back in the state senate again this year. Mr. Leutz is a pioneer legislator of the state, and he returns to the assembly this year, after a two-year recess, through the fact that Morton county was divided by the last assembly, a new legislative district being created. He is one of the men prominently engaged in the exploiting of lignite coal and was successful four years ago in having the lignite experimental station located in Hebron.

HILL DISCLOSURES OLD.

North Dakota Experimenters Have Bulletined Methods of Bettering Soil.

Parke, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dean J. H. Shepperd, in commenting on the tests conducted in a greenhouse in St. Paul by J. J. Hill, for the purpose of maintaining the fertility of the soil upon which grains are grown, says experiments of this nature have been conducted at the North Dakota agricultural station for five or more years and the results have been sent out in bulletins issued by the station. It was discovered that the best results were secured through the use of well rotted manure, though some of the commercial fertilizers showed benefits. Acid phosphate, potash, nitrate of soda and other fertilizers were used. The well rotted manure showed a gain of two bushels per acre. The tests for a five-year period on wheat have demonstrated that the value of a wagon load of well rotted manure to a farmer for maintaining the fertility of his soil was $1.52. At the same time the experiments were being conducted at the station they were also being made by farmers in Richland, La. Moore, Traill, Hanson and Emmet counties, these lying both in and outside the Red River valley. Some of the land upon which experiments have been made in wheat continuously for twenty years or longer.

HOPING FOR HARMONY

In Divide County, N. D., as Result of County Official Changes.

Crosby, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The delay of former State Attorney Brace in turning over the $247 to the county treasurer in connection with the Kid Trailer horse thief case has started anew the factional difficulties in Divide county. The Canadian government turned over the money to the state attorney, but he is said, did not turn it into the county funds until County Auditor Adams took up the matter. While Divide county is one of the youngest in the state it has been wide-spread for its factional quarrels with former State Attorney Brace, Princeton, Minn., and the county Auditor Adams, the butt of the enmity of the other. As Brace has retired an end will be made to secure more harmony and to avoid the bitter factional quarrels that have existed for some time. Business men are demanding more harmony in official circles.

Doubt About Former University Treasurer Being Tried Again.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.—Joseph D. Bren, former cashier and treasurer of the University of Minnesota, accused on four indictments of grand larceny in connection with university funds, may never be brought to trial in the charges. Judge Leary in the district court denied Wednesday that if County Attorney Robertson was not ready to try the charges in three weeks, all the indictments would be dismissed. The county attorney expressed doubt as to whether he would be ready for trial. The court denied the motion to dismiss the cases on the grounds of delay. He promised to grant such motion if the county attorney was not ready for trial the first Monday in February.

EKERN MAY HOLD FOR SEVERAL DAYS.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—Some lawyers who have been studying the "counter case" against Herman L. Ekern, the deposed insurance commissioner, say that Ekern will be held in the office until a successor is appointed and confirmed by the senate.

Should the construction given the law by attorneys be held, there is some doubt of the divorce. It seems to be the general opinion that the governor can appoint an official after the legislature is no longer in session.

LEAVES FROM A REPORTER'S NOTE BOOK BY X

The arrest of Thomas Gilliam, colored waiter at the Spalding hotel, New Year's eve, was an accident which resulted in interesting developments. Gilliam was taken into custody when an employee of the hotel saw him selling a bottle of sparkling Burgundy, a choice wine of the expensive variety, to a party spending the evening at the hotel to watch the old year out.

She Darkened Her Gray Hair

A Kansas City Lady Darkened Her Gray Hair and Stimulated Its Growth by a Simple Home Process.

She Tells How She Did It.

Mrs. A. Biggam, a well known resident of Kansas City, Mo., who darkened her gray hair by a simple home process made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, stimulate its growth and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound and 3/4 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently, then every two weeks. This mixture relieves any scalp troubles and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair. It does not stain the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray haired person look 10 to 20 years younger."

CLEARED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

and the new year in. Gilliam didn't explain where or how he got it and he was detained.

But that charge was never pressed against him. In the time between his arrest and the next morning the cashier at the hotel checked up the night's business. Although he had worked several hours on what is perhaps the busiest night of the year, the records showed that Gilliam had turned in but one check and that for $1.15.

The investigation went a little further. It happens that the hotel management has had an idea for some time that certain employees have been making more than their wages by shady methods. Wherefore private detectives have been hired for several weeks, working in different parts of the hotel. New Year's eve it chanced that Gilliam served them with a bottle of champagne, lobster a la Newburg and an order of celery. When they learned that the waiter was in custody they usually mentioned the fact that he had had charge of the table at which they had been sitting. The manager asked them what their check was. They told him $2.25. It took but a short while to ascertain that Gilliam had failed to turn in the money in the cashier's window. As a result he was tried and convicted yesterday in police court for stealing the $2.25. Gilliam was fined thirty checks in the possession. Under the rules of the hotel he should have had ten at the outside. The belief is that he had the others printed with a view to utilizing them for his own profit.

The jury which heard the evidence recommended him to the mercy of the court. That fact, more than anything else, probably saved him from a straight jail sentence. In fact, Judge Windom told him as much. The court remarked that he has no doubt that employees of various institutions in the city steal from the men who hire them. He said that an example should be set which will not encourage them in their larcenies. But because of the recommendation of the jury he allowed Gilliam to pay a fine of $50 and costs, amounting to approximately $75. Gilliam made an earnest plea in his own behalf, pointing out that he has never been arrested before, that he has always been industrious and that he owns his own home in the city.

It is claimed that a prominent member of the Civic league had a stenographer at the hearing, and they to getting information to be used later. For what purpose it would be used can only be guessed. It might be as an aid in a publicity campaign or it might be for bringing a prosecution.

Philip Clancy did not paint the town red yesterday, but he was painted a pronounced red himself when he was brought into police headquarters yesterday afternoon on a charge of being drunk. Philip was a serving man from head to foot, face, hands, clothes and all. It appears that Philip was helping unload a barrel of red paint when the head came out. Philip got the full benefit of the being joshed suit. He felt so bad over being joshed that he proceeded to drown his sorrow in some cheap kind of red wine. This morning he said that he would seek the pledge to abstain for a year. After he had done so the court suspended sentence.

M. W. Casey, driving a coal sleigh for the Duluth can company, was caught under the sleigh when the vehicle tipped over near Eighth street and First avenue east this morning. The load was bunched in front, and the sleigh went over when the teamster made a short turn. The police were summoned and took him to the police station. He was here the injury to his leg was dressed.

William Martin was not given a good rating by the police when he was caught under the sleigh when the vehicle tipped over near Eighth street and First avenue east this morning. The load was bunched in front, and the sleigh went over when the teamster made a short turn. The police were summoned and took him to the police station. He was here the injury to his leg was dressed.

Jack Dine and Frank Rossi established an ally when they were arraigned yesterday afternoon on charges of discharging firearms in the city limits. The alleged offense took place when the New Year was being welcomed. One of them showed the other a shot through the window of the residence of Charles Older at 932 West First street. Older thought Dine and Rossi responsible. One of them showed the other a shot through the window of the residence of Charles Older at 932 West First street. Older thought Dine and Rossi responsible. Ernest De Meyers and John Olson entered pleas of guilty to trespass yesterday afternoon after they had been arrested by a railroad special who caught them stowing wheat in a box car in the N. P. yards. De Meyers drew a suspended sentence. Olson got $25 and costs or thirty days in the county jail, but payment of the fine was suspended when he was arraigned in charge of Probation Officer Frank Hicks. De Meyers' home is in Superior and he promised not to repeat the offense.

Mike Curry, with a brogue which he couldn't hide if he tried, works hard when he works and drinks hard when he drinks, according to the police. When Mike came up this morning he said that he wanted to get back to the tall places to stay until the break up in the spring. He admitted that he had inebriated too freely of the flowing bowl yesterday and sentence was suspended.

Casper Christensen, Oswald Ellison and Mike Sullivan, the "Howling Wall Flowers," each got $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail when brought into police court yesterday afternoon. Christensen claimed that he had visible means of support but he couldn't make it stick. The others entered pleas of guilty. Having no choice in the matter they went over the hill to board for a month with the sheriff at the city's expense.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIBBING PLANT TO BE EXAMINED

Feasibility of Replacing Machinery to Be Submitted to Expert.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Negotiations have been practically closed by the water and light commission to retain L. Hill, an expert mechanical engineer of Minneapolis, to make a thorough inspection of the village water and light plant and report to the commission as soon as a careful inspection can be made.

The plant represents a considerable investment in equipment made at different intervals extending over a period of years. The commission is confronted with the problem of remodeling the plant involving much expenditure. Much of the machinery in use has been in service for some time and it may be found advisable to replace it with more modern equipment. To this end a thorough inspection of the plant is being made by the commission and it is expected that the commission may be advised as to the best course to pursue in bringing the plant up to the highest standard of efficiency and economical operation.

CREAMERY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Itasca Co-operative Institution Elects All But One Old Officer.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Itasca Co-operative Creamery association was held this week.

The old officers were re-elected with the exception of George Becker, who was elected in place of E. L. Buck, who is planning on being absent most of the time and who did not want to serve any longer. Following are the officers elected: President, A. J. McGuire; vice president, Neil McKinley; secretary, G. J. Miles; treasurer, A. M. Slater; directors, Frank B. Gran, William Hootman and George Becker.

Among other things done, it was decided to assess the holders of stock in the creamery who are not patrons a certain amount to be applied as a sinking fund.

The creamery has not had the patronage an institution of this kind deserves, but the outlook for new patrons and more cows is reported to be brighter than in previous years. It is no doubt that the creamery will soon become one of the strongest institutions of its kind in Northern Minnesota.

NOTHING EQUALS POSLAM FOR SKIN DISEASES

Poslam is years ahead of anything yet devised for the cure of skin diseases.

Its action is immediate. It stops itching, allays inflammation and heals with wonderful rapidity. Aggravated cases of eczema, acne, tetter, salt rheum, psoriasis, scaly scalp, herpes, and every form of itch are cured quickly to the surprise of those unable to secure results by other means. Overnight treatment is often sufficient for pimples, red and inflamed noses, rashes, complexion blemishes, etc.

POSLAM SOAP used daily for toilet and bath, makes every cleansing operation a double means of healthfulness to the skin. Incomparable in its benefits to tender skin, particularly to infants.

All druggists sell Poslam (price, 50 cents) and Poslam Soap (price, 25 cents). For free samples, write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th Street, New York City.

WHEAT RALLY BEFORE CLOSE

North American Markets Go Higher Despite Favorable Weather.

Small Offers of Flaxseed Send Values Up—Trade Not Active.

Duluth Herald of Trade, Jan. 10.—The struggle between the bulls and bears went on with varying fortunes through the session today, but the bulls had the better of it at the close. Duluth May wheat closed 1/2c higher, cash wheat closed 3c under May. Durum closed 1/2c up and oats 1/2c up. Rye and barley closed unchanged. Duluth January linseed closed with an advance of 1/2c and flax 1c higher.

Wheat, though inclined to be strong during the early part of the session, on account of a good general demand for milling purposes, and the feeling over the recent destruction of fruit by frosts in California, worked lower before noon. The downward trend was partly due to heavy cables from Liverpool and partly to reports of favorable weather through the winter wheat region, with mild temperatures and good snowfall.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 88c bid, opened today at 87c asked, but began to climb an upward trend but was quoted at noon at 87c asked. Bearish quotations were reflected at noon also from Minneapolis and Winnipeg. Liverpool wheat closed 1/2c higher, cash wheat closed 3c under May. Durum closed 1/2c up and oats 1/2c up. Rye and barley closed unchanged. Duluth January linseed closed with an advance of 1/2c and flax 1c higher.

Flax Receipts Light.—Light receipts of flax caused an upward movement on the Duluth market this morning in spite of bearish news from Argentina and a rather light, scattered demand. There was little trading. Duluth January flax closed at 1.25c bid, 1.26c asked. Duluth May flax closed at 1.25c bid, 1.26c asked. Duluth January linseed closed at 1.25c bid, 1.26c asked. Duluth May linseed closed at 1.25c bid, 1.26c asked.

The Chicago Paint, Oil and Drug Review says: "The linseed oil situation among the crushers is precisely the same as it was at the time of our last review. Prices are quoted at 4c for raw spot oil in Chicago with the market firm. White quotations are foreboding. The same price for deliveries up to July. One prominent crushing company is not quoting at all for future. The flaxseed market closed weaker on Saturday last week and Monday of this week, but was somewhat firmer on Tuesday and in view of the cold weather and snow which set in on Monday over the flax growing country generally, it is believed will make the market still more firm for oil.

"The linseed cake market in Chicago has been very quiet both for home consumption and export and there has not been very much business. Quotations are the same as last week. Minneapolis, 27.50 per ton equal to 22.50 Chicago basis. Export cake is held

OFFICIAL ON JOB

Only One Change in Court-house at Thief River This Year.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nels J. Anderson, the only county official who will begin his public service in Pennington county this year, has filed his oath as registrar of deeds. His official act was the appointment of Miss Effie Hammy as deputy registrar. Miss Hammy has held the office for the past two years, under the Quist administration.

E. L. Quist, whose term of office as registrar of deeds expired Monday, left Friday night for Sweden. From there he will go to the Panama canal, and later to Valparaiso, Chile, where he has remained for some time. Later in the year he will go to Buenos Aires, Argentina, where he will locate.

The county commissioners met at the courthouse Monday in their annual meeting. The only new member of the board was J. B. Larson from the Fifth district, and who won the office after a spirited contest with George Larson, chairman and vice chairman. Larson was elected by a vote of 10 to 9.

Salaries and bonds of the various county officials were fixed for the ensuing year, and several committees were appointed. The bids for doing the county printing for 1913 were rejected. In fact, there was only one bid, that of the News-Press, which was rejected.

News-Press, agreeing to do the printing at the full legal rate. Seven bids were received for the construction of a new steel bridge across the Thief river just north of the city, in connection with the Elwell road which is now being constructed.

RAILROADS

Chicago & Northwestern Buys Tract Between Racine and Kenosha.

Chicago, Wis., Jan. 10.—Owing to the congested conditions in the freight yards of Racine and Kenosha, the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company will expend $100,000 in the purchase of 200 acres of land and the building of switching yards midway between Racine and Kenosha. Options have been obtained on nearly all the land and if the examination of titles to the property proves them correct, purchase will be made. The price paid for the land will be about $500,000. The land lies between the Racine station on the north and Pike's creek on the south.

As soon as all deals are completed all the work on the round house and the repair shops will begin.

EASTON NEARS

END OF SEASON

Booth Line Steamer Will Make One More Trip to North Shore.

The Booth steamer Easton is now engaged on the next to the last trip of the season. She left Chicago for this morning northbound and it is expected will be able to return to Duluth some time this evening. She will then make one more trip and after that will lay up until the ice condition in the spring will make navigation of the north shore possible. Just now her ports of entry are dictated by the ice conditions.

This sturdy little steamer has for years been plying between Duluth and north shore points, and while conditions along the north shore are not as they were once, when the communication there absolutely depended upon the Booth boats for their actual living, yet the fact that the Easton can brave the tempests of winter and the ice in the harbors has alleviated many of the former rigors of the winter hibernation on the north shore.

INFLUENCE OF WILSON MAY BE SOUGHT

Democrats Likely to Ask Governor to Aid in Breaking Deadlock.

Members of Lower House of Illinois Unable to Elect Speaker.

Roger Sullivan Is Leading One Faction and Governor-Elect Dunne Other.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—When Governor Wilson arrives in this city today to be the guest of the Commercial club, he probably will be asked to exert his influence in an effort to break the speakership deadlock in the lower house of the Illinois general assembly, which is threatening under present conditions to continue indefinitely, and to seriously affect the United States senatorial situation in this state.

Leaders of the different Democratic factions, it was stated, were planning to bring to the attention of the president-elect the necessity for an early peace at Springfield if the dominant party in the legislature is to elect the United States senators to be chosen at the present session.

The house adjourned yesterday until Monday evening and in the interim strenuous efforts are being made to effect a compromise among the Democrats by which a speaker may be elected. Until that time the recently elected state officers cannot be inducted into their respective offices.

It was admitted that any suggestions the president-elect might make with reference to the situation would have great weight with the members of the house, but it was feared Governor Wilson would not care to interfere in Illinois politics although the deadlock has so long been weighing on the national senatorial situation.

He is to have the rank of lieutenant colonel, which he held when he left the army.

At the time of the Dreyfus affair du Paty de Clam was one of the officers of the general staff. In comparing the handwriting of the notorious officers of the Dreyfus case, he was employed, he noted a similarity, and soon became convinced that Dreyfus was a traitor. He was one of the principal witnesses for the prosecution. Some years later, in 1898, he was retired from the army.

Du Paty de Clam on several occasions asked to be reinstated and his last petition to the minister of war met with success.

STARTLING ADVICE IS GIVEN BY ETOR
Tells Strikers to Make Food Unsafe for Capitalists.

New York, Jan. 11.—"If you are compelled to go back under unsatisfactory conditions, go back with the determination to stick together until you get what you want. Go back with your minds made up that it is the unsafe thing in the world for the capitalist to eat food prepared by members of your union."

This was the advice that Joseph P. Kamp, the labor leader, recently acquired on charges growing out of the textile strike riots at Lawrence, Mass., uttered last night to striking hotel employees, who met in all-night session after a series of disturbances in front of hotels and restaurants.

After he concluded his speech, Etor was asked to comment on his words.

"I meant just what I said," was his reply, refusing to further explain. Earlier in his speech Etor urged strikers not to consider mediation.

"Hotels could not exist without you," he said. "Do not accept any arbitration board to decide your grievances. Close the doors of every hotel in the city and keep them closed. Not the pantry doors, but the front doors."

DEMOCRATS IN SENATE ARE AMONG STRONGEST OF THE PROGRESSIVES

FAVORS CIVIL SERVICE FOR STATE EMPLOYEES

Alliance With Old Guard Was Merely to Gain Control.

Will Work Vigorously for Program of Progressive Legislation.

Range Members to Introduce County Division Bill Next Week.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The thoroughness of the overthrow of the Old Guard which has had full sway in the Minnesota legislature for so many years, always in one house and sometimes in both, is even more complete than it seemed at first.

While it was clear enough that the progressives were in the saddle, and that they would be amply able to swing the organization in both branches, it had been expected that the conservative minority would be fairly formidable in numbers in each branch, and that its astuteness and experience in "playing the game" would give it an influence out of proportion to its size.

At present, however, not even that condition seems probable. So far, in its attempts to make trouble in both branches, the insurgent minority has been able to swing very few votes, and there is no prospect that in any attempt to embarrass the progressive organizations the minority will have any better luck later.

For one important thing, the Republican insurgents—formerly known as "reactionaries"—had counted on a good deal of Democratic support.

CONVICTS ON STATE ROADS
North Dakota Senator Proposes Building Roads By Convicts.

Plan to Open Soldiers' Home at Lisbon to Orphans.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first senate bill now in the hands of Secretary W. D. Austin, is authored by Senator E. J. Hughes of Bismarck. It proposes the creation of a state highway commission, the establishment of state roads, and the use of convict labor thereon.

He would have the commission comprised of the governor, the state engineer, and one other member appointed by the governor. They shall serve without extra compensation, but shall have traveling expenses paid. The governor is made chairman, while the state engineer is made secretary.

Power is granted the commission to engage road building experts and such other assistants to the state engineer as may be deemed necessary. It is made the duty of the state engineer to prepare plans for roads, and superintend the construction thereof.

FOUR LITTLE GIRLS FORM ROBBER BAND
Sunday School Children, None Over 10, Confess to $1,000 Thefts.

Denver, Jan. 11.—Four Sunday school girls, ranging in ages from 8 to 10 years, confessed to juvenile Judge Ben B. Lindsey yesterday that they are a part of a band of girls who have been robbing fashionable homes in Denver during the last two months. More than $1,000 worth of jewelry, it is estimated, has been stolen by the children.

Some years later, in 1898, he was retired from the army.

Du Paty de Clam on several occasions asked to be reinstated and his last petition to the minister of war met with success.

WOULD USE DOGS IN HUNTING DEER
Wisconsinites Will Try to Have Game Laws Amended.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 11.—Scores of amendments will be proposed to the fish and game laws at this session of the legislature. One proposal is to allow deer hunters to take dogs into the Northern woods with them during the open season to assist in hunting deer.

It is claimed that many of the deer that are shot travel a long distance before they die and that without the aid of dogs they are never found. One experienced hunter claims that a large percentage of the animals shot, ultimately die in the woods without being found by the hunter.

Dogs would trace the wounded deer and make it possible for the hunter to find the dead animal.

The opponents of the proposed change claim that the dogs would simply be a means of scaring up the deer to be shot and that a few such changes would result in so many animals being shot that deer would become extinct.

STATE MAY TAKE ACTION FOR DULUTH

Attorney General Not to Delay in Street Railway Case.

Is Expected to Render an Opinion Early Next Week.

New Two-Cent Passenger Rate Bill to Be Introduced.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, who has under advisement the matter of attacking in the courts the franchise of the Duluth Street Railway company, is expected to render an opinion early next week.

The decision had been held up pending the outcome of the injunction case in the United States court, but since that has been postponed until Jan. 26, the attorney general will delay no longer.

While it was clear enough that the progressives were in the saddle, and that they would be amply able to swing the organization in both branches, it had been expected that the conservative minority would be fairly formidable in numbers in each branch, and that its astuteness and experience in "playing the game" would give it an influence out of proportion to its size.

COMMISSION LOOKS INTO WIRE SERVICE.
Washington, Jan. 11.—Inquiry was begun by the interstate commerce commission on its own initiative into the matter of wire service, and telephone rates, and into the rates and regulations of such services.

The American Telephone & Telegraph company, Western Union Telegraph company, and Postal Telegraph company, were made respondents.

Complaint was made to the commission that under the terms of private wire contracts of the Western Union Telegraph company, use is made of its public wires at less than published tariff rates, and that persons other than the parties to the contracts frequently use the private wires for messages free of charge in violation of the act to regulate commerce.

TERRIBLE STORIES BY "MOTHER" JONES
Says She Saw Twenty-One Strikers Killed While Asleep.

Washington, Jan. 11.—"Mother" Jones, veteran organizer of the United Mine Workers of America, describing the conditions in the West Virginia coal fields at a mass meeting here last night, asserted she had seen women and children, thrust out of their homes and forced to live in the mountains without food or shelter for four days and nights.

She said she had seen thirty killed while asleep in their cabins by a posse of officers.

Representative Wilson of Pennsylvania, who said he spoke from personal knowledge, vouched for "Mother" Jones' statements.

Resolutions were adopted demanding that congress investigate conditions in the strike region.

NO SIGNS IN EVIDENCE OF BREAKING DEADLOCK ON THE BALKAN SITUATION

Turkish Delegates Will Leave Next Week If Allies Remain Stubborn.

Italian Ambassador Says Powers Must Handle Ottomans With Care.

In Their Despair at Defeat They Would Become Like Wild Animals.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
London, Jan. 10.—No sign of a breaking of the deadlock in the Balkan situation is in evidence.

The Italian ambassador in London, who spent years in Constantinople, declared today that if the powers were to press Turkey to cede Adrianople, some concession would be necessary concerning the Aegean islands.

The Turkish delegates confirm the report that they will leave London next week for Constantinople if the allies do not change their minds. One of the Turkish envoys said:

"We are glad that Europe now has learned what sort of swineheads these Balkan people are! We know them of old."

Turkey's hope that she may be able to save Adrianople undoubtedly has been revived by the threatening attitude of Roumania. In this attitude, Roumania is believed to be backed by Austria, as otherwise she would not urge her claim so energetically against Bulgaria in contrast with her pacific position of a fortnight ago.

The powers are awaiting the result of representations to be made to the Constantinople government by their ambassadors in the Ottoman capital.

NEW YORK, JAN. 11.—By court order it was learned today Congressman-elect Timothy D. Sullivan, who has long been a prominent figure in New York legislative affairs, is to be formally committed to a private sanitarium in Yonkers.

"Big Tim," as he is popularly known in the East side section of the city, has been in the Yonkers sanitarium for several months to recuperate. It had been said, from a nervous breakdown. He has been up to now, however, a voluntary patient, but upon application made upon the petition of a disinterested and stepson of the congressman-elect, Justice Amend in the supreme court signed an order formally committing the patient.

The action seems to involve the probability of a special election for a congressman to succeed Mr. Sullivan in the Thirteenth district.

CASTRO REMAINS AT ELLIS ISLAND
Ex-President to Stay There Until Board Passes on Case.

New York, Jan. 11.—The writ of habeas corpus in the case of Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, was dismissed by Judge Holt in the United States district court today.

In dismissing the writ Judge Holt ruled that Castro should not be allowed to enter the country under bond pending a decision of the board.

He, therefore, remain on Ellis island, where he is being held by the government, as argued in court yesterday by United States District Attorney Wice, that the Federal courts should not interfere in the case until the board of inquiry at island shall have passed on Castro's right to enter this country.

The board has not yet announced its findings. Wice said a decision is made known it is thought that Castro may again seek the court's aid.

For cut off Ellis island from ferry communication with the city today and made extremely improbable the sitting this afternoon of the board of inquiry. Commissioner Williams said that Castro's case would be taken up Monday. Castro will have to appear without counsel before the board.

BRITISH STEAMER IN SINKING CONDITION.

The forward bulkhead, which alone is keeping the vessel afloat, is beginning to leak, and it is believed it will be necessary to beach the ship today to keep her from going down.

"RETAIN THE COLLECTOR" IS THEIR CRY

Marine Men Aroused at Prospect of Duluth Becoming Sub-Port.

"Absurd to Remove Collector From Second Port in America."

Board of Trade, Commercial Club and Lake Carriers Enlisted.

Vessel men, grain dealers, private individuals and civic organizations of Duluth are joining in protest against the proposed rearrangement of customs district, by which Duluth will be made a sub-port of St. Paul.

Duluth people expect to make out a good case in favor of the retention of Duluth as a separate district. The protests based purely on objection to the loss of prestige will receive little consideration from the government, it is expected, but there is more than civic pride in the protests that will be filed by Duluth.

Duluth is the only important lake port in Minnesota. It is the only point at which direct business is done between vessels and the customs officials. The books of registration kept here and the collector of customs of this port has charge of the enforcement of the marine regulations. The consolidation of the districts could cause the transfer of the marine regulations would be enforced from St. Paul.

Many matters that require the attention of the collector personally come up in connection with the lake traffic, and especially with the grain moving forward for export. All of those matters would have to be referred to St. Paul for consideration if the consolidation should be made.

The Duluth board of trade will take action Monday calling on the Lake Carriers' association, which will meet Thursday in Detroit, to request the retention of Duluth as a separate customs district. The vessel owners would suffer the greatest inconvenience by the change, and they will very likely protest.

NEW NICKELS TO BE READY SOON
Will Be Put in Circulation Shortly After February 1.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The design of the new nickel, the creation of J. E. Fraser, the artist of New York, has been accepted by Secretary Veach, of the treasury department, to replace the 5-cent piece that has been in circulation for many years.

Within a week George E. Roberts, director of the mint, will order its design and it probably will be in circulation shortly after Feb. 1. On the side of the new coin is the inscription of the head of an Indian. At the top is the word "Liberty," and at the bottom is the word "E Pluribus Unum." On the other side appears the figure of a buffalo, closely associated with the history of the red man, and the denomination of the coin, "5 cents."

The design is severely simple, and is regarded by treasury officials as one of the most artistic pieces of money ever turned out.

Amundsen's program. He was given a luncheon at the home of Gilbert H. Grosvenor, secretary of the Geographic society, where he met the members of the governing board of that organization and the guests, including the British and French ambassadors and the Norwegian minister.

LACK OF FUNDS KEEPS WITNESS AT HOME.
Chicago, Jan. 11.—William W. Winkfield, who was scheduled to appear before a senate investigating committee in Washington today and testify in regard to the Standard Oil company, was unable to appear.

Until yesterday friends of Winkfield thought he had left for Washington, as he had intended, but it developed he was without funds and still in the city. His attorney then provided him with money to pay his expenses to Washington, and Winkfield left today. He expects to appear before the committee some time next week.

"Winkfield is ready to testify," his attorney said. "Lack of funds is all that has kept him here."

Success of Superior in Street Ends Cases Raises Question in Duluth.

City Might Gain Advantage on Park Point and in West Duluth.

The success of Superior in securing approximately three blocks of waterfront on the harbor, a trading with the Great Northern has had an encouraging effect upon those who are interested in seeing Duluth break through the canal which railroad and other corporations have upon the local waterfront.

Superior gained the property through the municipality's control of street and avenue ends where the run in the bay. The city vacated its right to a number of these ends in order that the railroad might build a continuous dock. In exchange the railroad dedicated a strip of water front on the city on which it can build a municipal dock when it may so desire.

Substantially the same situation arises relative to street ends and dock property on Park Point and in the local situation. They explain that the courts have held that the city cannot use the streets ends for docks as they were dedicated for highways. On the other hand they say that the ends are always available until vacated or abandoned. This gives the city a good trading factor. By doing as Superior, the city can vacate the ends in exchange for a street frontage upon which there will be no restrictions.

On Lake Avenue Slip.
A similar situation is said to apply to the part of an avenue which runs something less than 100 feet just this side of the canal along the Lake Avenue slip. The adjacent property is owned by private interests. They can use the city's part to much advantage, but the city can order them to vacate the highway, according to a statement made at the city hall this morning. It is believed that this authority can be utilized to obtain an agreement where the two will have mutual use of the dock.

Some years ago a decision was handed down in which it was held that the city's rights in the waterfront on avenues in the Ontario district terminated at the shore line, as planned. After the plan was made the dock line was extended. As both sides to the controversy agreed and no one took an appeal. It is thought that had an appeal been taken the city would have been found to have rights to the dock line, which had been extended after the plan was made. Following the action were to be instituted those familiar with the case believe that there is good reason to believe that a different decision would be obtained.

In property at Fairmont park recently condemned for park purposes. An appeal was taken and is now pending in district court. Questions of riparian rights are involved to a large extent and it is believed that the questions are similar to those involved in the Ontario case. The city will have a considerable bearing upon the same issues. Those who want the city to take action to use its rights to street ends to secure dock property are therefore following the proceedings in the Fairmont park case closely.

PARCEL POST IS POPULAR

Good Business Done at Duluth Postoffice in First Seven Days.

Service Is More Generally Used as People Become Educated.

For the first seven days of the parcel post service at the Duluth postoffice, considerable business was done when it is considered that the beginning of the educational period. It should also be remembered that during that first seven days, two should be counted out for the first day of New Year's—a holiday—and the fifth was Sunday; so that there were really only five active days.

The postoffice people here made a formal report to Washington, under orders at the end of the first seven days, and will make another on Jan. 16, covering the first fifteen days of the service; after which no more reports will be made except on request from the head office.

During the first seven—or five—days, parcels mailed locally and for local delivery were fifty-one in number and the postage amounted to $3.07. The parcels that came in from outside for local delivery numbered 2,827, making the grand total of those delivered in the city 2,878. The average weight of those mailed in the city for local delivery was eleven ounces.

The parcels outgoing during the same period numbered 2,738, and they averaged twenty-ounce in weight. The postage amounted to $314.07. So far as the insurance department is concerned, 69 were received for the outgoing mail and 42 for the local delivery.

Assistant Postmaster Weldon said today that since that first report was sent in, it is easily discernible that the next report will show a tremendous gain over the first one, for not only private individuals have become better acquainted with the system but business houses have also and are patronizing it far more extensively than they did in the first days of its try-out.

Storch of Grand Rapids, who was here on Monday to give a lecture on the climate ideal for the prevention and even cure of such cases, owing to the fine pure supply of the city, but the efforts of the county officers to combat the disease had a very salutary effect. A visiting nurse employed and close watch is kept to see that the dread white plague does not get a hold.

turn of the same kind. Knight evidently selected an hour when the other unfortunate who had fallen into the hole was seeking succor from sorrow on the downy wooden benches, for as far as could be learned no one saw him take his departure through the hole in the floor. Besides being under the average size, Knight is a steamfitter by trade. Knowledge gained by the sweat of his brow may have helped him in his attempt. At any event Knight managed to squeeze through after which it was easy to slide down the pillar to the floor and make his way to Michigan street and freedom—at least temporary.

Last night a dressed little housewife went downtown with a few congenial friends to spend the evening. She didn't intend to do anything wrong. She just wanted to relieve the tedium of a solitary evening at home. Together they went to a downtown cafe. They dined well but not wisely, or maybe it was too well. The lights were burning brightly; the joy staff was coming often enough to keep things from getting dull; everybody was laughing and having a good time. It was just as they were about to go to get home after 11 o'clock. Those with her apparently had been just a little too convivial to want to go home so early. They were going to stay "just a little while longer." But one of them went with her and she started out alone. She had the best of intentions but she had stayed just a little too long. She started down Superior street, the lighted street, and she was naturally startled and terrified when she found she was in a minute she continued her interrupted journey to home and hubby.

Emil Johnson was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Game Warden Boyd on a charge of taking a net from St. Louis bay with a net. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

For a few minutes it looked as though the firemen would have a nasty and dangerous job on their hands when the flames looked dangerous on a blaze on the seventh floor of the plant of the Northern Cold Storage company. The firemen used to prevent potatoes from freezing, set fire to paper lining the walls. The flames looked dangerous but did not prove to be extensive. The blaze was extinguished by the firemen. The first squad of men was taken to the seventh floor in the elevator. The firemen used to prevent potatoes from freezing, set fire to paper lining the walls. Business Women of Chicago Start Chamber of Commerce.

Train Members to Hold Their Own in Commercial Affairs.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Chicago has the first woman's association of commerce to be incorporated in the world. It is preparing to start a campaign to help business women to help themselves, to show them the wisdom of helping each other, and to make them broad-minded, public-spirited citizens.

The new organization was incorporated in September. Its object is to advance the commercial, economic and educational interests of women. Membership is open to all women who wish to keep in touch with ideas of progress that affect women.

The association will have the largest woman's clubroom in the world. At present it has a membership of 600.

What the Association Will Do. Here are some of the things the association proposes to do:

To give a business woman her rightful place in the world.

To make it an honor to be a business woman, and not a matter of humiliation, as some women consider it.

To give a business woman initiative and courage to enter new lines of work.

To train a business woman in the line of work she has chosen, and to broaden her views of life until she is able to co-operate and compete with men on an equal basis.

To build a first-class hotel for women.

A course on the experimental development of the principles of electrical engineering will be given. The course will be devoted to fundamental electrical principles and will be a practical course on the principles which the student desire to know about.

Owing to the sentiment among the students against holding the junior ball during the Lenten season, the association has changed the date from Feb. 21 to Wednesday, March 26. It is a very favorable date because of the fact that it comes on the last day of vacation, thus making a fitting climax of the spring festivities. The ball will be held at the Radisson and, as the longest and the change of date will give the committees, they promise a proportionately better party.

The University Glee club is planning a winter tour during Easter vacation. The officers of the club and Professor Scott have practically secured dates and will probably make the trip a success. The calendar is as follows: Appointment of administrator—Estate of Ellen A. Smith; John C. Smith, executor. Final account—Estate of John C. Smith; John C. Smith, executor. Petition to set aside a will—Estate of John C. Smith; John C. Smith, executor. Petition for appointment of guardian, etc., Roger Adson.

On Monday and Tuesday, the biennial convention of the Province of the legal Fraternity of Phi Delta Phi was held at the university. Delegates and alternates from the various colleges were in attendance. The convention was held at the Radisson hotel. The sessions were held in the afternoon. All recitations will be abandoned for the week. Four hours is given for each examination. Though the honor system will not be in vogue generally, some professors will have their classes write upon their own honor.

FRAGMENTARY GOSSIP AND CHRONICLES OF THE SATURDAY CLUB

(AS TOLD BY BRUCE.)

DAVE was reading the pink sheet of a newspaper. His eyes held the look that denotes interest, and his black cigar with the gold band slept undisturbed in the corner of his mouth.

"Presently he looked up. "Fighters must have a lot of courage," said he. "I have been reading about how tough Ad Wolfast's face is, though this story calls it a 'map.' Just the other day I was reading of a fellow who fought on after his jaw was broken."

"Doc, Bill, Barry and the Judge were seated at the table. The Judge was pursuing the latest report of the state judiciary. Though ready, and falling on him only when it was lured into his office by the lasso of past associations, he possessed a keen and a quivering mind. The rest of the table companions were smoking, robed in the silence of a companionship that was thorough and too genuine to need the blandishment of mere words. "Some fighters are courageous, and then, again, some ain't," said Doc, and he languidly tossed into the spacious mouth of the thick brass cuspidor the flint of a thick cigar, and lovingly fingered the glossy length of a golden brown panatella.

"Funny, this courage thing. Down at one of the movies the other night I was motioned 'some at home down' of a fire hero. Seems this fellow dashed into a burning house and rescued some lovely ladies, for which same he gets a medal. But at the place where he paid the rent he took it on the run when his frau got the least bit ram-bunctious.

"Courage is like eggs subject to the corollary influence of city life. There is a lot of kinds of courage just as there is a lot of kind of different eggs.

"I've seen fighters take awful beating in the ring, and seen them the fighter's standing around shivering with fear in a grog shop cause they was afraid some one was going to start a rough house.

"In the ring one of these professionals would have walked over, fainted and rocked the rowdy to sleep; and there they was, afraid somethin' was going to happen.

"Dave, this is a funny old world, and, my boy, the longer you live in it the more you will savvy that your uncle is correct. If it was the custom to eat dog meat, chances are it would serve mighty well in the high cost of living. Out West, when roamin' with the Comanches, me and Cherokee Johnson, the foot racer, found dogs to be pretty fair grubbin'. But custom ain't never trained some of the rest of you to the point where you think of dogs with any but platonic desires of pure friendship.

"Fighters is trained to fight in the ring. They gathers at some place where savant is scattered for the protection of the floor and other wooden objects that may come in contact with it, and discusses whether the Kid he game, or whether he showed the saffron streak. Some fighters, Dave, my boy, is game because they don't nowise know no better.

"I seen a sober citizen, with eye glasses and shoulders that looked like a letter V turned upside down, bluff a blusterin' fighter. This cit was really game, mad clear through and he would have buckled under the toughest. The profess showed the white feather and went off a talkin' to himself.

"The true guys with gameness rucked all the way through their veins, friends, lived in the West, in them days when everybody toted a gun. They looked death in the face, smiled grimly at it, and played it through to the end.

"But when it came to fist fightin', some of these here same reckless gun fighters, was sure loco with palsy hesitatin'.

"So, as I sez, Dave, you can't always sometimes tell, as that mick, B. Shaw, says.

"Doc sat back, fingered the golden brown panatella, carefully and methodically bit the end off, and languidly lighted it. He crossed a lean leg, that ran lithely down to a trim ankle and a long, highly arched foot, encased in a glorious patent leather with brilliant buttons, and copiously blew a line of fragrant smoke from his mouth.

"Goin' west from Pueblo, one sunny morning with old Dad Moulton, who trains runners and others now that he has quit the game, we was holdin' confab with two tough fighters. I sez tough, friends, cause they amply informed us that they was.

"The real vicious dog don't give no warnin' when he's goin' to bite. Neither does the real fighter; he wants to slip one over and then let results decide the general outcome.

"Me and old Ed was too tired to make much response, bein' as I had had beat a mob of angry Puebloans to the train by seconds; and these here fightin' guys, mistakin' silence for belief, spouts away and they is gettin' tougher, in their own way of thinkin', all the time.

"Down past Pueblo, just when we begins to breathe easier and look out of the window for old landmarks, one of them 'ere mau kilin' cowboys gets on the train, with revolvers a stickin' out all over him, and the aisle hardly big enough to hold him.

"When one has been up most of the night, and has gone through a crisis, he's either all in, or he be in one of them 'ere philosophical moods. It depends on the state of your nerves. Me and old Ed's nerves was iron-bound, I guess, and we just sits back in that philosophical mood and prepares to enjoy the situation. "Through neither of them fighters was clean shaved, and the soot of travel was makin' a monkey out of what the beauty specialists calls contour, I could see them turnin' pale at the sight of that half drunk cowboy.

"Me and Ed had seen them by the score—those would-be tough guys. They is only tough when they gets away from the real fellows who will shoot and then tell why afterwards. We piped this fellow the minute we lapped 'im, and that was the reason, same as I said, why we was enjoyin' this situation.

"This guy spots us and cums over. Them two big burles, who had been tellin' how they loved trouble, and how they was bosom friends to rebellious times and riotin' soirees, just cuddles up for moral support, like two babies in a strange crib seeks comfort and mutual cheer.

"This 'ere pseudo cowpuncher he growls at me and Ed and we merrily passes the time of day and laughs at his comedy. But them big loaders shrinks, like a little timid woman at a old harmless molly cow, and starts to slyly creep out of the seat and seek safety. This is the wrong play to make with one of them would-be sports; it tickles his vanity and eggs on his ego.

"He pulls two guns and tells them bump fist fighters to halt. No friends, I'm no romancer guy, though I be fond of some of them Arabian Nights tales; but this yarn is on the level. You see plum funny things when you travel. Therefore, gents, be good.

"These two loaders who five minutes afore was tellin' me and Ed how they wished someone would start a rough-house, actually gets down on their knees, and holdin' up four big mitts in the smoky air of the smoker, says: "Fer God's sake, mister, don't shoot!"

"That encouraged this fellow, and he starts in to abuse the whole car. Right there was where he tried to cover too much territory.

"The train stopped at some little station; some out of the way place, pitched in one of nature's beautiful spots. Off yonder rose the blue-rigged mountains. The deep blue sky was almost spotless, and clear off, runnin' in gentle lopes to the foot of the mountains, was the deep green of rolling prairie.

"We was admirin' this, me and Ed, when our communc with nature was rudely interrupted by this pesterin' cowboy.

"Here, you'se galoots," he spouts out, being offensive and plum insultin', "fork over some chewin' tobacco, and—quick, too."

"Rein' gentlemen we didn't chew, in the first place, and we wouldn't accommodate the gent in the second place.

"I was over the deep philosophy stuff; a night without sleep, gents, makes the nerves flighty, even when nature spreads herself.

"Off at the other end of the platform, I sees the two heads of these prizefighters a stickin' out, and they sure is expectin' murder to take place right immediate. That sight makes me laugh right out.

"I turns round sudden and kicks that would-be man killer right in the shins. That's the best place to make 'em yell. Down drops his guns. He grabs his kicked shin with both hands and hops around this 'ere platform, yellin' for help.

"Old Ed laughs fit to bust. Along cums the conductor.

"What's the matter, Doc? he asks of me. I tells him that this 'ere cowboy is gettin' too obstreperous. "If he gits gay, Doc," says he, "I'll take a punch at him and throw him off the train."

"For the rest of the journey that cowboy hid behind a paper and pretended he was asleep.

"Them fighters? you asked—They went up in the ladies' car and tried to look like decent people."

"The golden brown panatella was almost a wreck. Doc took one long pull at it, emitted the smoke in a ringed cloud, and then tossed the butt away.

"Yes," he said, turning those sharp eyes on Dave, "yes, some fighters has courage, Dave, and then again they ain't."

"The train stopped at some little

THE PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS MAY SHOW A RETURN TO FORM OF 1911

Connie Mack, a tall chap with a smile, who every now and then brings pennants and world's championships to Philadelphia, has not lost faith in the 1910 and 1911, even if their feet slipped in 1912, says an Eastern sport writer.

Baseball's Goethals will hurl virtually the same old machine against seven competitors next year as in the past. This is no reflection on the team here, some blue pencilling, but for the most part it is the old combination of woe-worers.

Mr. Mack won't touch, no, not even point in the direction of his infield. Everybody agrees that Mack has the strongest inner works four in the United States and its possessions. Not since the days Selee grouped Tenney, Collins, Long and Lowe on the Boston infield has there been as strong a quartet as Mack's. In batting, fielding, base running and brains the combination of McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker ranks supreme.

Every one is a wonder. Every one of the four is a wonder. A hard hitter, a swift base runner and a quick-witted general. There is not one who wouldn't strengthen any infield in the country. Only once in a lifetime is a manager able to find four such topnotchers at the same time.

Mack has had some good infields, the L. Cross, M. Cross, Murphy, Davis combination being an unusually good one in all departments of the game, but it was still many points in efficiency below the present one.

This is no reflection on the old infield. It simply reveals how strong the present four are. Three of the infield, Collins, Baker and McInnis, but above the 300 mark habitually, and Barry, the only one under the mark, is one of the team's best whalers in a pinch.

Statistics show that while Barry batted far below Collins, he nevertheless, drove several more runs across the plate than did the Lansdowne capitalist.

With the strongest infield on the continent to start with, Mack's troubles are greatly reduced, although he will have much deeper thinking to do in arranging his outfield.

The former clobber has six fly catchers on his list. They are the two Murphys, Strunk, Oldring, Walsh and Daley. Mack finished last season with Walsh in left, Strunk in center, and Eddie Murphy in right. With the exception of Oldring, all other outfielders of 1912 vintage have been sent to the minors.

It is almost a certainty that Connie will open the season with Walsh in left and E. Murphy in right. Strunk and Oldring will have to fight for the middleman's job, with the probable result that neither will get it permanently.

The patient leader will probably solve the problem by shooting Andy into center when a right-handed pitcher hurls to the Mackmen, while Oldring will get the assignment when the foreigners have a left-handed man on the hill.

Daley Has Good Press Agent. This is leaving out of consideration youth Daley of Pacific waters. Daley comes with the usual modest recommendations. He can do anything that Jim Thorpe, Meredith and others can do, and, besides, can balance a sky-scraper on his little finger.

Just for good luck we will take the opportunity right here to predict that Mr. Daley is a bum. Maybe he will make good now. Anyway, a writer is taking a terrible gamble when he says anything good about a recruit.

Mack outfielder. About .805 per cent have made good in the last few years. Outfield weakness kept Mack from the major league, and if Walsh can supply the needed heavy hitting, and E. Murphy the needed run getting, the club will be greatly strengthened.

Nobody has any hope of Danny Murphy getting back into the game. Murphy got water on the knee sliding into the plate at the Sox park last June, and never recovered from it. Youths sometimes survive this dread athletic affliction, but Danny is 23 years old and his age is against him.

In making his outfield plans for 1913, Mack has never had Dan in mind, for he knows that his ball playing days are at an end, but the Norwich boy will probably be retained as coach of the youths.

The accident to the elder Murphy was Mack's greatest blow in 1912, as it removed his only high-class outfielder. Dan Murphy hardly ever received full credit for his worth to the team. American league pitchers feared him as much as any batsman on the club.

It seemed that he made all of his hits with men on bases. Murphy was very fast on his feet for a veteran, and used perfect judgment in running the bases. He had an iron whip and knew how to use it. Dan made few mistakes and played that steady, efficient game that means so much to a team. His value was increased by the fact that in a world's series of an important set of games in the pennant race, Murphy was always at his best.

There is no need for Mack to have any worries over his catching staff. Besides Thomas Lapp and Egan, he has Schang, the international league wonder. It was reported that Mack was going to turn Schang over to the Highlanders, but this was denied by the giant manager, who said he needed Schang himself.

Unquestionably the mainstays of Mack's curving staff will be the same as in the past years. Connie's big winners should be Coombs, Plank and Bender. The Colby card ranks with the Johnsons, Walshes, Alexanders and Mathewsons. Fear in and year out he is the same steady victor, and there is no reason why he should not be the same pitching prince next season.

Chief Bender was a disappointment last season. Many place the loss the championship on the Chipewags' shoulders, but this may be an injustice to the Indian, for the clinching away of the flag was the result of a combination of causes.

However, Mack will expect the enlightenment of the forest to show more ambition in the next race. Bender isn't old in years, although he has been with the Athletics since 1905. He is under the 30-year mark, and there should be several seasons more of good ball left in him.

If Bender absorbs Mack's advice and keeps his thoughts trained on baseball, there is no reason why he shouldn't repeat his successful seasons of 1910 and 1911. When Bender is right there is no better pitcher in the country, and it means everything to the club when he is going good.

Indulgent to Bender. Reports that Bender's habits are bad are greatly exaggerated. He spends most of his off-season time shooting at traps and playing billiards. Surely these two sports won't shorten a player's days on the diamond.

A manufacturer of this city has an interesting story in this connection. One day last summer he invited Bender to take dinner with him at one of the smart cafes.

"We'll start with a cocktail," said the manufacturer after they were seated.

"That's all right for you," replied Bender, "but cut me out."

"Why, what's the matter? One won't hurt you?"

"Perhaps not, but if anybody in this room sees me taking a drink, all sorts of stories will be circulated around town that Bender was paralyzed the other night." Bender didn't drink.

And, as a matter of fact, most stories about ball players being hopelessly intoxicated are untrue. For some reason men who wouldn't ever think of saying a word if they saw a bank president, poet, society man or a city official taking a drink at a bar have a foolish delight in reporting to all of his friends the fact of a ball toser being seen in a saloon.

If the ball toser takes one short beer, it's a source; if he takes two, it is a bad drunk, and if he should take three, why, then, he rolled to the floor helplessly and had to be carried by friends to his home.

Plank Wears Well. Eddie Plank had about the best year of his career in 1912, and should come back strong next season. The ancient portender is approaching his 34th year, but wears well because of the good cure he takes of himself.

Plank is a left-handed Cy Young and owes his baseball longevity to his love for outdoor life and his good habits. Besides the three pitching triumvirs, Mack has some worthy youths. The leaders are Carl Brown and Hoack. Brown is a pitcher to Mack's heart. He has the build and the stuff, and, moreover, the self-possession of Coombs. Connie likes the type of a pitcher who is unmoved in the greatest crisis.

Brown had a long stretch of success last season, and it looked like alone might pitch the team to the pennant, but he became ill just when he was going best, and was not himself for the remainder of the season.

Hoack is a young and sturdy and can be counted on to make a regular next year. He is a left-handed pitcher, and his youth is available. Pennoch, the left-handed, banded among the best.

The master of St. Louis never made predictions, but he probably feels that with his strengthened rearranged outfield and a more compact and powerful pitching staff that he has worked like a mule, Mack has other youths available. Pennoch, the left-handed, banded among the best.

In any event it is a safe bet that the fallen kings of the diamond will kick up a little dust some time between April and October.

FIGHT OFFER MADE.

Jess Willard Given Inducements and Choice of Men.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—If Jess Willard really is looking for trouble and is not particular whom it shall be with, Jess can find plenty of it. It is said that Al Kaufman is anxious to meet the cowboy pugilist. Either Al has an idea that he is a decided come-back or else he does not hold Willard in much esteem.

At any rate San Francisco promoters have wired Charley Cutler that Willard can have a fight with McPerson, Kaufman or Gunboat Smith, and if Cutler doesn't land a bout with Luther McCarty for his protegee, it is not probable Willard will consider his decision to fight nothing but battleships and take a little hike westward for money and recreation.

Promoter Coffroth has made the inducements so alluring Jess cannot well turn down the offer. Willard will meet either Ned Carpenter, the Iowa white hope, or Jack Heinen in a 10-round bout at Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 22, and in the meantime Manager Cutler will await word from Billy Gibson concerning a bout with McCarty for Jan. 29.

Jack Johnson showed up at O'Connell's gym for a little workout yesterday, but found the door shut against him, and the latchstrapping hanging on the inside. In fact there was no "wel come" sign in sight. Pupils of Bill O'Connell objected to the sight of a doing his training at the gym, and several professional boxers also objected, because of Johnson's color, but because of his recent escapades and resulting notoriety.

Will Fight Murphy.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Steve Ketchell sent a telegram to James Coffroth at San Francisco declaring his willingness to fight Tommy Murphy in the California city Feb. 22.

FARRELL'S DEAD GAME

Man Who Signed Chance
Bucking a Persistent and Successful Hoodoo.

Never Kicks When Failure Hits Him; Chance Looked To as Preserver.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—The Post has this to say:

Frank J. Farrell, the man who signed Chance to the biggest contract in the history of baseball, is credited to the honor of being the gamester man connected with the national pastime. It is his proud boast that he never kicks when he is getting the worst of it. Misfortune after misfortune has come to him in the last ten years and still he is a winning combination, but each change has been a huge disappointment.

He has signed Chance for three years and he is the big fellow in the club from now on, said Farrell just after the deal was closed. "If he is a success, well and good, and if he is a failure, it will make no difference with me, for I will never utter one word of protest. No one has ever heard me kicking on my luck or saying that my ball players got drunk."

"My great trouble has been to find a manager who could deliver at the psychological moment. My managers have fallen down in many instances just at the time they should have been making good. They have made good in other places, but the hoodoo was too much for them in New York."

Farrell believes he has landed the man now who will be able to do what he wishes, and start his team on the upgrade.

In the spring of 1902 the Highlanders made their debut in the American league, and under the leadership of Jack Griffith, everyone thought the New York team would run away with the pennant. Willie Knepper, brother and several other stars of the first magnitude were there to help land the signing for the young club, and it was only a ship that they didn't. In the end the team began slipping down and down a little farther each year until last summer they were regarded as much of a joke combination as the Browns.

The hoodoo pursuing the Highlanders seems to give them no rest after more than the team. Evidently it was following him before he got into baseball. Before he bought the franchise in New York he was one of the big racing men of the country. The story of his horses for little or nothing.

He has always been willing to take a chance on anything that looked like a fair proposition, but in this case fortune has been rather elusive. In the present deal he has set the pace by paying Chance a big sum of money. Any man in the baseball game, who is said to be good authority, is $25,000 with a 2 per cent interest on the profits. The decision of the man to stake his chance on such a big sum of money each year shows that he has the nerve to do anything that looks good to him, while many owners would have refused the hurdle.

If the Peerless Leader is successful in building up the ball team so that it will land in the investment of the club owner. Not only will the Highlanders be big winners, but the fans will be ready to turn out to a man to see Chance.

Big Bill Brennan, hero of the world's series of 1911 and one of the most noted umpires in the National league, has been asked to be master of ceremonies on the night when Stanislaus Zyzsko and Jess Westergaard, the Iowa Swede, clash at the Auditorium for the American championship title.

Brennan, a giant in stature, possesses a voice that is a marvel. It has reverberated through the largest baseball parks in the country these past three years. Big Bill has the reputation of being one of the best announcers in the country.

As there promises to be a distinct surprise in store for the fans in the way of announcement, officials of the Greater Duluth Athletic club decided to seek the services of the famous umpire, who will take charge of running the big show and will announce from the ring the statements that the officials of the club desire to make to the spectators of the match.

Billy Brennan is personally known to some of the top of Duluth. Back in 1899 or thereabouts, he played on the old St. Paul Central football team, which played the Duluth eleven at the old driving park. Brennan also played on several hockey teams in "White City." That was before he became famous as the hero of the world's series between the Giants and Connie Mack's Athletics.

Walter Miller will be at the ring-side and Harley Davidson, the world's champion roller skater, who is also a resident of St. Paul, will be in the line of the Little wrestler, if he returns from Australia in time.

Mrs. Harris, wife of Mauritz Harris, the wrestler, notified the officials of the club yesterday that she was unable to wrestle on the evening of Jan. 13. Negotiations were immediately started and a match between Billy Beaulieu, the crack middleweight of Superior,

A BUDDING KID ATHLETE WHO MAY BECOME FAMOUS

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The above picture represents the 4-year-old son of C. J. Sullivan. His name is C. J. Sullivan. The boy was 4 years old Jan. 9, 1912. The weight shown in the picture is fifty-two pounds. He has been lifting the club for some time and shows no ill effects from it.

The "kid" takes a regular gymnastic lesson every day. Gymnastics have been built in the Sullivan home and has four-pound dumbbells, three-quarter-pound bar, punching bag, chest expander, etc.

The lad is not restricted in his diet, and eats well.

He has won local fame as the white man's home having won a prize in a contest for popularity about a year ago. The father, C. J. Sullivan, is superintendent of the water plant in Chisholm and has had considerable correspondence with physical culture experts on his idea of starting the child young. The lad comes from every healthy parent. The father is a native of Ireland and the mother of Canada. He weighs thirty-five pounds. The weight he lifts is seventeen pounds heavier than himself.

The annual dinner of the sailors of the Duluth Boat club will be held at 6:30 this evening at the Commercial club. It is expected that more than thirty-five members of the sailing department of the club will be present at the feast and will take part in the festivities that will mark the presentation of the cups and various trophies won during the past season in the sailing division events.

Charles D. Brewer, captain of the sailing department of the boat club, will preside. Julius H. Barnes, president of the club, Secretary Albert Ames and Capt. Dan Mahoney will be the guests of honor of the evening.

Harris Trux has had charge of all the arrangements for the affair and it promises to be one of the most successful banquets in the history of the club that have been put on by the sailors.

In Class A, the 25-foot division of sailing boats, the trophy will be taken down by Skipper McCrea, who as the sailor of the good boat Zephyr won the highest number of points in this class.

Charles Henderson, skipper of the and Sailor Jack of this city, was signed.

The husky tar sweats that he has been training as he never worked before in his life. Jack has done in the place he occupied before he met Miller. He wants a match with Otto Sater on the winner take all basis, and he wants to show the fans that he is really there.

Big Jess Westergaard is due to reach here next Tuesday morning. The husky Des Moines Swede is in the very best condition of his career. His work with Gutch and the long siege of training he underwent to take the title away from Henry Ordeman, the big Norak, have made Westergaard better than ever.

Zyzsko, the mastodon, will also probably get in from Chicago some time during Tuesday. If Jack Herman is to be believed, Zyzsko is in better shape than ever in his career. Certainly the Pole knows more about the fine

MORE GRIEF FOR JOHNSON

Black Champion's Auto,
for Brewery Debt.

Tells Deputy Sheriffs That He Hasn't a Cent; Training for Fight.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Jack Johnson's automobile, a safe and the fixtures of the saloon here of which he was the proprietor until recently, were seized today by the sheriff to satisfy a judgment of $5,623.50 obtained against the negro pugilist by a brewing company. The seizure was made at the handsome residence which Johnson gave his mother and where he makes his home.

"I haven't a cent, gentlemen," was Johnson's reply to the demand of the deputy sheriff that he pay the judgment. He looked without further comment while they removed a safe from the house and took away his automobile from the garage in the rear. Most of the fixtures of Johnson's former saloon were stored in the garage, and the sheriff took these as well.

When the deputies came to the Johnson residence on Wabash avenue, they were met at the door by a negro who said:

"Mr. Johnson isn't in."

"Tell him we are from the sheriff's office," he replied, and the pugilist soon appeared.

"I haven't got it; I haven't a red cent," he told them, and they next demanded.

Johnson led the way and watched them take the former fixtures of the "Cafe De Champion," as Johnson's saloon was known. He protested when the sheriff started to run out the automobile.

"Don't take that car," he pleaded. "That belongs to Lucille. She bought it a couple of weeks before we were married."

Johnson referred to Lucille Cameron, his white wife. The deputies paid no attention to his plea. The automobile, the saloon fixtures, and the safe were taken in and turned over to a custodian from the sheriff's office. Johnson sat on the back steps of the house with his chin in his hands while he watched the removal of the property. He would not say anything.

For some time the pugilist has shown signs of getting into training to fight again. He has been boxing at a local gymnasium. Objection was made to his using the gymnasium most frequently by the local pugilistic fraternity, who said he was not fit to use the gymnasium. That I sent word to him to stay away in the future."

OLD JOHN L. SULLIVAN AS HE APPEARS TODAY

Here is John L. Sullivan as he looks today. "The Boston Strong Boy, Yours on the level, John L. Sullivan, former, after the amazing flight of time is hale and hearty, a old philosopher, who has learned the lessons of life and is quietly living in the afternoon of life. This picture was presented to Dr. Ned Kennedy by the immortal hero of the Turf, Young and strong and as he is today. They can say many things about John L. and they do, but those who are fond of turning back, have always this consolation: "He was always on the level and he never threw a friend."

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 11.—Rumors that the boxing lid again would be lifted here, were dispelled by Mayor Head yesterday. It had been reported that Eddie McGorty would fight either "Kno" or "Browny" Clabshaw.

"Nothing doing," was the terse reply the mayor gave to the proposition. The latter said that if any attempt was made to override his authority, he knew of a person who would appeal to the governor to stop the bouts.

"Kenosha is not the place for the fight, and that ends all attempts to re-open boxing," he said.

REVERSES NATIONAL BOARD. National Commission Decides for Player Against York Team.

Cincinnati, Jan. 11.—In reversing a decision of the national board of minor leagues here, the National baseball commission gave notice that at its annual meeting in Chicago next Thursday, it would recommend the adoption of a uniform contract for both major and minor leagues.

The case yesterday was an appeal of Player Manning from a decision of the national board. The latter had refused his claim for salary against the York, Pa., club of the Tri-State league from June 1 to the end of the season. Manning was injured in a championship game, and after coming from the hospital, was suspended by the York club for disability. A stipulation in his contract held that the club was only bound to pay him for one month following his return from the hospital.

The commission held that in case the club did not release the player outright, it would be forced to pay him the salary. It was against the letter and spirit of the national agreement to suspend a player for disability when that disability was sustained on the field.

Player Manning was declared a free agent, unless the York club pays the salary demands asked for within ten days.

The commission then stated that uniform contracts also would eliminate this evil.

Toronto Beats Cleveland. Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 11.—Ice hockey, Cleveland A. C. 4; Parkdale Canoe club (Toronto), 5.

By John L. Sullivan. I have been asked to discuss the boxing game and its champions, but as I have not been able to see the latest champions in action I cannot go far into the subject of individuality. I can say, however—for I feel that I know—that the present-day boxers are far below the standard of the boxers who made the game in my day. The fighters of years ago were far superior in every class and distinction.

The boxers in the game today are just in it from the commercial point of view.

champion setting up a fake fight. Not every man who was in the ring years ago was a fighter and the public was given a lot for its money.

I read several articles on the recent McGorty-Gibbons bout in New York and I drew the conclusion that they were afraid of each other.

If a man considers himself a boxer and goes into the prize ring, he should not be afraid of any other man. Slow bouts like this McGorty-Gibbons fray hurt the game.

Among the heavyweights today there is not a man that could stand the pace set by the men of my day. Jack Johnson is a dead issue and I consider him out of the game. Among the present heavies Luther McCarty looks the best to me.

McCarty Not a Champion. McCarty won the championship tournament for heavyweights held out on the coast, but I do not think he should be hailed as the champion of the world. If he should defeat several other men of the heavyweights he has won the world's title.

This Carl Morris is a joke, and I never considered Jim Flynn as a top-notch.

The boxers in the middleweight and welterweight classes are only mediocre. I noticed that Ad Wolgast lost the lightweight championship by a foul. From what I could learn from the newspapers, it looked as if the Michigan boy deliberately fouled Ritchie, as he was on the losing end of the bout and would rather lose the title by a foul than have the decision given against him.

In the old days a championship would not be passed along by a foul, except when it could be seen after the offense had been warned once. This appears to be the case in the recent Ritchie-Wolgast bout.

Ritchie a Fair Boxer. I have never been able to see Ritchie in a bout, but I judge that he is a fair boxer. I don't think he is too good, and I do not believe that he would hold the championship long.

It is too bad that Macky McFarland cannot make the lightweight limit, that the champions of today are so mediocre. I really believe that McFarland could clean out all the lightweights and then some.

In my days a champion would give up two pounds in a bout, but today if a boy wants a chance at the championship crown he is forced to get down to this side weight.

Johnny Kilbane, who holds the featherweight championship, strikes me as a clever little boy, and if he keeps on the right path he has a bright future. I had heard about that bout that he is supposed to have pulled off with his sparring partner which was branded as a fake by the witnesses. He should drop that kind of business. It does not get him a cent.

BILLY HUGHES BESTS DOUGHERTY The Canadian Fighter Has Shade Over Little Denver Pugilist.

Billy Hughes and Manager George Barney returned from Post, France, this morning, where last night the little Canadian fighter shaded Tommy Dougherty of Denver, Colo. The boys went fifteen of the hardest rounds that have ever been fought in the Northwest, according to the statement of Manager Barney and Manager Van Ry, who looks after the interests of Dougherty.

The boys have been matched for a return battle, according to the statement of Barney, who says that his boy will beat the little Denver fighter if the two boys ever get together in a longer fight.

Hughes is making his home here at the present time and is matched for several bouts in the near future.

WATSON FOR PRESIDENT U. S. Golf Association to Elevate Its Present Secretary.

New York, Jan. 11.—The elevation of Robert C. Watson from the secretaryship to the presidency of the United States Golf association and the election of John Field, Jr., of the St. Andrews Golf club, secretary, was said to be assured by many of the delegates who arrived today for the annual meeting of the national governing body in golf.

It was declared that there would undoubtedly be serious discussion of the power of the nominating committee to perpetuate itself, but the fact that no opposition ticket had been named for the election of officers tonight led to the belief that this year's nominating committee at least would be supported.

JOINT CEREMONY OF INSTALLATION Officers of A. O. U. W. and Degree of Honor Take Places.

Schumaker was the installing officer for the Workmen and Supreme Chief of Honor Frances Buell Olson of the national organization installed the Degree of Honor officers.

The hall was crowded with several hundred members and friends attending. Mrs. Olenka, a member of the lodge, acted as emcee, and several of the members were given prizes for work done during the year. The program concluded with a dance. The officers installed were:

Duluth Agent Returns From Factory—Autos By Carload—Three Big Shows Coming—What New Models Show.

Glenn S. Lockyer has just returned from Racine, Wis., where he has been spending considerable time in the manufacturing plant of the Mitchell motor cars. He has been following the construction of the Mitchell cars from the first tap of the hammer to the last wheeze of the engine. Mr. Lockyer has the agents for Mitchell cars for Northern Minnesota and Superior.

The Mutual Auto company this week received a carload of Overlands and a carload of Chalmers cars.

It has been announced that the Stewart-Speedometer company and the Warner Instrument company have consolidated into a new corporation, which will hereafter be known as the Stewart-Warner Speedometer corporation.

The famous New York auto show opens today and will continue until Jan. 15. This will be pulled off at Madison square garden and it is expected that some enthusiasts will be lured there from Duluth and vicinity.

Among the new features in the 1912 models to be seen at the latter show are many of interest to a purchaser. One of these, which will be discussed freely during the coming show, will be the deep cow dash boards which are turned under at the inside and mount the usual array of ignition switches, engine starter, lighting switches and the carburetor adjustment in a compact method, the driver is brought nearer to the control devices which are connected to the latter will be enormous.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

are you aware that the boy who dashes past you on the sidewalks of cities and towns on a boyish contrivance of four platform and three wheels, known as "pushmobile," or on roller skates, is one important personage in the greatest industry the world has ever seen? Well, he is, and so are his countless brothers in every part of America. An automobile manufacturing organization whose capital stock is $25,000,000 and whose payroll carries 8,000 names, has taken the boy seriously, so seriously, in fact, that it is spending a great deal of money in calling the attention of its 3,000 dealers in every part of the world to his importance.

The organization is the Willys-Overland company of Toledo, Ohio, which this year is turning out 10,000 Overland cars. Not long ago the advertising department of this company sent a long letter to each of its dealers, part of which follows:

"We maintain—and every old-timer in the business will bear us out—that the inquiries of boys concerning motor cars are much more important to overlook or ignore. In the average family the most 'up-to-the-minute' member, and the one who will most insistently urge his father to buy an automobile, is the boy. It is the boy who collects and reads the catalogues and who knows much more about automobiles in general than his father. Have you ever noticed how often, when you pass him in your car, the boy of today will yell 'It's an Overland.' Ten to one his father wouldn't have known it from any other car."

"A boy on roller skates recently called into the Overland salesroom in Cleveland, shouting at the head of the concern, 'Mister, please kimmie an Overland catalogue.' He got the desired book and before closing time that night the firm had sold the young man's mother an Overland car. The Denver dealer tells of driving seventy-two miles to a ranch to investigate a prospect, discovering a remarkably well written letter asking for a catalogue. He found out the ranchman's name, and the features of the car he wanted. Through the small town he was 'peevish' at what he considered a wild goose chase. The dealer explained to him the features of the car and gave him a ride over the prairie. While the boy's father had purchased an Overland and today two other sons and the rancher's brother are Overland owners. A New York dealer for a catalogue, explaining that while he couldn't buy a pushmobile, he hoped someday to be a 'shoffah.' The dealer gave the boy a lot of information and literature he had and a demonstration ride. Within a few days a New Jersey farmer entered the catalogue and declared he wanted to buy an Overland car. It must be the popular car, for all the dealers on my farm are talking about it," said the farmer. A little questioning disclosed the fact that the negro boy with ambitions to become a 'shoffah' was employed on the New Jerseyite's farm.

"These instances are enough to remind you that the boy is not to be slighted. The boy of today is the man of tomorrow and even now his voice is loud and insistent in the family council. Not infrequently the boy is the only member of the family who has read your advertisement and who therefore the only path by which he will be able to reach the father, who, generally, is the one who has the money to spend on a new car."

Five Kluge-Kay trucks are now used in the service of the city of Milwaukee, two in the water department, one in the public library, and two in the department of police. The latter are a pair of sturdy patrol cars with cylinder 60-horse power motors which means an ability to get there and back wherever it is. The 1,500-pound capacity water department wagons each cover fifty miles daily and the library delivery about forty-five miles.

National road and exact form in which the government should participate in highways construction is a belief which is becoming country-wide in its acceptance. The latest proposition brought forth along these lines by Representative Stanton Warburton of Washington state, who contends that the tobacco users of the country pay for the building of these national highways through the imposition of a tax on smoking as usual. The plan will go right on smoking without consciousness of the great benefit they are bestowing upon the people of this country. The plan contemplates every line connecting the capitals of every state with the national capital, and with each other, and also with the principal national parks, the government to locate the lines between the capitals along the most feasible routes, with the states granting to the government the selected roadways, together with the improvements thereon.

In his announcement Congressman Warburton says: "I propose to raise the fund by restoring the internal revenue tax of 1878 on tobacco and set aside the additional income from this source as a national road fund. The additional tax 90 provided would amount to about $80,000,000 per year, a little more than double the present internal revenue tax on tobacco. If the proposed 15,000 miles road system should cost $25,000 per mile, it would be paid in about four years, and in about five years at a cost of $25,000 per mile."

The time consumed by the average Britisher in completing an important purchase is given by a semi-humorist as the reason why more automobiles are not made in England. It can be fairly said on the other hand that when one of John Bull's sons makes a trade, he generally knows just why he does it. That seems to be the case with Mr. Karlton, a citizen of Featherston, N. Z., who came to America to investigate automobiles, did so with the characteristic thoroughness of his race and selected a Kissel Kar. Rugged road-worthiness was essential with Mr. Karlton and he believes that in the Kissel Kar he has met the best sample of American automobile workmanship. He has been driving an English Daimler car.

In looking over the 1913 automobile catalogues, one is greatly impressed with the almost wholesale abandonment of the four-cylinder car in favor of the six by nearly all the high-grade automobile manufacturers.

The cause of this remarkable movement is due to two important facts: First, the unceasing demand of the discriminating motorist for a car of greater flexibility, power and luxury; and second, the inability of most manufacturers to supply these demands with the existing types of four-cylinder motor.

The increase of wheel base, heavy torpedo body styles, full-floating axles, heavier frames, electric lighting and starting systems and very complete touring equipment, which are required in the high-grade cars of today, have added seriously to their weight with a consequently greatly increased demand upon the engine's flexibility and power.

The conventional type of four-cylinder motor as built by most manufacturers has become quiescent and is being discarded in favor of the six for this purpose.

There are a few four-cylinder motors, however, which by reason of their special design are extremely flexible and efficient, and have therefore been able to hold their own with the six-cylinder cars of the same class, in spite of these severe conditions. Such a type of motor is that made by the Knox Automobile company of Springfield, Mass., which is still leading a high-grade four-cylinder car in addition to their two six-cylinder models.

The Knox motor is built with detachable cylinder heads and has the valves located directly in the cylinder heads without cages. This arrangement is conducive to a very high efficiency on account of the direct design of the combustion chambers. The opening of the valves directly in the heads of the cylinders, without cages, permits the use of large valves and gives very free entrances and exits to the gases. This feature, together with the direct design of the combustion chambers, and other important details, have made this Knox four-cylinder motor nearly as flexible as a six-cylinder motor of the same dimensions.

There are still a large number of motorists who prefer a four-cylinder motor to a six, provided they can secure the power, flexibility and comfort necessary for satisfactory service and the ability of the Knox four-cylinder motor to meet these conditions is making it a popular seller with agents and customers alike, proving that the wisdom of the company in continuing a car of this type was wise under the circumstances.

"Indianapolis may be considered a 'northern-southern' city or a 'southern-northern' city," says President J. I. Handley of the Motor Car company. "It is ideally located geographically in reference to the rest of the country and is the largest city in the land in the country. When one considers the many advantages of the transportation facilities afforded by the car for use in such a city as the Marion company located there."

The Marion company was extremely fortunate in choosing Indianapolis because of its location in the center of the country and not confined to just one section. Shipments can be made to almost any point on a through freight service, which means a great deal to both dealers and owners when one considers the way freight is handled up in some terminals. Indianapolis is located on a direct line between such points as Toledo, Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Detroit, Louisville and many other cities.

WEATHER SUMMARY FOR THE YEAR 1912

The annual meteorological summary of climatic conditions in and about Duluth during the year 1912, has just been issued by the United States agricultural department. Its details are rather interesting to those whose business depends largely upon weather conditions.

WOMAN SELLS AUTOMOBILES WITHIN THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

A woman, young, pretty and progressive, has successfully established an automobile agency, the northern boundary of which reaches into the Arctic circle. It is the "farthest north" automobile sales point in the world. Her territory, centered at Humboldt, Saskatchewan, Canada, includes that province and the vast areas of Alberta and Mackenzie.

The young woman who is the pioneer of the automobile industry in the northern region is Miss Victoria Clerke, an enthusiast who has sold 500 cars before the year closes.

Miss Clerke, who firmly believes that a woman is most capable of selling automobiles, will attend the automobile show at New York and Chicago. She will be a prominent figure at the Imperial booth.

SCHOOL WORK AT CHURCH

Rev. W. G. Fritz Organizes Manual Training and Sewing Classes.

Pastor Gives Talks on Travels to Children in Schools.

The establishment of a manual training class for boys and a sewing class for girls as part of the proposed school center of the Garfield Avenue chapel has already been arranged by Rev. W. G. Fritz, pastor of the church.

That the church should be made the playground for the children, as well as being a religious institution, is the belief of Rev. Fritz, who took charge of the local parsonate last October. The manual training class consists of boys ranging from the ages of 7 to 17, who are taught all kinds of carpenter and wood work.

The sewing class meets every Saturday afternoon and has a membership of about forty. The manual training class has forty-five members.

There is a small back room at the church that is being used by the pastor and his assistants in this new work. The boys are taught by the Misses Alvord, Broder and son, Bernard, of Michigan, Mich. have left for their home after visiting here for several days.

During the past two years Rev. Hanson has been field secretary of the English churches of the Augustana synod of Lutheran churches and president of the English association of churches of the Augustana synod.

The first annual meeting of the congregation of the Trinity church will be held next Thursday evening at the Bethany church and plans will then be made for an active campaign for funds with which to erect a Trinity church in this end of the city.

AT THE LYCEUM

AT THE LYCEUM

Blanche Ring, who comes to the Lyceum tomorrow night and Monday night in "The Wall Street Girl," made her stage debut, as she says, when she was 12 years old. The stage, however, was in the chapel on Bluffinch place in Boston and the entertainment was only a Sunday school concert. The child soon tired of Sunday school concerts and began to go on the stage. Her uncle was so enthusiastic regarding her voice that he decided to take her to George Sweet, then one of the greatest singing masters in the country. If Mr. Sweet should approve the girl was to be sent to Europe and her voice cultivated.

Full of hope and with her head held high in proud anticipation, the young girl was giving her trying-out test. The big master shook his head. "No use at all," he said positively. "You can't make that voice heard outside the parlor."

"Well, we'll see," said young hopeful. "I guess there are as many good teachers here at home—I don't mean you, either—as there are in Europe. If you think I am going to shut my voice up in a parlor you are mistaken."

It wasn't very long after this that Miss Blanche went to New York determined to make a name every bit as big as that of her grandfather, Jimmy Ring, for many years principal comedian in the Boston Museum Stock company.

That she succeeded is very evident. She sprang into popularity with the singing of "In the Good Old Summer Time" and since then has popularized more songs than any singing comedienne on the American stage. Before becoming a star Miss Ring appeared in leading roles with some of the best known comedians in the country, including Jefferson, Joe Angelis, James T. Powers, Joseph Victor, Lew Fields, Harry Connor, Peter Daly, Alexander Carr and Frank Daniels.

The noted beauty, Salska Suratt, and her opera company will appear in this city at the Lyceum in the near future. The Lyceum has also announced in the celebrated New York Casino success, "The Kiss Waltz." The New York and Chicago critics lauded "The Kiss Waltz" as the best melody since the days of the Clibbens and Sullivan operas. Miss Suratt will have the support of a company of Broadway favorites, not the least important of which will be a girl chorus of noted beauties, and the management promises a most gorgeous array of scenic effects and all the splendor of the latest imported gowns.

The cast of "The Quaker Girl," the great English musical comedy which comes to the Lyceum in February, is headed by Victor Morley, who is right in his element as the debonair Tony Chute of this production. Mr. Morley has always played roles in which he has been called upon to portray members of the nobility, or the gay and irresponsible dandy. His first engagement was to originate the role of the Earl of Chomondley Grace George's success. Pretty Peggy, next, he played Lord Arlie in "The Prince of Pilsen," then the Earl in "The Earl and the Girl," then the Parisian dandy in "The Spring Chicken," then in "The Three Twines" and now as Tony Chute in "The Quaker Girl." He has a chance to display as never before, the charm of his buoyant personality and his varied accomplishments. He is the finest dancer on the boards, and has a voice of peculiar charm, and a magnetic personality.

With every minute of its two acts said to be as refreshing and colorful as a springtime itself. "The Rose Maid" operetta, boasting a more elaborate production than any of the Venetian musical offerings of recent vogue, is announced for four performances at the Lyceum in March. Since its first performance in New York, where it ran into its second season, this tuneful work with its pretty romance of the gay duke of Barchester and a little rose girl has proven fairly irresistible to music loving theatergoers.

Instead of the old fashioned opening chorus "The Rose Maid" begins with a romping dance in the duke's ballroom. The gaily girls bring down the house with their riotous fun to music throbbing with seductive and sensuous motives. Every scene is played to haunting music. "The Rose Waltz," the "Pavlova Dance," the "Happy Family" song and the "Moon Song" are especially charming. Whether it be a comedy episode or a situation in the gay life of the hero and his fond little Daphne, there is a fitting melody to please the ear and start each susceptible toe tapping.

While the piece abounds in laughable buffoonery, furnished by no less than five comedians, this may be taken as a concession to popular taste and never detracts from the operatic merit of the score. "The Rose Maid" will

Jean Bedini the man who catches a turnip from any high building on a fork held in his mouth, will be at the Orpheum next week. Mr. Bedini is a juggler as well as a comedian and Arthur, who are known as "The Jovial Jugglers," and they rely more on their comedy for their success in vaudeville than on their skill as jugglers.

Mary Quive, a native of St. Paul, Minnesota, and herself a well known musical comedienne, and her partner Paul McCarty, will offer another act next week that promises to be a most successful one. In musical comedy was in the title role of "The Jovial Jugglers," and McCarty played the juvenile role in the same company. During that engagement the present partnership for vaudeville purposes was formed. The act is said to be one of the classic musical acts on the Orpheum circuit.

Miss Quive's violin obligatos prove a most distinctive feature of her vocal numbers, and Mr. McCarty in addition to being an exceptional vocalist is said to be a rarely good pianist. These qualities combined with the personality of the two performers, and of course, and costume, it is said to be the last word in this line, make them one of the most popular teams on the circuit.

Claude Golden will supply the novelty on next week's bill. With an ordinary deck of playing cards he gives an exhibition of rapid calculation and trickery that combines wonderful memory and uncommon dexterity. One of his tricks is tearing a pack of cards in half, then into quarters and using the bits of paper as one would a endure because it has been provided with the elements of success along legitimate lines, because of its fascinating story told in action and song and because it has so many attractive numbers that will be whistling favorites for months to come.

The De Koven Opera company, carrying a special of twelve cars with 129 people, headed by Miss Beale Abbott and a number of other grand opera stars in "Robin Hood," will be one of the February attractions at the Lyceum.

"The Spring Maid," with Mizzi Hajos and a splendid company, will be seen for two nights at the Lyceum in February.

A stupendous production of "Ben Hur" with the same cast and production that appeared in London last spring will play an engagement of four days at the Lyceum in February.

Lyman H. Howe's travel pictures, with an entire new program, will be an early attraction.

Four capacity houses will no doubt greet Adelaide Thurston when she plays her first engagement in four years in her home city in March.

Charlotte Walker will be seen at the Lyceum early in March in a spectacular production of John Fox's famous novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Four baggage cars are required to transport the scenery and properties of this company.

Among the stars who will appear at the Lyceum in the spring are Henry Miller, John Drew, Chauncey Olcott, William H. Crane, Maude Adams and Francis Starr.

The many friends of Laura Frankfield will be delighted to learn that she will be seen in the role of "Madame X" at the Lyceum for three days in May.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Joseph Jefferson, a son of the most beloved actor the American stage has ever known, and the greatest of the next week, headlining the new vaudeville bill.

Probably no actor ever got closer to the hearts of American theatergoers than did Joseph Jefferson in his famous role of Rip Van Winkle. Later his son appeared, following in his father's footsteps, and critics generally admitted that the son had something more than his father's name to commend him to theater patrons.

The vehicle which Mr. Jefferson is using for his vaudeville tour is a playlet by William C. De Mille, entitled, "In 1999." It is claimed to be one of the most distinct and arresting bits of satire that has been given to the American stage. The playlet is a comedy of the player's action, and the subject has to do with the reversed conditions of men and women when suffrage shall have become a reality.

In this play the wife becomes the bread winner, and with this responsibility she assumes all the perquisites that the husband holds as his in these days. She frequents the clubs, stays out at night, and is generally responsible for the uneasy frame of mind of her other half, who is forced to stay at home and become the home maker.

Mr. De Mille, who is well known as a dramatist, is said to have worked out the situations in a manner that provides most pleasing comedy and some brilliant dialogue. Jesse L. Lasky is responsible for the production of the playlet, and he has secured no less an actress than Felice Morris for the role opposite to Mr. Jefferson. The other member of the little company is

The Liebler company has announced that the new Louis X. Parker dramatic spectacle, "Joseph and His Brethren," will begin its season here with a matinee Saturday. The play is divided into four parts and thirteen scenes, the parts being entitled "The Coat of Many Colours," "The Temptation," "The Dreams," and "The Deliverance."

At the end of Mrs. Fiske's engagement at the Hudson theater, a new play, entitled "The Poor Little Rich Boy," will be presented at the Lyceum. Arrangements to that end were effected through the Henry B. Harris offices after Mrs. Fiske's departure. The piece is by the work of Eleanore Gaten and Mabel Tallaferra was the original selection for its star.

The story in the play is that of the little daughter of a man of wealth. She is neglected by the servants and almost deserted by her father. She is pining up a fortune in Wall Street. A scandalous party is given at the house in the course of the play after a sort of "Peter Pan" fashion.

The present company includes Laura Nelson Hall, Howard Hall, Boyd Nolan, Grace Grady, and others. The play is by the work of Eleanore Gaten and Mabel Tallaferra was the original selection for its star.

In the course of a few weeks theatergoers are likely to hear a great deal about a stage novelty which for the present is known as "The Ballet Mystery."

Christie MacDonald will appear in "The Spring Maid" for the last time, Saturday at the Broadway theater. MacDonald is to begin rehearsals of a new musical comedy, as yet unnamed, written for her by Victor Herbert, Harry B. Smith and Madame de Grassac. This piece must open sometime before Easter, probably in Boston.

Mizzi Hajos, another "Spring Maid" star, will soon be engaged in preparing for her new medium, "The Little Highways," now being written for her, will begin Feb. 10.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"Turandot," the Chinese fantasy, which created an extraordinary sensation in Europe when first introduced by Max Reinhardt last year, had its first American performance at the Haymarket theater, New Haven, New York's eve.

The theme of the play concerns the beautiful Princess Turandot, who has declared that she will marry any prince who can guess three riddles which she will propound. But if any prince attempts to solve the riddles and is unsuccessful, he will be executed. The Princess of Astrachan is finally successful and the princess falls in love with him.

"Turandot" has been staged under the direction of J. C. Huffman and the special music has been arranged by Oscar Radin.

Nance O'Neill and company are back on Broadway. Miss O'Neill had planned a long tour, visiting "Mada," "Fires of St. John" and "The Jewess." The tour lasted two and one-half weeks. Now that her road season has ended unexpectedly Miss O'Neill will get ready for vaudeville dates. It is said.

Encouraged by the financial and artistic success of his massive production of "The New Secretary," William Frawley has in preparation another Shakespearean revival for next season at the Lyceum, which will also come to New York—probably at the Lyceum like-wise—with an all-star cast.

The Ford sisters—Mabel and Doran—joined the Sam Bernard show as a strengthening for the New York engagement.

UP TO THE COUNCIL.

Monday night the council committee will report on the proposal to get the services of a competent man to assist in the installation of the new form of government for Duluth. It is believed that the committee will report in favor of the plan and thus put the matter up to the council.

There should be no delay in acting on the plan. The time for the inauguration of the new officials will soon be here, and the three months between now and that event will prove none too long a time for preparation for the change. Petitions for the nominees for mayor and commissioners are being circulated widely and some of them are already reported complete.

With the report of the committee the last preliminary formality will have been completed, and the council should get down to business and engage the services of a competent man for the task.

When Duluth starts the new government she wants to start it right, and not have to go back over the field and correct mistakes. There must be no mistakes, if they are humanly possible of avoidance. The council has in its hands the power to reduce the likelihood of such mistakes to a minimum. There should be no hesitation about taking such action, and taking it now.

Somebody has suggested that Col. Roosevelt go to Idaho, put himself under the jurisdiction of the supreme court of that state, and offer to take on himself the penalty imposed on the publishers who were found in contempt for printing some of his comments. Sounds like an interesting proposition for the colonel.

EVERYBODY'S PRAISING IT.

If there remains in the minds of those in power at Washington any doubt as to whether the people of the country wanted a parcel post service, it could be removed by a perusal of the press of the nation. Far and wide there seems to be a spirit of praise for the innovation in American postal work, in spite of some difficulties that have arisen incident to the newness of the service and the unfamiliarity of patrons and postoffice employees with the way of doing things. That these difficulties will soon be solved, none doubts; and in the meantime the United States is being placed on the postal map of the world on a par with European nations.

One of the most encouraging things about the reception the parcel post is getting is the attitude of the country weeklies and the dailies in the smaller communities. It is from these sections that much of the opposition to the introduction of the parcel post came. In fact, they were the originators of virtually all the opposition not fostered by the express company interests that saw their own extensive graft in danger from the new service.

Now the country papers are engaged in showing the benefits of the parcel post to their communities, and even some that were most strenuous in their opposition to it are admitting that the evils they feared have been eliminated by the regulations with which the service is provided.

A good example of the concrete cases in which the new postal service is being shown to be beneficial to rural communities is furnished by the St. Hilaire, Minn., Spectator, which says:

"The new parcel post law improves the position of the local retail merchant as respects distant mail order houses. A mail order house three hundred to six hundred miles away must pay 42 cents to get a ten-pound parcel mailed. The local merchant serving the same article to fifty-mile territory can get the same thing carried for 12 cents. He can send it for local delivery, including such rural routes as may start at the home postoffice, for 14 cents.

This is the best kind of thing that rural papers can do to show their readers the benefits of this service—point out actual instances in which they can save by using the parcel post. It will be some time, probably, before the people in general will awake to the possibilities of the service, and the papers can do excellent work for the people by pointing out its capabilities. The small dealers were the ones who feared its operation most. Now they are given a chance to find themselves its chief beneficiaries, for it not only opens the way for them to compete with the much feared outside dealers on better terms, but it provides them with a simple, safe and inexpensive means of improving their own relations with the community that they serve.

Castro, having been denied a writ of habeas corpus, will no doubt feel like saluting the Statue of Liberty with the presidential salvo of twenty-one guns. And not with blank shells, either.

WHERE TO BEGIN.

Most folks, at some time or other and frequently at many times, are afflicted with notions, more or less original, for the uplift of the race, the betterment of national or state conditions, the purifying of local politics or the greater development of the neighborhood in which the person with the notion lives.

Many folks who get these notions pass them along to others; most folks who get them may spring the idea in the circle of their own hearthstones, but seldom voice them beyond that limited precinct.

In the cases where the idea is broached to a neighbor the conversation usually winds up with the words: "It's a good hunch, all right. Too bad people don't take it up."

Now the "it" may refer to a new form of government, or a plan for the general use of the schoolhouses out of school hours, or a better way of running the gardens or fixing the back fences or making the chickens lay or laying the dust or preserving peace in the neighborhood or building up the church or putting up peach preserves or helping the deserving poor or spotting the grafters or getting out the vote—or, well, anything else. But usually there is some little tag end to the "it," if you trace the thing back to first principles, that devolves on the individual.

Who is going to begin this great reform that you have thought out and of which you see such a pressing need? You spring it on a neighbor or friend or relative and have a sneaking hope that he will start it. Or if he won't, maybe he can use his influence with somebody else who will. But there is always a chance of a slip-up in that kind of dealing, so you would like to find some surer way of getting your plan into practical application.

There is a surer way. More than that—there's a SURE way. And it is so simple—Oh, so simple! You will wonder why it hasn't occurred to you before, if it never has. This sure way is to begin the thing yourself. That's it, begin with you.

You want to uplift the race, for example. Are you as uplifted as you could be? Are you to purify politics? Are your political relations and actions above reproach? And so with every other form of work for the general good. Begin your idea by applying it to yourself and your actions and thoughts. The power of example is many times that of language, and you will gain more converts by your own actions than you can possibly gain by talking about abstract ideas.

These lurches you get are good, no doubt. They are worth getting into operation. The great question is, where to make a beginning. And the great answer is, Begin With Yourself.

In view of the jump of fruit prices after the reported loss of half the California crop, it would be interesting and instructive to know what the rulers of prices would do if the whole crop were reported lost.

WHEN TO FIGHT FIRE.

There is only one time to fight fire, and that is NOW.

And NOW means all the time.

It is not an uncommon question at gatherings of from four to a dozen persons of any age—"What would you do if you were in a house and it caught fire?" And the answers vary from serio-comic speculation as to one's actions to admitted uncertainty as to what one would do.

But another question, that would be much more sensible and yet that is seldom asked in such a company, is: "What would you do if you were in a house and knew it was likely to take fire from some cause you could prevent?"

That query isn't half so foolish as it may sound, for it is a question that might be applicable to your own home, unless you are one of the watchful kind. In fact, it is the opinion of insurance men and other students of this question, that at least half the fires that occur in homes are easily preventable.

Fires that start in these days are not often attributable to "an act of God." They are much more likely to be due to the acts of rats that have found access to matches. Or to an insufficiently protected gas jet. Or to a faulty flue in a chimney, particularly in this season of the year. Or to the accumulation of dust and refuse in a yard or cellar or attic. Or even from carelessness with a burnt match. It only takes one half-extinguished match to start a fire, and perhaps the only one that you throw away carelessly in the course of a year may have enough fire left in it to cause disaster.

The time to fight fires is before they begin.

The time to fight fires is NOW.

NAMES THAT TICKLE THE EAR.

People who have a penchant for collecting and preserving lists of odd names will reap a harvest in the proceedings of the house of representatives at Washington for last Saturday, Jan. 4, 1913. Representative Mondell of Wyoming on that date placed in the record a report of "purchase of implements, etc., for Indians of Tongue River reservation, Montana," of date of Nov. 30, 1912. The names of the Indians provided for are such as to delight the very soul of the collector of odd-sounding titles. Here are a few of them:

George Americanhorse; Walter Ant; Thomas Blackwhiteman; Charles Bearcomout; Charles Bigback; Hinton Bigles; William Bites; Andrew Callisfirst; Joseph Craymule; John Divesbackward; Howlingcoyote; Edward Kallsnight; Arthur Ghostbull; any number of "littles," including Littleben, Littlebear, Littlebird, Littlewhiteman and Littlewolf; George Longroach; Hubert Risingfire; Philip Risingsun; Otis Seabby; John Standsintimber; Richard Walkslast; several varieties of medicine, including Sweetmedicine and Wanderingcure; Henry Twohulls; Bert Two-moons; Arthur Whitelirt; Richard Woodenleg and Hugh Woodenthigh; David Littlecloud; Benjamin Bear-um; Thomas Bobtailhorse; Albert Howlingantelope; Mary Stronglight-land; John Tallwhiteman; David Walkseasy, and Adolph Walkseasy.

We may mourn the decadence that has brought the Indian from the fanciful and picturesque savage of the Cooper novel to the forsaken-looking individual of the reservation of today. But when it comes to language it would seem that the red man of today is no less figurative in his talk than were his forebears of the time of Chingachgook and his dusky son.

Col. Roosevelt says he speaks only as one "in the ranks" of the Bull Moose party. Some day somebody may take him at his word about this "in the ranks" business, and then we'll see another blowup like the one he started when he was put in the ranks at Chicago.

CHEER UP, BOYS!

Leap year has gone for another four years, and with it have vanished the hopes and chances of an unnumbered host of young men who vainly would enter on a career matrimonial if they only had the self-confidence to believe they would be acceptable to the ladies of their choice.

It is a tough proposition for a young man to go up against—this of having to pop the question when his mind is filled with doubt and uncertainty as to his qualifications for filling the demands of the girl he admires. Leap year has appeared as a man-made dispensation—a sort of almanac first aid to the doubting—by means of which the girl herself may solve the problem and still retain her maidenly reserve. So the passing of leap year always leaves a bare spot in the garden of hope.

But cheer up, boys! Don't be discouraged by the fact that you are among the leftovers. In order that you may judge how good your chances are, may know exactly where you stand in the matrimonial market, the young women of Drake university at Des Moines, Ia., have drawn up a code of qualifications to show what kind of a chap may consider himself eligible for marriage to one of their number. It should be fair to consider that the requirements they set forth will meet with the approval of a majority of their fellow-feminines.

The qualifications prescribed by these young women are as follows:

1. He must make a good appearance, but need not be handsome.
2. He must be careful in personal appearance, but not be a "dandy."
3. He must be jolly, accommodating, considerate and a true sportsman.
4. If an athlete and meeting the other requirements, so much the better, but if not athletic it need not detract.
5. He must be a good conversationalist and realize that a girl is not flattered by having someone talk at her all the time.
6. He must show the same gentlemanliness with men as with women.
7. He must not sit generally in a streetcar while an old man or an old woman stands, and then arise suddenly and offer a seat to a pretty girl.
8. He must not smoke nor drink nor be guilty of the attendant evils. (These were most vigorously denounced.)
9. He must not sneer at religion nor joke about it.
10. The young women recognize no difference in standards for men and for women and declare such distinction as false.
11. The young women can only truly respect those men who live by principle and not by others' opinions.

There you are, young fellows of marriageable age. Paste that in some place where you can refer to it readily; memorize such parts of it as you have yet to accomplish. Then cheer up and go forth to victory.

It is to be hoped that Turkey enjoys believing the arrival at a peace agreement. It is likely to be about the only satisfaction she will get out of the whole proceedings and it would be too bad to rob her of that.

An actress in Minneapolis "swatted" a masher who addressed her on the street. Reports fail to state how much the lady's press agent had to pay the swatter, and as no name was given of the lady herself was mentioned in the story, it might be hard to trace the matter down.

The Higher Criticism. Judge Hokus—"That's a great chorus they have in the new show at the Holy Toighly theater!"

Pokus—"Yes, I knew the piece would be a success before the curtain had gone up two feet."

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussion of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must not exceed 100 words, shorter the better. The name and address of the writer, though these need not be published, is a signed letter always more effective, however.)

THE ARMY CANTEN.

To the Editor of The Herald: Every time a new congress is elected the National Brewers' association begins another campaign to have the anti-canteen law set aside. Articles begin to appear about the terrible state of demoralization existing in the United States army, and how the canteen law has been introduced. Such an item appeared last evening.

I hope that this bill will fall of passage like those from the same source in recent years. The canteen was nothing but a barroom where soldiers were not always content to beer, and from which came most of the disorder at the posts. There are no more canteens in the neighborhood which were as much frequented before the canteen was abolished as at present. Why these dives are not removed is a question. The prohibition of all sale of liquor within one mile, or better, five, of any army post would be a good thing. The Congress has already appropriated over $1,000,000 to provide clubrooms for social enjoyment for the soldiers where they are not always content to be deprived of anything good or needed by having the post saloon shut. Why not have a bar in our homes or colleges to keep our boys from drinking in downtown saloons; we consider that they would be more likely to take to drink with temptation always under their noses. Are soldier boys of about the same age made of different stuff?

If Congress is really concerned for the morals of the army it will pass a bill removing the dives to a less convenient distance and of giving ear to the misrepresentations of those who want to sell the boys beer.

Duluth, Jan. 10.

Guessing and Knowing

Walt Mason in System Magazine: If I were selling nails or glass or pills or shoes or garden sash, or honey from the bee—whatever line of goods I chose—I'd study up that special line and know its history.

If I a stock of rags should keep, I'd read up on sundry books on sheep and wool and how it grows. Beneath my old bald, freckled head, I'd store up much knowledge and not another thing like those I'd try to know a spinning-jack from patent churn or wagon rack, a loom from hog-tight boots, and a pair of trousers from a can and asked some leading question, I could answer with some sense.

If I were selling books, I'd know a Shakespeare from an Edgar Poe, a Carlyle from a Pope, and I would know the difference between a Lillian Libby's brand of crimes, or Lillian Russell's dope.

If I were selling shoes, I'd seize the fact on gooseberry trees, good leather doesn't grow; that shoe pegs don't come from a tree, and neither doesn't come from goats—such things I'd surely know.

And if I were a grocer man, I'd open up and then a can and see what stuff it held: "twere better than to write down the name of a thing, that I didn't know," when some mad patron yelled.

I hate to hear a merchant say: "I think that this is splendid hay." I guess it's first class tea." He ought to know how good things are, if he doesn't know, he ought to know other goods to me. Oh, knowledge is the stuff that wins the man without it soon begins to get his trade in kinks. So matter where a fellow goes he's valued for the things he knows, not for the things he thinks.

Finding Homes for Our Waifs. James P. Heaton in the Survey: Only that the homeless children out of the 5,000 minor wards of the commonwealth itself were legally adopted in Massachusetts last year. Over 25,000 homeless children are in various institutions, public and private, in New York state. Yet a great organization that aims to place homeless children in homes for adoption. These figures do not of course include all the children who are in homes, temporary and permanent, were found in these two states, nor are all of these thousands technically eligible for adoption. But the fact is true that relatively few orphan find new parents.

Why is it that in so few instances the homeless children and the homeless home are brought together? The explanation is a sifting process applied to applicants and children alike.

The average child begins with a child. First a search is made to learn whether or not it has relatives who are "financially able or morally fit" to assume its care.

Next, its parentage is traced. The progeny of degenerates, confirmed truants and gamblers, and persons are not offered for adoption. Likewise a child who is defective mentally is not considered. Possibilities of hereditary talents of any kind are ferreted out, even to the third or fourth generations. Only then is he ready to be shown to his future father and mother.

Following this comes the delicate work of passing on the fitness of those wishing to become foster-parents. An agent usually visits the prospective home, to see if it is clean and sanitary. References are required and neighbors consulted. Servants, even, are sometimes questioned to make sure that the man and his wife do not quarrel, for responsible agencies will not give a child into the care of wrangling parents.

It Made a Difference. Life: "If I ever get hold of Blinks I'll thrash him so that his mother wouldn't recognize him."

"What's the matter?" "He's been slandering me. He says that I beat him out of $5 in a poker game."

"Not at all. I heard the remark myself."

"What did he say?" "He said that you beat him out of $5,000 in a wheat deal."

"Oh, yes, I suppose it is all right. I hardly thought he was the kind of man to go around telling stories that reflected on my character."

The Play and the Child

Walter Prichard Eaton in the American Magazine.

Why have we done nothing of late in the theater for our children? Why have we left them at home, or let them ruin their eyes and stultify their imaginations at motion-pictures, or debauch their taste at vaudeville? It is three a pity. It is indeed a crime.

One reason—and perhaps the chief reason—is, of course, that of late years our theatrical managers have, for the most part, been men quite incapable of understanding the needs of children, and quite indifferent to them. You can neither write, act, nor produce a play for children unless you have a deep sympathy with children, and unless you recognize the function of the theater toward them. Moreover, Broadway is the last place in the world where children are found or wanted; and Broadway in recent years has detested to our drama, and developed among them for the tired business man and the visiting drummer.

We have not cared for the kiddies on our stage.

"And why should we?" perhaps the managers ask. The question, there, is no answer which he can understand. We should, of course, just because they are kiddies; because in those sensitive, rippling years the dramatic instinct is strongest in them, and consequently the most potent weapon for developing their imaginations; because the theater, rightly conducted, gives them innocent, wholesome pleasure; because, for the theater's own good, it develops in them a love for dramatic art, good taste, sensitivity, sympathy, and makes them better theatergoers in the years to come.

No one familiar with children needs to be told of the insatiable desire for the theater, their love of "pretending." That is nature's way of developing the imagination. After-life schools and dimly glimpsed of the imagination, but cannot create it. No one familiar with educational processes needs to be told that this instinctive drama sense is one of the most effective educational weapons. And no one needs to be told that the developed imagination is the basis of every step of progress in the human race has made. It is not alone in painting pictures and writing poems that the imagination does the work. Every invention, every discovery of science, is a product of the imagination. The trained scientist submits this hypothesis to the stern critical test of ascertained facts. But he may collect facts and make a great discovery. The imagination which conceives the hypothesis of evolution is a superb imagination, and ranks Darwin as a genius. A thousand other men could have spent the succeeding generation verifying this hypothesis by fact, as we do not much for it. They couldn't create the hypothesis. Therefore anything which develops the imagination makes for the improvement of the human race as well as for individual happiness and a richer individual life.

Grimm's fairy-tales may have a direct bearing on the invention of the trolley-car and the telephone, or the discovery of antiseptics. Such things cannot be proved, but they are too obviously possibilities to ignore or scorn. And in this early development of the imagination the child can be more potent than the theater.

For What It's Worth

The Billboard: A story that has long been retailed by word of mouth among show-folk—a sordid, unpleasant story, but one well vouched for, heard at last found its way into print. Herbert Corey tells it in the Cincinnati Times-Star.

Corey's version does not accord entirely with others that have reached us, but these others varied also, so doubtless his is true enough. We do not much for it. We give it for what it is worth. Here it is:

"The pay of chorus girls averages about $15 a week. They are required to work for nothing during the rehearsal period. Sometimes they rehearse four weeks, and then the show opens in two weeks. A few more weeks pass before they get another engagement. That budget does not provide for many pleasures, and the chorus girls could go through a period of thin fog even."

I tried to do something for them once," said a theatrical manager the other day. "Honest, I know they're up against it. There isn't a manager in the business who could afford to pay his chorus girls a fair salary. It's rehearsal—and that half salary would make more of a difference to some of the girls than the money they get in rehearsal. Before he put his half-salary plan into operation, he thought he had better ask the girls to sign a contract. Their contracts called for $200, $300, $400 a week. He felt that he could not afford to pay rehearsal salaries, too, during the rehearsal time. And he feared they would demand it if they knew the chorus girls were being paid."

So I talked to 'em—in the sacred confidence of brothers," said he. "I told them that I could not and would not give them half pay, but that I hoped they would not interfere with my plan to help out the girls who really needed it. Every one of them said it was a beautiful thought of mine. They always knew that I had a white soul. But that if any extra money were being passed around, and they didn't get their share of it, they wouldn't play. So I gave."

"Listen," I said, "I was getting red in the neck. 'You do not get any extra money.' Get that? Are you going to interfere with my plan to help out the girls? You know the every one of them is likely to be in the hole right now."

"They stand together," these high-priced folks told me. "One for all; all for one. If the girls get half pay, so do we, or we go screaming out into the street."

"So the girls didn't get half pay. But what do you think of those well-paid folks, hey?" "Not a nice story, is it? Yet it is well vouched for and generally credited."

We refused to believe it. We do not accept it in its entirety yet. We have always found actors and actresses so spontaneously generous, so sympathetic, so quickly responsive to the appeal of the unfortunate, and withal so liberal, that this tale was mighty hard to swallow.

We believe there was, that there must have been another side to it. The accused principals have never sought to justify their course; they could not, and naturally would not try if the charges are true.

If it is not true, they ought to speak up.

Will they?

Duluth and The Herald

Boquets and Bickbals from the State Press.

The Golluk Case. Grand Marais News-Herald: Paul Golluk, an injured miner from the iron range obtained a judgment against the company for $1,500. When the case was finally settled he found himself a dependent on public charity because there was nothing left after attorney's fees, expert medical witnesses and court costs were paid. The Duluth Herald points to this poor miner's case as a clinching argument in favor of an employer's liability law. If there is a possibility of legislation that would make such grouchiness a thing of the past, let it come. It should be welcomed by employers as well as employees.

Perhaps. Mahanmen Pioneer: There are no wars in Duluth any more. The new commission form of government has put them out of business, but the old time ward heeler will doubtless still be on the job.

It All Depends. Ely Miner: A Duluth preacher has changed the old saying that "if whiskey interferes with business, quit business" to "if your job clashes with religion, quit your job." Considerable depends on what kind of a job you have. If you are a preacher, coal and good but how about the ice man, coal man, printer man and several other fellows?

Good Suggestion. Aurora News: The Duluth Evening Herald asks: "Will the Parcel Post Deliver Eggs to Duluthians?" Better first consult the hen.

Guide and Prophet. Fairmont Sentinel: The Duluth Herald, the unerring guide and prophet of Minnesota Democracy, hurled anathemas at the scheme to take from Lieut. Gov. Burquist the power to appoint senate committees. The Herald, on all public questions, is invariably on the side of the people.

It Sure Must. Sauk Center Herald: The Duluth News-Tribune protests in its editorial tones, against the proposed of the unholy senate combine (lauded to the skies by the mercenary Minneapolis Tribune's George Anthony) that proposes to deprive Lieut. Gov. J. A. Burquist of the right to appoint senate committees. When the standpat Republican Duluth paper can't swallow something, that something must be pretty rotten.

Appreciated. Stillwater Gazette: Editorially the editor of the Duluth Herald writes what he terms "Some Rambling New Year's Thoughts." We who are growing old, we whose heads are bowed with years of toil and labor, we who have always had responsibilities, but withal have been cheerful and gay, even when adversity appeared to almost, but not quite, have the upper hand, can appreciate much better than youth the words of the editor, which are true to life to those who have lived to touch close to the fifty mark.

Range Would Be Heard. Hibbing Mesaba Era: Duluth is putting in a lot of time and energy boosting the Duluth to the iron range, and Duluth and the Twin Cities. The same effort directed toward such a road would be more to the point, and, besides, it would make us feel that Duluth's eternal profanity in liking for us is not powdered and pinked up just for us to look at.

Definitions of "Home" London Tit-Bits: The golden setting in which the brightest jewel is "mother."

A hive in which, like the industrious bee, you get your share of the honey of life for age to meditate and feed upon.

The best place for a married man after business hours.

Home is the coziest, kindest, sweetest place in all the world, the scene of our purest earthly joys and deepest sorrows.

The place where the great are sometimes small, and the small often great. The father's kingdom, the children's paradise, the mother's world.

The jewel casket containing the most precious of all jewels—domestic happiness.

A Boost For Evansville. The Herald is in receipt of the New Year edition of the Evansville, Ind., Courier—a seventy-six page boost for Evansville and all things that belong to the city. The Courier, with this edition, enters on its sixty-eighth year of publication and shows the kind of enterprise that ought to come with that amount of accumulated experience.

There are illustrations galore, varying from single-column halftones to full-page drawings, and all are calculated to show the progress Evansville has made in years past, especially in 1912, and the hopes of the city for the future. Much space is devoted to business interests, and to firms that are doing their part in building up the commerce of the region, and occasionally there appears a feature article of general interest. At the same time the news of the day of publication is not slighted. The New Year Courier is a creditable piece of work. It ought to be of material value both as a means of boosting its home city and for the historical nature of parts of its contents.

Youth Rusklin: Ever Youth in the state—from the king's son downward—should learn to do something finely and thoroughly with his hands, so as to let him know what touch meant, and what stout craftsmanship meant, and to make him of things he does besides, which no man can learn but by some severely accurate disciplines in doing.

A SERMON OR A SONG

By SAVOYARD.

Here is the passage in Woodrow Wilson's address at the annual dinner of the Southern society in New York the other day that ought to challenge the thought and arouse the conscience of every American citizen:

"I say this not as a threat, but to convey this intimation: That men have got to stand up and be counted and put their names down. I think so soon as men see this is business and not amusement, an enthusiasm will arise by which it will be revealed that honor and integrity of purpose breed more prosperity than any other things in the world. God knows the poor suffer enough. A man would hesitate to take a single step that would involve any further suffering. We must move to the emancipation of the poor."

"The emancipation of the poor"—that's the problem, and the patriot statesman never forgets it. It is a problem, only a few days before Governor Wilson delivered the address from which the foregoing is taken, a "woman of the town" was a witness before a property committee on the subject of investigation and she made some startling revelations.

This Mrs. Goodie, as she called herself, is not utterly depraved, notwithstanding her infamous life. She passed that New York was never so full of girls gone to the bad as now. That their ranks were constantly swelled with new recruits. Then she asked, "What can a poor girl expect for a day's work for twelve hours at wages of from $1 to $3 a week?" In the light of African slavery the hardships of the Southern negro were not so great as those of the poor girl in New York.

She must be neat in her person and neatly clothed to hold her miserable job. When she rises in the early morning, it is from a bed heavily taxed. She bathes her face in lukewarm water, and then she is taxed. The soap is heavily taxed, so are the towel, the comb, and the brush for hair and teeth. Every article of apparel from the crown of her head to the sole of her foot is heavily taxed. She sits at breakfast on a chair heavily taxed, and she eats heavily taxed food on a table also heavily taxed.

HIDDEN SENTIMENT IN NEW YORK

Woman's Idealism Awakened Dormant Feelings in Gotham—An Out-Door Christmas Tree United Rich and Poor—Revitalizing Racial Traditions.

By SONYA LEVIEN, People's Institute, New York.

(Exclusive Service the Study Press Bureau.)

How near sentiment stands to sociology was almost excitingly shown by New York's first live Christmas tree. One can give the sentiment a few words and the sociology in fewer.

"Why not have a Christmas tree for the lonely ones?" This sentimental thought of an ideal which was carried out by a handful of dreamers, by its message of music and light, awakened dormant feelings in thousands of even a moth-eaten sentimentality.

The plan to have a Christmas tree in a public park for the lonely, rich and poor, was originated by a woman. The idea was inspired by a tale of personal experience. In a moment of conversation she had with a young man about holidays and loneliness, he happened to tell her of his first Christmas in Germany. He was a student there recently arrived from America. The holiday season came around and German windows were decorated with Christmas trees radiating a spirit of self-centered happiness. The young man was very lonely and walked the streets. He was horribly homesick and worse still found himself plucked from the relative solitude of empty stomachs and hungry souls and of the two visitors he had for the night.

He related this incident to the woman to prove the argument that there comes a time in the lives of the hardest of men when they reckon with primal feelings and offer no apology for tears; and the way the New York people have taken the message of the public Christmas tree shows that the woman's contention was not without wisdom.

The young man heard this young man confessed that he had never seen a Christmas tree in a public place with music and light for the lonely ones of New York city. With this young man's philosophy, she voiced her thoughts to a friend, and the response was immediate. It was decided to have a tree in the heart of the city, and Maudie Square park, the way of thousands of workers and the outdoor home of the destitute, was chosen.

The plan was circulated among a few contributors poured in from rich and poor for the "lonely ones" Christmas tree, with earnest requests that the names of the donors should not be disclosed. The necessary funds were raised in forty-eight hours, but donations continued and the few who were in charge of arrangements found themselves embarrassed with the amount of funds; this, although the plan was strictly guarded against all publicity and in this the newspapers cooperated so that the tree would come unexpectedly, the mystery was to follow the reason.

An humbler tree, sixty-six feet in height, was brought from the Adirondacks, and the Edison company was asked to illuminate it with thousands of lights. The estimate was sent but with it came a representative and council submitted an alternative policy which gave the various divisions of the association freedom to negotiate with the insured persons or their representatives, the approved societies, and the government refused to consent to any such arrangement and proceeded to the formation of panels of medical practitioners willing to work under the act, and announced that in any area where there were not sufficient doctors to accept their terms, to make other provision for giving medical benefit to the insured persons.

In most of the large cities the government has found no difficulty in obtaining sufficient doctors to act, and in some districts all the doctors have accepted the terms. It is in the country districts, where the old-fashioned practitioner still has a complete monopoly of the practice, that the greatest difficulty will be found. Those who have accepted the government's terms have been asked to withdraw from the old association. In the first place, the majority of the doctors who are now on the ground that the fees are too low, and they are not sufficient to cover the cost of the service. The government is now relying, Mr. Lloyd George, the sponsor of the act, expresses confidence that there will be sufficient doctors but says if he does not he will establish a national medical service.

recreate in the New York schools, parks or theaters, they recreate in a casual or individual way. They are dealt with as individuals, not as social groups and New York is, speaking in aesthetic or recreational terms, scarcely a community but rather a mighty heap of disconnected units.

In past years some success has been had in the attempt to create community habits founded on patriotic holidays. This is well. It will be better when we invite our people to look out on the world as a whole rather than backward to colonial and constitutional history. But the old world peoples have given us festive days that are more than political in their meaning—that are racial, poetic in the long sense, Christmas is one of these days, as Halloween is another and Easter a third. There are no races, or native strains, who either do not have personal associations with these feast days, have at least analogous feast days that can be translated into them.

Back of the sentimental Christmas tree is moving this deeper social thought. When the American city, through an effort that must be continued, has rediscovered its community tradition, the community sentiment and fantasy, it will rediscover the word of the prophet, "There was never in all the world such a sowing of seed as has taken place in the American social soil. These community habits of gladness and friendliness, and these symbolic feast days of the community are the warm south wind which may bring the seed to life."

WOULD INCREASE MARRIAGES

Premiums Proposed to State Employees in France Who Have Several Children—Part of Wonderful Old Park Sold By Count de Franqueville.

Paris, Jan. 11.—Various suggestions for facilitating and increasing the number of marriages in France have been reported by the sub-committee on the subject of the French Republic, which was appointed to consider the depopulation of France.

In addition to several bills calling for greater surveillance of the state, the committee recommends the passage of a measure proposed by M. Loucheur, prefect of police, calling for the distribution of premiums to those state employees who have several children. The measure also stipulates that no increase of remuneration should be granted to such employees in the future without giving a special treatment to employees with large families.

Great perturbation was aroused in the breasts of lovers of Paris by the report that the Count de Franqueville, the French ambassador to London, had sold a portion of the Bois de Boulogne to the government. SERIOUS SPLIT OF DOCTORS

British Medical Association's Council Decides Not to Work With the Government Insurance Committee—Many Doctors Oppose This Action.

London, Jan. 11.—The decision of the council of the British Medical Association to work with the government insurance committee, because of the terms of compensation offered by the government, has caused a serious split in the profession.

After long negotiations and a plebiscite of the profession in which the majority of doctors voted decided against accepting the government's terms, the council has decided to work with the government insurance committee, because of the terms of compensation offered by the government, has caused a serious split in the profession.

There has been a tremendous slump in the value of real estate in London, Kensington, due largely to the noise of the traffic and the size of the houses erected there in the last century. Recently the government purchased six houses for the extension of the South Kensington Museum. The price paid was £20,000 to £30,000. Twenty years ago each of these houses was worth from £10,000 to £15,000. Five of the houses have been empty for half a century because of their size and the noise from two thoroughfares on either side.

Lord Kitchener is carrying out a grand plan of road construction in Egypt, which may make that country the most important of the world. The plan is to build a road from Alexandria to Cairo, and Kitchener is now studying a plan for covering Egypt with a complete series of main roads.

These will be undertaken by the government itself, while the auxiliary work will be done by the provincial councils. Apart from the military and automobile standpoint, such a plan of roads will be of immense commercial value, as it will open up districts now almost inaccessible, and will develop others that are at present dependent on the river or the railway for transport.

THE LITTLE GRAY SHOE. By Percy Brebner. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.25 net.

Given some unidentified region in the heart of the German or Austrian empire, a couple of beautiful women, some brave and reckless men, a mysterious monk, a remote castle well supplied with secret passages, and other paraphernalia, have long been favorites with fiction writers, and it seems as if almost anybody ought to be able to construct a readable novel. But it isn't everybody who can make the story so exceedingly readable as this Mr. Brebner, and the writers are few who are so successful in avoiding the stereotyped forms of expression and the old, familiar lines of adventure. There is plenty of life and vigor in this little story, and it is a very good thing that it is so well written.

Don Luis, president of a mythical South American republic, is a cool and conscientious ruler who perpetuates a personally conducted burglary to satisfy the greed of his people. Incidentally, his act ruins Temporal, the Englishman who runs the bank that is burglarized; though he should have had more sympathy for Temporal if he had used the word "burglar" in telling about his troubles. And if he had been so disinterestedly weak, he would have been a better ruler. His engagement to marry a beautiful French girl, an engagement which he has broken, makes it all the more impossible for him to fulfill, together with the clever villain, a plan which makes a lively story of intrigue, rivalry and romance which is easy to read.

WHEAT BILLS ARE CHECKED

Bears Make a Stand and Gain Some Ground During the Session.

Flaxseed Trading Is Very Dull—Dealers Watching Argentina.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 11.—The upward trend that the wheat markets of North America have shown for some days gave way today to a slight bearish reaction. The export situation for some time has been quite strong. Wheat that is on the Atlantic coast has been bought up quite rapidly, and home millers have been buying also, fearing that the large foreign sales might cause an actual shortage. The bullish feeling has been somewhat checked by the recent damage to crops by cold weather in California, for the destruction of a large quantity of wheat of any kind is bound to have some bullish influence over the wheat situation. But today there seemed to be a feeling that the bullish sentiment had gone too far, and there were declines all along the line in the principal North American wheat exchanges.

Duluth wheat, which closed yesterday at 85¢ bid, closed today at 84¢, showing a decline of 1¢. Duluth July closed at 84¢, there were declines likewise at Minneapolis, Chicago and Winnipeg.

Duluth cash wheat closed 3¢ under May. Duluth closed 1¢ under May. Liverpool wheat closed 1/4¢ higher. That market was buoyed by the strength of yesterday's American markets and by the firmness of Buenos Ayres and Canadian offers. The advance was checked, however, by the smaller inquiry for cargoes and parcels, predictions of larger Argentine exports next week and the expectation of liberal American shipments, as indicated by Bradstreet's.

Flax Market Dull. The Duluth flaxseed market sagged today on account of the absence of the usual demand. Offers were light, but the demand was still sufficient to keep prices steady. Buenos Ayres, February last, closed at 11.15¢, at 11.15¢. London (Cassia) January today closed unchanged at 15.50¢.

Cash Sales Saturday.

OVER 3,000 PERSONS ARE DRIVEN FROM HOMES BY FLOOD IN THE OHIO RIVER

Residents of Cincinnati, Covington, Newport and Dayton Affected.

Factories Flooded and Many Are Thrown Out of Work.

Hundreds of Square Miles in Bottom Lands Are Inundated.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 13.—It was estimated today that 3,000 persons had been driven from their homes in Cincinnati and the cities of Covington, Newport and Dayton, across the river in Kentucky. Many factories have been flooded and hundreds of persons thrown out of work.

The Ohio river continued to rise steadily, but more slowly today, the stage at 9 o'clock being 61.2 feet. The government forecasters predicted that the rise would continue today and tomorrow and that probably a maximum stage of 62 feet would be reached.

Dr. Otto P. Geyer, of the Cincinnati department of health, has ordered that all persons who have been in the city for the purpose of visiting the flood victims be vaccinated against typhoid fever. Mayor Hunt has issued a proclamation asking for funds to aid sufferers and will ask the council to approve a $200,000 special bond issue which is to be added to the fund.

Bottom Lands Flooded.
Cincinnati, Ind., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.) From statements made by members of the senate, the Murray bill, introduced last week, to establish a state public utilities commission, is likely to be adopted in its entirety unless a better measure is offered. Senator Wallace of Hennepin is expected to offer a second bill tomorrow.

The Murray bill places control of all public utilities absolutely in the hands of the utilities commission, irrespective of whether municipally owned or privately owned, in so far as questions of general policy are concerned. It gives the commission authority to fix rates to be charged by steam railroad, street railway, traction railway, electric railway, canal, express, subway, pipe line, gas, electric light, heat, power, water, oil, sewer, telephone, telegraph system, plant or equipment for public use. Utilities such as water works when municipally owned, even though a city is operating under a home-rule charter, are subject to supervision by the commission and the only appeals from its rulings are to the supreme court.

The Deadlock Over United States Senatorship Likely to Continue.

Boston, Jan. 13.—The United States senatorship still was the absorbing topic at the state house today, especially in the Republican side of the legislature, where the members met for a fourth attempt to select a candidate. Although more than forty votes in the majority on a joint ballot the Democrats decided to hold a caucus during the afternoon in the hope of naming a candidate that might be acceptable in case of a continued split in the Republican ranks.

The legislative supporters of Congressman Samuel W. McCall and John W. Weeks, who were practically tied in the twenty-two ballots taken last week, returned today after consulting with some of their constituents. Neither side showed any indication of yielding.

Beginning with a resume of the history of the drainage canal and pointing out that President Taft, when secretary of war, refused a similar application on the ground that the question should be submitted to congress, (Continued on page 11, first column.)

Hays, city marshal of Beecher, who had been on the lookout for suspicious characters and when he observed a man in a long overcoat and with a scar on his lip—a detail of the description of the escaped convict—followed him. The latter admitted that he was one of the men sought. He declined to give information regarding his two companions who are still at large.

DULUTH'S SIDE TO BE HEARD

Customs Change Not to Be Submitted Until Brief Is Filed.

Secretary Tells Congressman Miller Duluth Makes Good Showing.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, Jan. 13.—Representative Miller has lodged with the secretary of treasury a vigorous protest against the proposed abolition of the office of collector of customs at Duluth and the consolidation of the Duluth district, with the other portion of the state of Minnesota with headquarters in the enlarged district at St. Paul.

In his interviews with Secretary MacVeagh and the customs officials of the treasury department, the necessity for maintaining a separate customs district in the Duluth area for the convenience of the business men of the city and for the federal government was plainly shown.

As a result of representations made by the Duluth congressman the secretary will not submit the proposed change to the president until a brief has been filed in which the question is argued at length.

The secretary admitted that a good showing has been made for retaining Duluth as a separate custom district.

Said Mr. Miller today: "I hope to be able to convince him that it would be unwise from a business point of view to make the change he proposes, in a brief I will file in a few days."

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 13.—Declaring that he had been misunderstood in reports of a talk made to striking hotel employees of New York last Friday, Joseph J. "If you are compelled to go back under satisfactory conditions, go back with your mind made up that it is the unwise thing in the world for the capitalist to eat food prepared by members of your union."

Ettor says in his letter:

"I did not make the remarks alleged, nor do I believe the suggestion taken out of my talk is a policy that I advise you to follow, for I am satisfied that the course they institute and attribute to me would not bring success, but the opposite. Your cause is not to be won by any policy that endangers human life."

QUESTION OF PEACE SOON UP TO TURKS

Ottomans Are Expected to Make Decision After Receiving Note.

Ambassadors Arranging for Presentation of Document to Porte.

A Constantinople Dispatch Says Entire Cabinet Resigned.

London, Jan. 13.—The issue of peace or war will rest with Constantinople after the final drafting of the note to the Ottoman government, which will be settled at today's meeting of the ambassadors at the British foreign office. The ambassadors will today decide also the mode and time of presentation of the document to the Porte.

The Turkish newspaper Tasfir-i Efkâr says that the Ottoman cabinet has decided to resign, according to a dispatch today from Constantinople. This is believed to indicate the predominance of the influence of the war party.

In Favor of Peace.

The convention of the Turkish grand council is considered a sign in favor of peace. If Turkey were ready for war, the calling together of the council would be unnecessary. Like that of 1878 at the time of the Russo-Turkish war, the present grand council appears to be called together to yield the fortress of Adrianople.

Commission Fixes Price for Purchase of Telephone System.

London, Jan. 13.—The British government is to pay to the National Telephone company of the United Kingdom the sum of $62,576,320 for its property, according to a decision reached by the railway and canal commission sitting as a court of arbitration.

The whole of the telephone system in the British Isles passed into the hands of the state on Jan. 1, 1912. The National Telephone company originally asked $105,000,000 for its interest but during the 73-day trial just ended this claim was reduced by many millions.

It had been expected by stock exchange experts, however, that the company would receive from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000. The stock of the company immediately upon announcement of the award fell from 141 to 109.

The arbitration has been one of the most important in the history of the country.

At the trial the parties came to an agreement as to the cost of the plant, the sum being $51,565,625. The court then had to determine the percentages which should properly be added to that sum and also the depreciation.

The secretary finds that the increased provision would injure navigation, that there is no necessity therefore that the application should not be allowed without congressional authorization and that the question should be submitted to congress, (Continued on page 11, first column.)

FIRST CHARGE SUSTAINED BY

This Alone Sufficient to Remove Defendant From Bench.

Specifies He Had Wrongly Influenced Erie Railroad Officials.

Not Guilty Is Verdict of Senate on Several Charges.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Judge Robert W. Archibald of the commerce court was found guilty today by the senate sitting as a court of impeachment of having misused his office of power as a judge for his personal gain. The senate is removal from his high office.

Archibald was convicted on the first count of thirteen which the house of representatives brought against him. It charged that he had used his position as a judge to persuade the Erie Railroad company to give to him and E. J. Williams of Scranton, an option on a coal dump at a price probably $30,000 less than its real value.

On this, the first charge, the senate voted 68 to 5 for his conviction of "high crimes and misdemeanors." Although the verdict insured Judge Archibald's removal from the bench and the service of the United States, the senate then proceeded to vote on the other impeachment which charged various other acts where Archibald had improperly used his office as a judge.

Mrs. Archibald, who has been at her husband's trial every day and who testified in his behalf, heard the senate's decision from a seat in the gallery.

Majority Unexpected.

The action upon the first count came with an unexpected majority against Judge Archibald, but twenty-three being the vote required for conviction. As the roll call proceeded, conviction, eight senators rose slowly in their places and pronounced the word "guilty" in low tones. As the vote on the first count was announced, the senate then proceeded to vote on the other impeachment which charged various other acts where Archibald had improperly used his office as a judge.

P. E. DOWLING IS ASKED TO SUBSTANTIATE HIS GENERAL CHARGES WITH SOME FACTS

Julius H. Barnes Speaks Plainly on "Irresponsible Criticism."

Suggests Co-operation and Work in Place of Mere Criticism.

Replying to P. E. Dowling's broad attack on the Commercial club, Julius H. Barnes, the vice chairman of the Public Affairs committee, this morning issued a statement asking Mr. Dowling to carry out his promise to "call a spade a spade," specifying some examples of business "throttling."

Mr. Barnes' statement follows: The statement by Mr. Barnes follows: "In the morning paper Jan. 12, P. E. Dowling has a communication apparently partly directed to me. I doubt very much if the Greater Duluth club, of which Mr. Dowling is president, embodies his sentiments or expression, but the fact that he is president of an organized Greater Duluth club may give his utterances some weight with those among us who should know the truth.

"Now, let us get the facts clear. Mr. Dowling has publicly brought an indictment against the Commercial club of Duluth.

"This triple alliance, the conservation of special interests, this centralization of power, so as to be in the hands of a very few, is the one influence in Duluth which is the most powerful in the city's growth and expansion.

"The great majority of Commercial club members are ardently working for Duluth's success but by cunning and design their efforts are almost completely frustrated through a leadership who, by virtue of his position, has larger interests than Duluth's success, they must be exposed and retired.

"It is an irresponsible statement to lightly make attacking the actions and motives of public spirited men, then every fair minded citizen should visit irresponsibility with their condemnation.

Naming Spades. "For two weeks Mr. Dowling has publicly announced he was going to call a spade a spade. Now let's do so. He should do these things: First, name the man who by cunning and design would be hurt by Duluth's growth and expansion, which they are now preventing; third, give the instances in which the throttling has been done, the date of the demise and the name of the offender.

"Itemize the indictment. Do not spare any one's official acts. Turn the light of keen unswerving analysis of motives on public acts which we have heretofore commended and show how different the motives that prompt them, really are.

Some Cold Counseling. "For instance, let us remember the Sunday morning three years ago when the northern part of our state was swept with fire, lives were lost and towns and settlements and homesteads leveled, when in a day hundreds and thousands of survivors knew not where to lay their heads nor where to find the food to sustain life in a desolate wilderness. Let's remember the man whose administrative ability equipped on a Sunday holiday a train with food, coal and fuel and took it there himself, the first relief to reach them and made Duluth to stand today in that country the ideal for quick and generous response. Let's tear the mask from this genius for organization and let's show the ideal for quick and generous response. Let's tear the mask from this genius for organization and let's show the ideal for quick and generous response.

"Let's show again why the men who, in their own business, do things in a businesslike way, accomplish nothing when the same care and study, experience and energy are directed to community efforts. Is it because the support of a thoroughly organized business organization brings earlier results? Is it because in their own business they also exercise the same intelligent planning and striving for success which we again mistake and are not results being steadily attained?

Jealous and Hyde. "Let them speak for themselves, men who, as Dowling says of one, As a public spirited man, place a value on a private interest or business of any kind. Mr. Dowling has no authority for his statement that 'no man can serve two masters.' Let's show that he is unable for a man to have any other master than the business from which he draws his income.

"Or is it possible to have high public ideals of community service? To place in the service of his city what of ability and experience he may possess, recognizing the obligation every successful man should owe to the community in which he prospers. Or is it possible for such men to serve a master above their selfish business, to hold civic ideals of industry, of good faith, of sincerity of purpose and fair play, and the common good?"

"Is it possible for men with the ob-

IN PROBATE COURT

The will of the late Julius D. Howard, who died in New York City on Dec. 5 last, was admitted to probate by Judge Gilpin this morning. All of the estate is willed to the widow, Edna Blanche Howard.

The late Mr. Howard was engaged in the real estate business in this city. His real estate holdings are estimated at $40,000 on which there is about $25,000 encumbrance. The property is divided between St. Louis and Lake counties. The personal property left is valued at $3,500. Mr. Howard died, aged 53.

Judge Gilpin appointed S. M. Harrison, administrator of the estate of his late wife, Ellen Harrison, who died aged 23 on Aug. 19 last. She leaves an interest in the estate of a relative.

Ethel M. Gately, widow, Eveleth, was appointed administratrix of the estate of her husband, Michael J. Gately, who died, aged 25, July 18 last. The estate is a small one.

A claim for wrongful death against the Great Northern railroad is the principal asset of the estate of Frank Czapsenski, whose death occurred on Oct. 23 last. He was 59 years old, and left a widow, four sons and one daughter. Mr. Czapsenski was appointed administrator this morning.

Henry O. Gronlund, aged 35, who died Dec. 5 last, left a $200 estate, according to the petition for administration which was heard by Judge Gilpin this morning. The court appointed his widow, Bertha, as administratrix.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—A robber in evening clothes this morning leisurely forced the door of a smart apartment in one of the most fashionable residence districts on the north side and entered the apartment of Frederick L. Reynolds, president of an advertising company, took away with him diamonds and jewelry valued at $1,000.

City Exposition.

Delegates from all the organizations and manufacturers of the city will meet at the Commercial club tomorrow afternoon to decide on the proposed city exposition. Several addresses are to be made by prominent business men.

LEVY $100 FINE AGAINST STEAMER.

Steamboat Inspectors Monahan and Chaik today levied a fine of $100 against the steamer Crescent, belonging to W. T. Johns of Buffalo, N. Y., having found the captain guilty of allowing passengers. This is expressly forbidden in a freight steamer by the department of commerce unless the passengers are connected with the company owning the steamer. The charge was made by John M. Morrison, who was engineer of the vessel at the time, but who a few days afterwards quit in a huff. He sought to get even in this way. He charged that the steamer carried a number of fishermen from Clark's bay to Two Harbors on Dec. 22 and 24. It was admitted that the men were carried, but it was claimed that they were not charged fare, the only charge being made, it is claimed, was for their dinner.

HAVE DECIDED VIEWS ON WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Many Bills Now Pending, Indorsed By the Executive Council.

W. B. McEwen, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, will leave tonight for St. Paul. Tomorrow he will appear before the senate committee on workmen's compensation to present the views of the executive council of the federation on proposed workmen's compensation legislation.

Mr. McEwen returned this morning from Minneapolis, where he attended a meeting of the executive council of the federation. The subject of workmen's compensation legislation was discussed at length. Two bills were considered, one a measure proposed by the Minnesota State Bar association and the other proposed by the Minnesota Employers' association.

"We believe first in state insurance, and believe only through such a system will the full measure of compensation be given," said Mr. McEwen today. "There are constitutional restrictions against the passage of such an insurance bill at this session, and we will submit it to the voters at the next election to amend the constitution to permit the state to adopt such a plan as Washington now has, and which seems to be giving the greatest satisfaction."

For immediate relief we ask that a compulsory workmen's compensation law be passed such as has been proposed by the Minnesota State Bar association. However, if there is a reasonable doubt of the constitutionality of a compulsory act, we are willing to accept an elective act such as is now being considered by the committee of the state senate.

Changes Wanted. "But we insist on behalf of the workmen of Minnesota upon some very material changes in the present bill. These changes are:

"That the provision requiring employers to pay for the cost of insurance under the bill be stricken out, and that the full burden of the cost be placed upon the industry."

"That no discrimination be made against alien dependents."

"That the word 'negligence' wherever mentioned in the bill be stricken out, and that no reference be made thereto, as it opens the way to litigation."

"That no lump sum payment in settlement of a claim in excess of $20 be made, unless the claimant is an alien."

"That in section 1, paragraph 3, of the bill the words 'by accident be stricken out, as barring the claimant from some of the act."

"That the maximum compensation be extended from 300 weeks to 333 weeks and that the maximum payment for death and disability be raised from $5,000 to $5,500."

The proposed changes submitted by Mr. McEwen were discussed upon by the executive council in session at Minneapolis yesterday morning. The committee held an all-day session, most of the day being given to the discussion of the bill.

St. Cloud Chosen. The council chose St. Cloud as the next place of meeting, being unable to obtain the desired location at Duluth. Henry Maybury of St. Cloud was elected secretary of the next session, and the council chose St. Cloud as the next place of meeting.

COLD WAVE IS PASSING

Weather Man Promises Moderation Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Sunday Coldest Day of Winter With 28 Deg. Below Zero.

"Tomorrow," says the weather man, when asked when the severe cold weather may be expected to end.

By that he does not mean that any sultry breeze is likely to be blowing tomorrow night, but the below zero temperatures are likely to end tomorrow afternoon until a new cold wave comes.

Yesterday morning the mercury touched the lowest point of the winter to date, registering 23 degrees below zero at the government weather bureau. This was at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and it did not get above 9 below zero all day, this mark being reached about 2 o'clock. Last night it got down to 12 below again, and at 7 a. m. was up to 6 below. It turned slightly colder again during the morning and at 10:30 o'clock was 8 below.

The weather man expects temperatures of from 10 below to 20 below tonight, and not before tomorrow afternoon is the mercury likely to go above zero.

Because of the inability of low-lying lands to get their livestock out in time, the loss of property is estimated at $500,000.

No loss of life has been reported. Sunday cold accentuated the suffering among the marooned people but a rise in temperature brought relief.

Disappointment after predictions that the mercury would fall to zero last night.

The local weather bureau today declared that the cold wave of 46 feet would reach here Wednesday morning. This stage is the record since the memorable flood years of 1883 and 1884, when the river exceeded 48 feet.

Rise Less Rapid. Louisville, Ky., Jan. 13.—Police and fire departments today reported that the rise in the Ohio river was less rapid than registered last night.

At Cincinnati Monday morning the stage was 61 feet, 11 feet above flood stage. Flood stage will be reached at Cairo about Wednesday.

The weather will be generally fair tonight and Tuesday. The Ohio river, except along the South Atlantic coast where rain is probable, North and West, will be unsettled with local snows or rain on Tuesday. Temperatures will rise somewhat.

STEAMSHIP STILL FAST ON ROCKS

Tugs Will Try to Pull Uranium From Reef Near Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 13.—The steamer Uranium, which terminated her voyage from Rotterdam by piling upon a rocky reef ten miles below Halifax in a fog yesterday, remained fast today with Capt. Eustace and crew aboard, but with all the 800 passengers safe ashore at the immigration station here.

Whether the vessel could be saved was problematical. Wrecking steamers planned to pull on her at high tide.

The steamer is stuck bow on, with seventeen fathoms of water under her stern. The bowplates were ripped open and No. 1 hold is water-filled.

The vessel's position is only a few hundred yards from the lighthouse at the buoy head, where the keeper declares he was blowing his fog horn when the vessel struck. It was on the same ledge and not far from this spot that the steamer Atlantic of the White Star line was lost in April, 1873, at the sacrifice of 600 lives.

The rescue of the Uranium's passengers was accomplished by lifeboats from Chibucto Head and by transfer to the government steamer Lady Laurier, which was prompt to reply to wireless signals. There was no panic notwithstanding that among the passengers were many women and children. There were many thrills, but no serious accidents, and all of the passengers were landed here during the night. Six hundred of them, bound for New York, will probably leave today by special train.

The Uranium is a 25-year-old boat, which has sailed about all the great seas under four different owners and under many different names. She was christened the Avoca, later named the San Fernando and then the Atlanta. The Uranium Steamship company's present owner, gave her the company's name. Her only serious accident of record is a collision with the steamship Nordenfled, off Rotterdam four years ago when she was badly killed.

The Minneapolis Journal

"The Northwest's Greatest Newspaper."

The year that has just closed has been one of great growth and development for the Minneapolis Journal. It has seen a steady increase in the great family of Journal readers; it has seen a substantial addition to the patronage of advertisers who appeal to those readers for trade; it has been the greatest year in The Minneapolis Journal's history.

A Record for Advertising

In 1912 The Minneapolis Journal, Evening and Sunday, carried a grand total of 32,891 22-inch columns of advertising—10,130,428 agate lines. The Minneapolis Journal led its nearest competitor in the Twin Cities by 1,370 columns—421,960 agate lines.

The Minneapolis Journal carried

*MORE LOCAL DISPLAY MORE FOREIGN DISPLAY
MORE REAL ESTATE
MORE LAND
MORE AUTOMOBILE
MORE SCHOOL AND COLLEGE MORE RESORT ADVERTISING*

than any other newspaper in Minneapolis or St. Paul.

Another significant comparison is the number of pages used to carry advertising and reading matter in 1912:

The Minneapolis Journal (Evening and Sunday) 11,456 Pages
The Journal's Nearest Competitor 10,604 Pages

Figure it out for yourself! In spite of the tremendous amount of advertising carried by The Journal, the news columns have been provided for more liberally than by any other newspaper in the Northwest.

A Record for Cleanliness

Few newspapers in America---certainly none in the Twin Cities---regard the character of their advertising columns so jealously as The Minneapolis Journal. The reason for this is that The Minneapolis Journal feels a certain moral responsibility to its advertisers, no less than to its readers. It feels that, while obviously it cannot undertake to guarantee absolutely all the advertisements that appear in its columns, it can and must undertake to shut out all advertising that, on its face, seeks to defraud, to mislead, to debase, to injure or to corrupt in any way—in other words to make it the clean, wholesome, home newspaper.

Objectionable classes of advertising have been rigorously weeded out until now the list of rejected business includes the following classifications:

|---|-------------------------------------|
| 1. Beer and Whiskey | 8. Objectionable Medical |
| 2. Guaranteed Cures | 9. Attacks of a Personal Character |
| 3. Fraudulent or Doubtful Financial Offerings | 10. Bucket Shops |
| 4. Large Guaranteed Dividends | 11. Fortune Tellers, Palmists, etc. |
| 5. Transient Fire and Bankrupt Sales | 12. Fake Piano Sales |
| 6. Massage | 13. Sales by Itinerant Merchants |
| 7. Matrimonial Offers | 14. Suggestive Books |
| 15. Want Ads Requesting Money for Samples | |

The Minneapolis Journal intends to increase further its standard in this regard.
There will be further elimination in 1913.

The Minneapolis Journal goes to the homes of Minneapolis people every week-day evening and on Sunday morning when the family is in a receptive mood for clean, square advertising. The Minneapolis Journal goes to the people of this rich section of the country who have purchasing power, and this is one of the reasons why Minneapolis merchants use its advertising columns most and pay more per agate line than to any other Minneapolis newspaper.

KEEP AFTER IT.

There must be no letup in the fight to keep the customs collector's office in Duluth. Civic organizations have jumped splendidly into the field and have taken up the cudgels in behalf of good service for grain men and vessel men. But word from Washington is to the effect that pressure will have to be brought to bear on the treasury department and on the president to emphasize the difficulties and complications that would arise from the change proposed in the service, and this pressure should be exerted in every way possible.

It is beyond all reason that for a saving of $2,000 a year the Federal government should seriously hamper a service so intimately related to the great shipping and carrying interests of the Great Lakes. This point should be emphasized, and no means of impressing it on the administration at Washington should be overlooked. Delegates to the Lake Carriers' association meeting are preparing to urge action by that body. They should be backed by every commercial and civic organization at the head of the Lakes, and by the senators and representatives of all the Lake states.

Probably it is just one of the weaknesses of human nature, but it would be interesting to follow further details as to why a crowd always enjoys seeing an automobile stalled in the snow.

A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Senator Moorman has introduced the expected proposal in the legislature for the calling of a constitutional convention. There ought to be no trouble about getting favorable action on it. Minnesota's Constitution has been found lacking in many respects. At every state election in recent years there have been some amendments to the Constitution to be passed upon by the voters. Undoubtedly there will be others at the next election. In fact, the state's organic law is being subjected to so many changes in these days of improved methods of conducting the state's affairs that soon it will consist more of patches than of an original document.

The task of framing a new Constitution is a long one. It requires first, action by the legislature; then action by the people; then the election of a convention and the work of that convention in drafting a new Constitution, and then action by the people again before the new form can be put into operation. And if there should be some objection to it so that it failed to get the necessary favorable vote, the matter would be put over for another long term. Minnesota needs a new Constitution, and even if work to that end is begun now, it will be several years before it can be completed. The legislature should do all in its power to bring the matter to a conclusion.

There wouldn't be so much objection to the temperature's dropping if it would only pull prices along with it. But it never does that, even the price of ice.

SULZER'S ADVISERS.

Governor Sulzer of New York threw a bombshell into the camp of the state politicians the other day when he excused himself from a conference with them on the plea that he must go and consult with "my friends, the newspaper correspondents." The politicians were staggered. Here was something they could not understand. But the governor went, and it is safe to believe that he was not disappointed in his friends.

No body of men in any capital in the nation is better informed on the trend of affairs than the correspondents. No body of men is in closer touch with the people of the state or nation. And it follows naturally that no better set of advisers for a public official could be found than these same correspondents.

The Augusta, Ga. Chronicle, commenting on the action of Governor Sulzer, says:

"The man who trusts newspaper men seldom makes mistakes. It will be found that the correspondents, whatever their political leanings, will give the Sulzer administration support and good cheer that has not been accorded a New York governor in years."

This is sound doctrine, and the governor evidently realizes it. That the politicians are puzzled by such a course is easy to understand. Their methods, both of thought and action, are of the underground sort. They care not so much what the people think, as what they can make the people do. The newspaper men, on the other hand, know both what the people think and what they are likely to do about it. Their sources of information are legion, and their work has trained them to associate events and incidents of apparently little connection, but which bear a close relation to public affairs.

Governor Sulzer is wise in his day and generation. He has begun well, and that is a great big step toward success in office.

Soon the country is to have a new kind of nickel. Here's hoping the supply will be large enough to go around.

THE SCHOOL BONDS.

Nobody should stay at home on Saturday, Feb. 1, the day set for voting on the proposal to issue $200,000 bonds for the erection of school buildings. One of the principal duties of the city is to furnish the rising generation with proper educational facilities, and the need of school buildings at West Duluth has been recognized for many months.

Duluth has come to realize, as have other cities, that in this matter of school buildings it is not enough to build for the present; that the school population is constantly growing, and failure to provide for the increase is but a wasting of public funds, as the work must then be undone and duplicated at added expense.

No question is more important than this one of education, and nobody qualified to vote on the question should allow himself to sink into apathy where it is concerned. Cast a full vote on the bond issue.

The United States geological survey says the coal production in this country beat all records, aggregating 550,000,000 tons. The price also did some record-breaking. Thus do bare facts and bare statements come into conflict. And the consumer is the goat.

ETTOR AGAIN.

What manner of man is this Joseph J. Ettor, leader of the Industrial Workers of the World?

Not long ago Ettor and two companions were on trial for their lives as the result of the death of a woman in a strike riot at Lawrence, Mass. The evidence against them was circumstantial, at the best, and their acquittal was generally approved throughout the country.

Now Ettor, apparently drunk with the public sympathy he received at that trial, is in New York, leading the hotel workers in their effort to get higher wages and better conditions of service. Of the merits of the controversy between the hotel workers and their employers it is difficult to judge at this distance. But on the manner in which the leaders of that fight are conducting themselves it is only fair to pass judgment, and the case of Ettor seems to call for sharp criticism.

Addressing a meeting of hotel workers, Ettor is reported to have said:

"If you are compelled to go back to work under unsatisfactory conditions, . . . go back with your minds made up that it is the unearliest thing in the world for the capitalist to eat food prepared by members of your union."

Such language as this admits of but one interpretation—poison, in doses that might cause death or that would at least cause sickness. Mr. Ettor needs to be taught that such methods do not go in this country. It is inconceivable that American men and women would adopt such a diabolical practice as this. But in every trade, in every branch of employment, there are men and women who are not Americans in spirit, training or thought; who have been brought up under un-American conditions and in un-American surroundings, and who might easily be influenced to do just what this man has suggested.

If any cases of poisoning do occur in the places where these men and women are employed, Ettor should be arrested and tried as an accessory to the crime, and it is safe to say that he will find none of that public sympathy that supported him in his trial on the charge growing out of the Lawrence affair.

Now it is suggested that the vice president be made a member of the cabinet. If Tom Marshall doesn't look out he'll be finding himself in the position of a man with a real job.

THE CLERKS' CHANCE.

Every salesman and saleswoman in Duluth ought to take advantage of the course soon to be opened under the direction of the Duluth Retail Merchants' association. The first meeting in connection with the work will be held at the Commercial club rooms tomorrow night, and will be only preliminary. But it will give the sales people an opportunity to get a definite conception of the plan of the work, as well as affording them a pleasant evening as guests of the Commercial club.

Improvement of salesmanship is not merely a proposal for the benefit of the employers. It is for the good of the clerks as well, for it means efficiency, and the time has come in this country when efficiency is what counts when the pay envelopes are prepared. If a clerk is not now on a commission basis, that is no sign he may not some day be on such a basis, and then all the ability he can call to his aid will count for his own benefit. In the meantime, there is the simple honesty of giving your employer the best service you can, and that alone demands good salesmanship.

This is a golden opportunity for the sales people of the Duluth stores. They ought to appreciate the fact, and take advantage of the chance to get new ideas about their work and its possibilities.

Four Denver Sunday school girls say they formed a robber band. Sometimes it seems as if the idea of practical education is being carried a good ways.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the issues of general interest. Letters must be signed and the writer's address given. Letters will be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by a return address. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

"WHAT—HOW'S THAT."

To the Editor of The Herald: "What—how's that?" I wonder if many people have realized how often this is needlessly said in the home, in the office, in the street, in the public places. It is only a habit, to be sure, but with a little care it can be done away with. We will apparently be listening to what one is saying, and then parrotlike will reply, "How's that?" thoughtlessly, of course, and although it has come to us immediately afterward, what was really said, we then have to wait while the same thing is sometimes impatiently repeated. If it happens that all is not understood at once, think it over a second or two before replying if you have time, and it will nearly always save a provoking "what?"

When one is in a hurry or feeling out of sorts, it doesn't improve matters to be answered with a careless "how's that?" and a sharp repetition is not pleasant, when a little attention on the listener's part would have avoided it. Have you ever noticed that before? Little things like these, small as they are, often sow seeds of discord in the family, and in the case of teachers, should be kept out. On the other hand, speak plainly yourself when you have anything to say, and it might save the same thing being asked of you. Just make it one of your New Year's resolutions never to say "what?" unless it is really necessary.

Try it awhile anyway, it won't cost anything.

"OLD TIMER."

Duluth, Jan. 12.

Morris Hillquit in the Metropolitan.

In the spring of 1910 the Socialist party gained its first notable political victory in the United States by carrying the city of Milwaukee, the twelfth largest city in the country. In the following general congressional elections which took place in November, the Socialist party increased its vote by about 40 per cent, passing the 600,000 mark. In these elections also the party for the first time in the history of the United States captured a seat in the house of representatives. Victor L. Berger was elected to congress from the Fifth district of Wisconsin.

At the political tide of Socialism abate in the local elections of 1911. In that year the Socialists carried eighteen cities and towns, among them the large industrial city of Schenectady in the state of New York; New Castle in Pennsylvania; eight towns in Ohio; five in Utah, and one in Minnesota. Berkeley, Cal.; Butte, Mont.; Flint, Mich., and several other towns had been carried for Socialism in the spring of the same year.

At the beginning of the present year the Socialists controlled the administrations of twenty-five cities and towns, and had elected more than one thousand representatives to various public offices, including seven state legislatures.

But the progress of the Socialist movement in the United States is not to be judged by its political strength and achievements alone. The Socialist party was organized with a membership of less than 10,000. Toward the end of 1904 the party consisted of about 1,500 local subdivisions, with a total of about 25,000 members. Within the period of the following eight years the number of local organizations has risen to about 5,000, with a combined membership of approximately 120,000.

Another indication of the increasing strength of the movement is the growth of the Socialist press. In 1904 the Socialist party was supported by about forty publications in different languages. Since then the number of strictly Socialist publications has increased to more than three hundred. The first important English daily newspaper of the Socialist party was launched in Chicago in the fall of 1906, under the name of the Chicago Daily Socialist (it has since changed its name to Chicago World), and it was followed by the establishment of the New York Daily Call in New York, in May, 1908. The Appeal to Reason, a weekly paper, has a circulation of about half a million copies, while the Chicago World and the Jewish Daily Forward are said to sell more than 100,000 copies each per day. Among the monthly Socialist magazines, one, The Progressive Woman, is devoted primarily to the task of carrying the Socialist message to women. The Young Socialist aims at educating the youth in the philosophy of Socialism.

He Meant a Wee Nap, Not a Wee Nap. Kansas City Star: After Charles Myers, a Macon, Ga. barber, had shaved up the stranger he raised the chair, and his customer's head fell over to one side. The barber straightened him up and shook him a little. "So I was—so I was," agreed the gentleman in the chair. "Well, you'll have to come back to my place of business and take one on me." "I don't drink," returned Charles. "Neither do I," said the barber.

"You were asleep," said Charles. "I was—so I was," agreed the gentleman in the chair. "Well, you'll have to come back to my place of business and take one on me." "I don't drink," returned Charles. "Neither do I," said the barber.

What Is "Fit to Print"?

Editorial from the Omaha World-Herald.

"All of the news that's fit to print" is the standing motto of the New York Times, and the rule, as the Times interprets it, is that the news must be true, and that it must be of such a nature as to be of interest to the public. Every newspaper, it may be said, is governed by such a rule, and though it is only implied and not stated, the question is, what news is "fit to print" and what news is not? There are at many answers to that question as there are newspapers—as many, doubtless, as there are newspaper readers.

Down in Kansas, where so many novelties flourish and reforms arise, a novel answer has been given to the problem. The editor of the Hutchinson Gazette turned that paper over, for a day, to the suffragists of the county. The result was that the paper proceeded to show him, and the world, how a newspaper ought to be run. When the newspaper appeared the next day, it was a black column on its first page and the following explanation:

"We believe, the sentiment of the women of this county, the women of the great state of Kansas and the women of the United States, is that the news that is fit to print is the news that is of interest to the public. We believe that this news is undesirable to be taken away from the women of this county, and we have therefore decided to publish only news of interest to the women of this county."

Under the same gentle ruling, universally applied, Waterloo and Gettysburg would be blue penciled. The news of the sinking of the Titanic, while many newspapers would have failed to print the results of the last general election. Weather reports, and although it has come to us immediately afterward, what was really said, we then have to wait while the same thing is sometimes impatiently repeated.

"Surely," remarks the Chicago Record-Herald, "it is curious how the idea persists that what one doesn't know need not trouble one, and that the nearest way to wisdom is to keep one's eyes and ears to all that is evil in it. The ostrich with its head in the sand is the most common illustration of this. It is curious how the idea persists that what one doesn't know need not trouble one, and that the nearest way to wisdom is to keep one's eyes and ears to all that is evil in it. Truth to tell, there is very little of the news not fit to print. The Bible, with its lessons of peace and love, and its teachings of justice and equity, is still crammed from cover to cover with news that we deplore—news of murders and robberies, of wars and revolutions, of crimes and vices. Not even that most delightful event in human annals, the story of the crucifixion, is exempt from this. The sample the Bible sets is a good enough example for newspapers to follow. In the main, the news that is fit to print is the news that is of interest to the public.

Statemen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Just offhand, you wouldn't see any reason at all why a man hunting counterfeiters should find himself switched off on a trail leading merely to a man with asthma. Now, WOULD you?

Yet William Flynn, the new United States secret service chief, says it happens every little while. He himself, a dozen times or more, has worked for days and days on a counterfeiting case, getting all ready to swoop down on his quarry, and then when he finally did his swooping, what do you suppose he found? Why, an entirely innocent citizen with asthma.

However, regardless of hitting false trails leading to asthmatic folk, Flynn has caught a great many of our best counterfeiters. And usually he has done it without the use of spectacular or story book detective methods. Flynn's system is to keep eternally digging away. Once he gets on a man's trail he keeps at it until he has the man's complete life insurance policy.

Oh, yes, that about the asthma business. Well, just as you are a little while, a few years ago, Flynn heard that a bunch of counterfeiters were working in an upper floor of a New York tenement. He went there, and he found a service department to the mysterious noises they heard at night. Flynn went to the floor below the one where the counterfeiters were working, and he listened, and sure enough his trained ear could distinguish the measured thump, pause, thump, pause, "no other thump, of a small press of some kind, just as the neighbors had said. Continuing the investigation he found—also, just as the neighbors had said—him—that various bottles were being taken to the upstairs flat, a few at a time—probably acids, inks and such. When the time was ripe, Flynn went to the counterfeiters' flat, disguised as a plumbing inspector or something like that. He found a small press of some kind, and an inoffensive little man with a bad case of asthma.

Oh, such impatience. Well, if you must know, the man couldn't sleep at night on account of his asthma, and he was always worse at night, and he had a habit of sitting in a rocking chair all day long. Every time he got up he found a flat place in the floor. It sounded exactly like the thump of a small hand press, such as counterfeiters use. He had a bad case of asthma, and he was always worse at night, and he had a habit of sitting in a rocking chair all day long. Every time he got up he found a flat place in the floor. It sounded exactly like the thump of a small hand press, such as counterfeiters use. He had a bad case of asthma, and he was always worse at night, and he had a habit of sitting in a rocking chair all day long. Every time he got up he found a flat place in the floor. It sounded exactly like the thump of a small hand press, such as counterfeiters use.

Occasionally Flynn has run into a tenement dweller who chops kindling wood at night, and once he investigated the home of a man who ran a lathe at night turning out bowling balls. But the most common mistake, not only for him but for all secret service men, has been to catch asthma patients in rocking chairs when what they really wanted was counterfeiters.

Flynn combines with detective abilities a powerful physique that any successful piano mover might envy. He is six feet and two or three inches high and weighs nearly 300 pounds. Yet he is light on his feet, walks with an easy swing, and isn't fat. He is like the modern conception of a detective. Former Chief Wilkie, who has been promoted to the head of the secret service division of the custom service, looks more like a banker than a detective chief and has roll-top desk manners, which is proper, for Flynn is the type of ponderous, easy-going prosperous-looking man that one often sees sitting around cigar stores and hotel lobbies looking wise and taking everything in. He simply sizes up to the part of an all-around mixer, only he comes in with a little less than standard. He has a big, wholesome face, the same width across the jaw as at the temple, little brown eyes, a thin mustache, and a sharp, alert, but kindly, big brown eye.

From the time that he was a young man, working at various trades, Flynn was ambitious to be a secret service operative, and a detective. He was born in a poor family in the New York county jail, where he made it a point to get acquainted with all the counterfeiters. For the next four years he all he could of their ways. After three years of that he got into the secret service. He was a private, and he was not forty-five.

Just for a sample of the way he sticks at a thing, several years ago Flynn saw a photograph of a man named Lieberman, thought to have been a big name in the counterfeit business, convicted in New York. Flynn looked at the photograph, for some time and filed it away. He was then in his second year in the secret service, and he was a detective. He was then in his second year in the secret service, and he was a detective. He was then in his second year in the secret service, and he was a detective.

BISHOP HAS A BUSY DAY

Delivers Four Talks at Head of the Lakes Sunday.

Talks to Men at Y. M. C. A. and Dedicates Deaconess Home.

Bishop W. A. Quayle of St. Paul addressed two large audiences in Duluth yesterday afternoon, in addition to preaching at the First M. E. church in the morning and in Superior in the evening. He was the principal speaker at the dedication exercises of the new Deaconess home, 405 East Third street, and at the regular Sunday afternoon men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

The dedication exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. William F. Hoyt. Two sacred songs were rendered by the Methodist male quartet, consisting of Dr. J. G. Annand, Rev. C. R. O'Brien, W. H. Farrell and C. W. Emery. Bishop Quayle paid an enthusiastic tribute to the work of the deaconesses, calling attention to the fact that they were about the city ministering to the needs of all, regardless of denomination. He said the deaconesses were worthy of the best support that other women could give them. He said one of the most worthy fields of their activities was in obtaining employment for young women, and he said girls should not turn down domestic employment, as that was as honorable, if not more so, than work in a store or factory. The exercises were closed with prayer by Rev. M. S. Rice of the First Methodist church.

The new home was recently purchased and has been renovated and furnished with the assistance of the Ladies Aid Society of the First Methodist church of Duluth and the Women's Home Missionary societies of the Western and Hennepin Avenue churches of Minneapolis.

The present officers of the home are: Dr. J. G. Annand, president; Rev. C. R. O'Brien, vice president; Mrs. L. A. Larson, secretary; and Mrs. C. A. Congdon, treasurer. A meeting of the board will be held on Jan. 20 to elect officers for the coming year.

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting Bishop Quayle spoke of the religious work of young men and the principles by which it should be guided. Several appropriate selections were rendered by the Y. M. C. A. quartet.

CANNOT TAKE MORE WATER

Secretary Stimson points out that, as a matter of fact, the sanitary canal never has received congressional sanction. He dissembles as to the importance of the act providing for a canal between Lake Michigan and the Gulf of Mexico, and because they deal entirely with questions of navigation and declares that when they were enacted nine years ago, the purpose to sanitize the city of Chicago by means of a canal could not have been dreamed of. He sums up the formidable opposition to the application of the question of the right of diversion at Chicago appears to have been carefully excluded. The argument that the provision of the treaty giving a preference to the use of the water of the lakes for domestic and sanitary purposes over those of navigation, in the secretary's opinion, applies only to the ordinary uses of such water, and not to such an extraordinary sanitary project.

And while speaking of the treaty, the secretary declares that the Canadian view that the application would affect the material interests of their country, is quite sufficient to prevent the introduction of the international joint commission, rather than under that of an administrative officer. For all of these reasons the application is denied.

To Go to Congress.
Chicago, Jan. 12.—Members of the Chicago sanitary district and local business men's organizations today planned to carry before congress their request for a flow of 10,000 cubic feet a second from Lake Michigan into the drainage canal.

Secretary of War Stimson has decided against the appeal made by Chicagoans on the ground that it would interfere with navigation on the Great Lakes. At present the flow of water from the lakes into the canal is 1,500 cubic feet a second. Congress man M. R. Madden of Illinois is expected to introduce a bill at the special session of congress after March 4, authorizing the desired increase.

TAKES DRINK OF CARBOLIC ACID

Believed That Laborer Mistook Fatal Draught for Whisky.

Edna Olson, an aged laborer, didn't intend to die when he swallowed carbolic acid in his room in a lodging house near Sixth avenue west and First street Saturday.

The authorities' belief is that he thought he was taking a drink of whisky to prove his two days' spree. If his act were intentional it was likely due to despondency brought on by his poverty.

The body was found lying in the "cooler" several hours later and ready for the undertakers rooms of J. L. Crawford. At the inquest conducted yesterday by Coroner C. J. McComb it developed that Olson had swallowed the contents of a small vial of carbolic acid. The label showed that it had been purchased at Floodwood.

It was shown that he has a brother, John Olson, at Brainerd, Minn., and efforts are being made to locate him.

the secretary that the withdrawal of 10,000 cubic feet per second would substantially interfere with the navigation of the lakes and connecting rivers. Observations during the last forty-six years show that such a drain would reduce the lake levels from 1.5 inches on the St. Lawrence river to 1.5 inches in Lakes Huron and Michigan, at mean lake levels, the lowering effect being much greater at low water periods, when the additional shortage would be most keenly felt. This reduction, it is said, would substantially injure all the American and Canadian harbors on the Great Lakes, and at Montreal the river level probably would be lowered twelve inches. The United States has spent over $200,000 on these harbors and the Canadian government has improved over fifty of its harbors which would suffer. Reconstruction of the American and Canadian canals might even be necessary owing to the reduction of the depth of water over the sills. The lowest estimate by the chief of engineers of the injury to American vessels by a reduction of their tonnage capacity is $1,000,000 per year, while the international waterways commission places the loss at the interest on a capital of $37,500,000.

The argument that the reduction in depth caused by the canal would be of no consequence in view of the fact that greater natural obstructions, through winds and other conditions, is declared to be fallacious for, but low water would fall lower and high water would rise less high, and the draft of vessels would have to be diminished to that extent. Every drop of water taken out of the lake at Chicago, according to the secretary, tends to nullify the costly improvements made as well as to inflict even greater loss upon the navigation interests.

It is asserted that the application rests solely upon the alleged sanitary needs of Chicago, that even the projected deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Mississippi river would not over 1,000 cubic feet of water per second, and that a greater draft of vessels would have to be diminished to that extent. CAMPAGN OF EDUCATION

Voters Will Be Instructed in Use of Preferential Ballot.

A campaign of education on the use of the preferential system of voting will probably be inaugurated soon by the committee which had charge of the campaign for the commission charter. The members of the committee are anxious to follow up their work. They were largely responsible for having the charter adopted, and now they want to see the preferential system put into operation to get commissioners who will properly administer the charter.

Literature will be prepared and distributed and speeches will be made at meetings of improvement clubs and other gatherings, explaining the operation of the preferential system. Many voters have not yet taken time to study the system and the committee is anxious that all voters be informed before they go to the polls.

The next secretary for four years and two commissioners for two years will be voted upon at the coming election. A special municipal judge and an assistant municipal judge will also be elected.

When the candidates number more than three times the number of offices to be filled, which will be the case for mayor and commissioners, the ballot will have three columns following their names. The voter may vote for his first choice, his second choice and all other choices. If a candidate has a majority of the first choice votes, the second choice will be added to the total for any one candidate, the other choices will be added in the same manner. The highest will be declared elected.

The object of the preferential system is to prevent minority elections. For instance, one faction may have a majority of the first choice votes, but if it is not a majority of the total for any one candidate, the other choices will be added in the same manner. The highest will be declared elected.

OLD "TRIANGLE" IS REVERSED

Imagine the old familiar "triangle" of the problem play reversed and turned inside out.

That is what Cecil de Mille has done for vaudeville purposes in his official sketch in 1909, being presented as the headline act this week at the Orpheum by Joseph Jefferson, Felice Morris and Blanche Bender.

The sketch is a satire on the "invasion of women." Instead of the mercurial of the "other man," it is the husband who is left at home while his wife goes to the city to make a fortune.

Then the "other woman" appears and offers the attentions of a rich man. The husband, who is left at home while his wife goes to the city to make a fortune, is left at home while his wife goes to the city to make a fortune.

The "other woman" promises the trip to Europe and the husband, who is left at home while his wife goes to the city to make a fortune, is left at home while his wife goes to the city to make a fortune.

Protection of the Public Against Contagion Chief Point.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sweeping revolution in the campaign against tuberculosis in this state with the emphasis placed on the protection of the public against contagion rather than on individual cure, with $100,000 to be appropriated for a great state tuberculosis hospital farm and with the disease itself branded as contagious and placed under rigid and almost military supervision, is proposed in a bill which Dr. W. T. Stone, representative from Hubbard county, introduced in the house last evening.

Dr. Stone's belief is that the present method of attack, as exemplified by the Walker tuberculosis sanatorium and the county sanatorium, is the wrong direction, in that it takes care only of individual cases that could be cured in the home, leaving those Resolution Asking Minnesota Congressmen to Favor Free Lumber.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the legislative intermission, the St. Louis county members have practically agreed on a new distribution of the five senators and ten representatives allowed St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties in the Congdon bill of two years ago, which will be the basis of the new reapportionment bill.

Representative R. C. Dunn began his good roads program by the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the state to back county road bonds, also by the bill taxing automobiles and automobile dealers and selling motor vehicles, the proceeds all to go into road and bridge fund of state.

Senator Moenan, Democrat, secured the adoption by the senate of a joint resolution providing for a committee of three senators and five representatives to draft bills providing for reorganization of state departments in the interest of economy and efficiency, with special reference to the creation of departments of agriculture and public domain. The resolution was adopted by the senate unanimously. This is along the line of one of the recommendations of the governor's report.

For Free Lumber.
Senator Moenan also offered a joint resolution asking the Minnesota congressional delegation to work for free lumber. The resolution was placed on general orders, though Senator G. H. Sullivan said that the senate ought to hear from that "prince of patriots" (Continued on page 4, fifth column.)

APPEALS FOR PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATION

Governor Wilson Sends Last Formal Request to Legislature.

Expresses Regret on Leaving New Jersey and Thanks All.

Says State Should Enact Statutes He Has Recommended.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 14.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson, in his capacity as governor of New Jersey, sent his second annual message to the legislature which convened today. It was his last formal appeal to the legislature for the completion of the program of progressive legislation for which he declared himself when he took office.

Foremost among the laws advocated are a radical revision of the statutes governing corporations, and better laws in the matter of drawing juries. The governor recommends the commission form of government for cities, and speaks strongly in favor of economies in the state administration. In conclusion he expresses the hope that New Jersey will ratify the Constitutional amendments providing for a tax on incomes and the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. The governor's message was written while the president-elect was in Bermuda, and constitutes his only political writing since election.

At the outset of the document there is a personal note of regret at leaving New Jersey, and an expression of gratitude and obligation to those who stood by him in carrying out reforms. Almost without preface, however, the governor calls attention to the laxity of state's corporation laws. They actually encourage it. The whole country has set its face against this method of forming trust combinations and creating monopoly, Governor Wilson declares. "I am sure that the people of New Jersey," he continues, "do not dissent from the common judgment that our law prevent these things and prevent them very effectively."

At the same time it was decided to instruct the commanders of the armed forces of the allies in the field to terminate the armistice which has been in operation since Dec. 9.

The resolution of the representatives of Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro and Serbia will be communicated to the Porte in a formal note.

He asks that a petition be filed with him containing all of the indisputable facts of record relating to the dealings of the councils of the village and city of Duluth with the street railway company; also such facts as relate to the requirements of the city from the street railway company in matter of connection with other lines and extension of its own lines; also facts which relate to the taxation of the franchises of the street railway company.

WOULD LIKE TO SEE GARDNER ELECTED

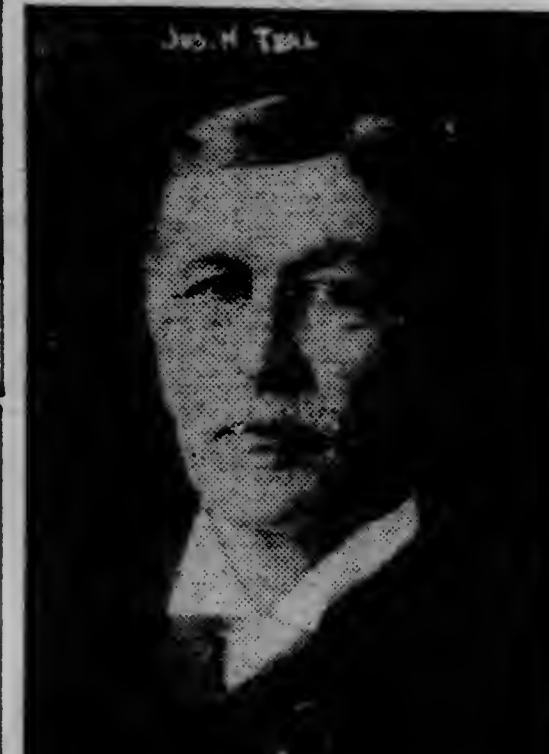

Only Interest Wilson Has in Maine Senatorial Election.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 14.—Governor Wilson said today that his interest in the Maine senatorial situation was confined only to the re-election of Senator Chauncey Gardner. The governor reads today published reports and editorials stating that he had sent word indirectly to Maine that in case Senator Gardner could not be re-elected he favored the election of a Progressive Republican rather than that of a "standpat" Democrat.

Gardner has sent no message of any kind, directly or indirectly," he said. "My only interest in the Maine situation is the wish that Senator Chauncey Gardner may be re-elected. I hope he will."

JACK JOHNSON'S ATTEMPT TO LEAVE COUNTRY IS FOILED

NEW PICTURE OF CASTRO WHO WANTS TO VISIT US

CIPRIANO CASTRO.

Takes Train From Chicago Accompanied By His Wife.

Stopped at Battle Creek By Order of Federal Authorities.

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 14.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, was taken from a Canada-bound Grand Trunk train here today, by local officers at the request of Federal officials in Chicago. It is feared that Johnson was attempting to "jump" his bail bond and leave the United States, the offense under the Mann law charged against him not being extraditable.

Johnson was accompanied by his wife and two negroes.

He said he did not wish to violate any of the terms of the bond and his appearance in United States district court and simply intended to go to Toronto to consult with Tom Fitch, his former manager, regarding a proposed fight with Al Pulver in Paris. He claimed that the latter's manager had offered to arrange a fight for $25,000.

Leaves for Toronto.

TESTIMONY OF STEEL MAKER

Appears Before Committee Hearing Arguments on Tariff Revision.

Advocates Specific and Ad Valorem Duties on Iron and Steel.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Aluminum, steel, watch movements and machine tools were on the program of the house committee on ways and means today when it met to hear layover witnesses who were unable to testify on the iron and steel hearing last week.

W. H. Donnor of Pittsburgh, Pa., president of the Cambria Steel company, setting forth that that company owned properties worth $75,000,000 and employed 19,000 men, manufacturing last year more than a million tons of rails, structural bars, rods and wire nails, urged specific and ad valorem duties on iron and steel products. He contended that the duty on ferrous manganese, used largely in steel manufacture, should be no higher than pig iron and that to increase the duty on it would be unfair to all the smaller companies that compete with the United States Steel corporation.

He said that in periods of depression "that are bound to come," foreign manufacturers will dump large tonnage on our Atlantic, gulf and seaboard cities at cost to help pay fixed charges, an invasion meaning a loss to American capital, idleness for thousands of workmen and curtailment of further expansion of the American steel industry.

TO ABOLISH PERQUISITES

Often Amounts to Many Times Their Regular Salary.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The treasury department tentative plan for the reorganization of the customs service, it was learned, contemplates the abolition of all customs naval officers and surveyors of customs, confining the port administration to collectors and deputy collectors. It also is the department's intention to deprive the collectors at ports along the Great Lakes and the Canadian border of their present perquisites from the sale of manifest blanks to turn this revenue into the treasury. Also some of the smallest ports where the salary of the collector is only $2,500, less from the sale of manifests are believed by officials to raise their compensation to a large amount, even $15,000 or $20,000 in some instances. At New York and all other actual seaports, the collector, years ago, lost the revenue from the sale of manifests.

When former President Chester A. Arthur was collector at New York, he, like others, was paid on a commission and few have and his compensation is said to have reached over $100,000 a (Continued on page 7, fifth column.)

He resigned his position as chief on Jan. 1, 1901, and was appointed a member of the state board of control of Washington on April 1, 1901, serving until July 1, 1903, when he took the position of superintendent of the state reformatory at Chelalis on the request of Governor McBride. He served in that position until Sept. 15, 1907, when he was appointed superintendent of the state penitentiary. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Thirty-five candidates for positions on Duluth's first commission are out in the open. Before the election, April 1, the number will probably be increased to fifty or sixty. All of those for whom petitions are now being circulated are not active candidates. Some will very likely decline to allow their names to go into the ballot and some who are now active candidates may find the race hopeless and retire before the time for the filing of petitions.

Petitions may not be filed with the city clerk until Feb. 20, but many of the candidates have petitions all ready to go to the city clerk, and some are already circulating their lists, but they believe they will have the petitions fifty long before the time for filing.

There are six candidates in the field for mayor. Marcus L. Fay is an avowed candidate and his petition has been filed. That P. E. Dowling will be a candidate has generally been taken for granted. Petitions are being circulated for the nomination of John H. Norton, but he has not consented to his name to his nomination. Jan will very likely be a candidate and friends are endeavoring to have him consent to his nomination.

Dr. M. B. Phillips has made no move to get into the race yet, but his friends have a petition out. Ten candidates are actively in the field for the election of the four-year term and nineteen are prospects for the two-year term.

Besides those for whom petitions are now being circulated, many others are in a position to get into the race. Dr. M. B. Phillips has made no move to get into the race yet, but his friends have a petition out.

Special Municipal Judge F. H. Cutler, who will retire at the end of this year, although his present term will expire at the end of the year, is expected to be a candidate for the office of judge.

Harry W. Lannan is the only candidate to appear thus far for the office of assistant municipal judge. Mr. Lannan has practiced law in West Duluth for several years.

Admission of those for whom petitions are being circulated. The lineup of the candidates will be definitely determined until the expiration of the filing period, March 1, but the circulation of petitions is a good indication of candidacy.

SOCIALISTS ARE SPLIT

Ultra Radical Element Is Out to "Get" Alderman Phillips.

I. W. W. Sympathizers Lose First Skirmish in the Internal War.

There is a split in the Socialist party in Duluth over the forthcoming commission election.

On one side is the radical element which is also identified with the Industrial Workers of the World. On the other side is the ultra-radical element which is also identified with the Industrial Workers of the World.

The ultra-radical element is said to be in the minority, and was defeated in a small hall on second street, where the party will have a slim chance of polling a big vote at the election.

Members of the Socialist party are looking forward to a heated meeting tomorrow night. The I. W. W. men claim that there wasn't a representative attendance at the meeting a week ago Sunday. The other faction claims that the meeting was regularly called and those who didn't attend have no right to complain.

It is said the split has been coming a long time. The two factions are determined to make it definite—at least to the extent of showing the I. W. W. adherents that they are in the minority in the party in Duluth.

Two Fargo Courts Running. Fargo, N. D., Jan. 14.—Judge Amidon of the Federal court and Judge Pollock of the state district court each began long terms this morning. There is an unusually large number of cases on the district court calendar that will require some weeks to clear up.

The meeting tomorrow night was called on the petition of the ultra-radicals to reconsider the action of the convention Jan. 5. Both sides are rallying their forces, and the chances are that the small hall on second street will not be nearly large enough to accommodate the crowd.

Every normally constituted and healthy man has a natural and abundant endowment of potential energy or reserve nerve power.

Units of nerve-energy are drawn from the blood and stored in the spinal substance of the brain and ganglia for use in the performance of involuntary function and voluntary action.

In a condition of absolute and perfect health these reservoirs of vital energy or nerve are well stored, and potential energy is so abundant that the whole physique is a fountain of life and thrills with the triumphant consciousness of power.

Such a man possesses personal magnetism, and unconsciously inspires those who come into social or business contact with him. He is a man of his easy mastery over almost all conditions. The "American Disease" is Neurasthenia, "Brain Fat," debility. Call it by what name you please, for we do not treat the name, but we do successfully treat the condition, and restore the patient to that health which is essential to his social and commercial success if he is to fill a man's place in the world.

The Napoleons of finance, the captains of industry, the men of affairs are the ones most afflicted. Perfect health, however, is all-essential to the man of lower position, as well as to the one who aspires to the highest. Many a man falls on account of a physical handicap to achieve the ambitions for which his natural mental qualifications fit him. The connection between mind and body is so intimate, and their interdependence so marked, that physical perfection is essential to the greatest achievement.

When we know the patient's true condition by thoroughly examining him, we can tell him exactly if his troubles are curable or not. If you are sick you will be wise to accept every successful business man's motto: "Do it now." There should be no "tomorrow" by a man who is suffering.

The nerve-vital diseases include nervous debility, decline, insomnia, melancholia and disorders of greater nature which involve the brain and spinal cord, and are of a paralytic nature.

The associated pelvic diseases are: Stricture, bladder, prostatic and kidney diseases, varicose veins, hydrocele, rupture (hernia), lithiasis (gravel) and diseases of the lower bowel.

We have a large number of men of life study, and we have been eminently successful. The effect of the treatment is to cure those diseases and restore men to the full enjoyment of nature's best gifts to the individual. ASKS AID OF VESSEL MEN

Congressman Miller Asks
Their Protest Against Customs Change.

Northwestern Wisconsin
Objects to Being Part of Minnesota District.

(From The Herald, Washington Bureau.)
Washington, Jan. 14.—In the campaign for the retention of the collectorship of customs at Duluth, which has been started by Representative Miller, the Duluth congressman said today that he had telegraphed the officers of the Lake Carriers' association and other vessel interests on the Great Lakes advising them of the purpose of the treasury department to abolish the Duluth collectorship and transfer the administration of the Duluth district to St. Paul. He asked their support through written protests against this action.

Mr. Miller has also asked Collector Levi M. Willcuts to send him some figures showing the extent of work of the Duluth office, which he will include in the brief he is to file with the treasury department. The department will take no definite action pending the filing of brief.

The department is also receiving protests from the representatives from congressional districts in Northwestern Wisconsin. It has become known that department's plan of consolidation contemplates not only the abolishment of the Duluth customs district but it also provides for the transfer of subports at Superior and Ashland from the Marquette district to the enlarged Minnesota district. The Wisconsin representatives assert that they would rather have these offices attached to the Milwaukee district than to have the deputy collectors report to the St. Paul office. They are pressing the department to keep all the subports in Wisconsin instead of having the records go to the Minnesota state capital.

DIVIDE COUNTY SEAT FIGHT ON.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contending that the election officials in at least eight precincts held the election at a place other than that designated by the board of county commissioners, also that the canvassing board of the county employed irregular methods in the counting of the returns from six additional precincts, Nels Nelson of Ambrose has launched a contest against the election by which Crosby was chosen as the county seat of Divide county.

WANTS $20,000 FROM RAILROAD

For the experience of having his left eye gouged out by a small rock hurled from a dynamite blast nearby, and for the sensation of falling twenty feet from the top of a railroad remanufacture tower at the present time, George S. Gillespie wants $20,000 from the Great Northern railroad.

Gillespie was formerly employed by the railroad company as a signal maintainer. On the day of the accident, Jan. 25, 1912, he was working on a signal tower at the Spaulding. One of the blasts hurled a rock in his direction which struck him in the face and knocked him off the remanufacture tower. He claims, gouged out his eye.

Gillespie and his attorney, Sam Anderson of St. Paul, are in district court with their case today. A jury was drawn in Judge Dibel's room this afternoon. Baldwin & Baldwin appear as attorneys for the railroad company.

FACULTY TO BE REORGANIZED

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of plans of reorganization of the faculty of the College of Medicine and Surgery of the University of Minnesota, a blanket resignation of all members of the medical faculty tomorrow will be submitted to President George E. Vincent and Dean R. F. Westbrook. Reorganization will follow by selecting about two-thirds of the number now on the lecture and teaching staff, which is composed of 187. The reorganization will be made by Dr. Vincent, Dean Westbrook and Dr. W. J. Mayo, regent of the executive board of medical faculty last Saturday when it was decided that the only way to accomplish the reorganization would be formally to resign and allow the president and board of regents to appoint an entirely new faculty.

"The ability of the faculty member is not questioned," Dr. Vincent declared. "The reorganization is intended only to increase the efficiency of the school."

All coal-dealers will advise

Don't blame the coal-dealer. He wants to be your friend—wants you to get heat satisfaction from the coal you buy. In supplying many people, he knows it is not the amount of coal you burn that counts—it is the volume of heat you get out of each pound, as well as how to evenly distribute that heat. Give him opportunity to tell you (without offense—because of your long sticking to old-fashioned heating) that the only way to get the greatest heating comfort out of the least fuel is through use of

AMERICAN & IDEAL RADIATORS & BOILERS

Don't you want to be among the coal-dealer's good-natured, satisfied customers, who live in houses having frost-free windows, who enjoy reliable, uniform temperature in ALL rooms and hallways, who enjoy the relief and cleanliness from lugging coal-scuttles and ashes through the living-rooms, who do not run the risk of breathing coal-gases and soot, nor danger of conflagrations?

All these advantages and many more are secured and insured to anyone who puts in an outfit of IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators. The coal-dealer will sell you enough less coal to soon equal the cost of the outfit—but he had rather have steady, satisfied customers—just as you would if you were in the coal business.

This Company has become the greatest heating authority in America, Europe and Australia. We publish free books on best rules for running heating boilers, on heat regulation, on correction of chimney faults, and upon heating data of the most up-to-date character.

Our publications are used as text-books in many Universities and Colleges. You may be absolutely sure, therefore, that in IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators we offer both heating satisfaction and the greatest measure of heating value. May we serve you now? Send for our free book, "Ideal Heating"—full of valuable heating facts you ought to know.

One charging of coal in an IDEAL Boiler easily lasts through the longest winter. There can be no fuel waste.

We also supply the ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner, which has iron suction pipes running to various floors of houses, flats, schools, churches, hotels, hospitals, banks, theaters, etc. A turn of an electric button in any room starts the machine in basement, and with the magical ARCO WAND and a light-weight duster hose ALL the dirt, dust, cobwebs, lint, threads, moths, insect eggs, etc., are drawn with lightning rapidity down the iron piping into the big, sealed dust-bucket in cellar. Costs little monthly for electricity to run. No dragging around a clumsy, inefficient portable vacuum cleaner—instead, you have a correct, enduring outfit that is part of the building—like radiator heating. Ask for catalog.

G. H. MARTZ DIES IN ST. HILAIRE

Word was received here today that C. H. Martz, a former resident of this city and a former officeholder, died yesterday at St. Hilaire, Minn. No details are given as to the cause of death. Mr. Martz is survived by his wife and several children. He left Duluth about eight years ago.

Previous to that he was a member of the board of education and afterwards was a member of the board of public works, ending his service in the latter body about 1905. Previous to his period of office-holding Mr. Martz was chief engineer of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road.

About a year ago Mr. Martz came into prominence by reason of his testimony in the Merritt-Rockefeller case, which came up before the Stanley committee in the House of Representatives. His testimony was anti-Rockefeller.

At St. Hilaire he has been operating quite a large farm and has also been pursuing his profession of engineer and surveyor.

GIVEN DIVORCE AFTER LONG FIGHT

After a fight which was carried to the supreme court Gabriella Mandelin, aged 24, has won her divorce suit which she brought against her husband, Arthur P. Mandelin, 26. The supreme court has affirmed the ruling of Judge Dancer, who denied Mandelin's motion for a new trial.

The case was tried before Judge Dancer about a year ago. Mrs. Mandelin brought unusual charges of cruelty against her husband, the testimony as to the nature of his treatment of her being very graphic. Mandelin fought the case and after it was decided against him, asked for a new trial.

His motion for a new trial was based on the contention that his wife had condoned after she had served him with a notice of the divorce suit. Dancer held in reviewing the testimony of the case that the evidence fell short of establishing any condonation.

Mandelin lives at 438 Lake avenue south. He is an interpreter. Mrs. Mandelin's attorney was Victor H. Grant, and John A. Keyes defended the divorce case.

TORSO OF MURDERED MAN IS DISCOVERED.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—The torso of the murdered man, one of whose legs were found in a suitcase in an alley in the Oriental quarter here Saturday, was discovered late yesterday by the police. The discovery was made in turning over a small heap of rubbish in the back of the Turkish coffee house, where the murder is supposed to have been committed.

Hassan Sina, one of the proprietors of the coffee house, admitted to detectives that he assisted two other men to burn the head of a murdered man in the kitchen stove of the coffee house.

Sina insisted that he took no part in the killing. The police did not press him to identify the victim, as it was established that the man slain was Abdul Olli, a partner of Sina in the coffee house. Ismael Mahmoud, another partner, is in custody. He has been partly identified as the other Turk, who, with Sina, purchased the suitcase in which the severed leg was found.

Captain of Police Healy said that the murder was the most revolting that he had studied in his entire experience. He says the man was killed while he slept in a chair in the rear of the coffee house, and that the body was chopped to pieces in the

SEES GREAT FUTURE FOR NORTHERN MINN.

John McCarthy, a timberman of Stillwater, who was at the St. Louis hotel today, being on his return from an inspection trip among the timber lands of Beltrami county, talked enthusiastically of the great future of Northern Minnesota as an agricultural region.

He declared that the land of Northern Minnesota along the Rainy river and its tributaries would some day command fancy prices. There would always be good markets for all dairy and farm products in Northern Koochiching and Beltrami counties, he said, there was land as rich as any in the Red River valley. This land, as he had been reliably informed, would produce forty bushels of wheat to the acre and was prodigious in the yield of grass of all kinds.

AGED "NEWSBOY" IS TAKEN TO HOME FOR OLD PEOPLE AT ST. CLOUD

JAMES DAVIES, Duluth's Oldest and Most Famous "Newsboy."

J. H. (Burt) Harrington returned yesterday from St. Cloud, to which place he took James Davies, the aged "newsboy" who has been such a familiar figure on the streets and in the public buildings of Duluth. Mr. Davies was put in St. Joseph's home at St. Cloud, where many old people reside, and as Mr. Harrington says, live in much comfort during their declining years.

Mr. Harrington was appointed Mr. Davies' guardian some time ago, but as a matter of fact, for a long time before that he looked after the old man's interests. He is now engaged in trying to trace the old man's relatives, in order that they may be notified of his condition, and also in view of the fact that when Davies dies—which it is believed is not far distant—the estate may be settled. Mr. Davies has saved up a good deal of money during the last few years, more than it is believed he will need during his life. He went to the home in style. Mr. Harrington, who is in the tailoring business, has from time to time taken him to the home ten suits.

The old man has, during the last few years, become quite penurious, and would not consent to pay out a cent to go to St. Cloud. The only way an end could be put to this was by being told that a wealthy man was paying the expenses for a "trip" which the old gentleman understood was to end by a return to Duluth. Some time ago, before his mind failed to the extent it now has, he was anxious to be placed in such a home. Mr. Harrington said that something must be done, for several times of late cars have almost run down the old man as he ambled over crossings with his package of papers under his arm.

and Swedish in four of the Minneapolis high schools. The courses were started two years ago and 353 pupils are enrolled. Prof. Lenker in speaking of the success of the movement in the Mill City said yesterday afternoon that two more classes are to be started there after the opening of the second semester on Feb. 1. The total enrollment, he said, is rapidly forging ahead of the German and French classes.

Prof. Lenker was formerly professor of modern languages at Omaha. He has translated thirteen volumes of Luther from German into English. He was born in Pennsylvania and although a German by birth, is promoting the teaching of Scandinavian. He learned the Scandinavian language while touring Europe several years ago. Rev. Mr. Lydeen is pastor of the Lutheran church at Svea and is the president of the Society for the Promotion of Swedish Culture in the Northwest.

MILDER WEATHER IS IN PROSPECT

No More Below Zero Temperatures Before Thursday at Least.

The cold wave has passed and for a day or two at least Duluth may expect moderate temperatures.

The lowest point reached last night was 5 below zero at midnight, and at 7 o'clock this morning it was 4 above zero. At 10 o'clock it had warmed up to 9 above, which is the highest point the thermometer has registered for a week or more. Tonight the lowest temperature will be about 10 above zero, and tomorrow will be mild. There are some low temperatures reported in the far West and Wednesday night or Thursday they may reach Duluth, but it is too early to predict another cold wave yet, says the forecaster. The low temperatures may moderate greatly before they reach Duluth.

TURKEY MUST COMPLY WITH ADVICE GIVEN BY THE POWERS

Continued fighting against Turkey, both on sea and land with varying success.

Montenegro also, which was nominally a party to the armistice, has been engaged in the interim in many severe skirmishes with the troops forming the garrison of the Turkish fortress of Scutari, which shows no sign of yielding. It is believed that the Ottoman troops there, most of whom form part of the regular army, are fairly well provided with food and ammunition, as Scutari was always a great center of the grain trade and contains a large harbor.

In January of 1913, the Balkan league was the rallying point for a large force of Turkish troops who escaped from Monastir and other places in Macedonia and Albania. The Greeks have closed all approaches to the fortress from the south, but to the north and west the communications are still open and the Turks threaten to obtain supplies.

Conflicting reports as to conditions in the great fortress of Adrianople are current, but it appears evident that the Turkish troops, who are suffering from disease and lack of supplies. They have been reinforced by the last week of October by the Bulgarians, who have since been reinforced by large bodies of Serbians fresh from their victories on the other side of the peninsula.

Before the Tchatalja lines defending Constantinople there is a great army of Bulgarians who are strongly entrenched and fronting them are large bodies of Turkish troops, some of them the remnants of the defeated armies which fled before the advancing Bulgarians and other fresh troops brought up from the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor.

The threatening note of the allies to the Turks is to be worded in such a way that it will become effective only in the event of the Ottoman government refusing compliance with the advice given to it by the ambassadors of the European powers.

The members of the Balkan league are of opinion that the note drafted by the European diplomats is so dilatory that it requires the admittance of a challenge, and this, they think, will be supplied by their threat to continue hostilities.

MAROOED PEOPLE OF FLOODED DISTRICTS RELIEVED BY LAUNCHES

Reports from Cincinnati that the water is creeping up over the gauge there, the great volume of water being still coming down the river in the stretch between Cincinnati and this city will mean a continuing rise of two and one-half days to come and the 1907 flood height of 46 feet will be equalled or exceeded, it is believed.

River Rising Slowly.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 14.—The Ohio river continued to rise slowly here today, but it was believed that the flood was about to reach its crest. Twelve hours ago there were only three feet of water. Local Weather Forecaster Deveraux predicted that the crest would be reached some time during today or tomorrow.

Everything possible is being done for the 3000 or more families driven from their homes. They are being looked after by the city authorities and citizens' committees devoted to the work of relief.

WHAT IS A COUGH?

This is the reason when a person has a cough. People, as a rule, do not understand the significance of a cough. A cough is simply an effort of Nature to rid the lungs of offending or foreign material. A few drops of water in the lungs will cause any one to cough the same as a catarrhal effusion or an accumulation of mucus. Cough is a wholesome effort to protect the lungs from intrusion from harmful materials. A cough should not be regarded as a foe, but as a friend.

Pe-ru-na Removes the Cause of Cough.

Pe-ru-na is a cough medicine in the strict sense of the word. It assuages Nature in getting rid of the accumulated mucus in the bronchial tubes. It assists, first, by strengthening the nerves that control the act of coughing. And, second, by directly attacking the mucus discharges are slightly thinned, making them easier to expectorate. In other words, Pe-ru-na acts with Nature.

Any one taking Pe-ru-na will very quickly find himself better able to cough. The cough seems to be more satisfactory. It is a deeper cough, in which the mucus is raised and easily expectorated. Pe-ru-na relieves cough by removing the cause of the cough. It works in exactly the same way as every other medicine ought to work, in harmony with Nature.

COMMITTEES OF HOUSE AND SENATE NAMED

those who have been wondering what would fall to them, and how far they would come from getting what they wanted.

Also, it paved the way for making the real test of the organizations in each house. In previous tests, it must be admitted, the slender vote of the opposition was a part due to the fact that there were members who were holding off until they found out where they were going to land.

If the get what they wanted, or reasonably close to it, they will probably be good. If they are disappointed, they will probably try to make trouble—though the thought that the folks back home are watching, and unquestionably are in pretty complete sympathy with the progressive organization of the legislature, probably will give them pause.

On the whole, the chance for important accretions in the list of members in either house is rather small. In the first place, while both Kins and Burnquist have been closely to the obvious desideratum of putting none but patriots on guard, neither has been vindictive in his treatment of his enemies. Some, who expected nothing, will be well satisfied with little. Others will be surprised by the generosity with which they have been treated.

Democrats Recognized.

Perhaps the most important innovation in these committee appointments is the rule adopted by Lieutenant Governor Burnquist to give the Democrats of the senate representation on all committees in proportion to their membership in the senate. Burnquist, including Senator Sageng, Populist, as a Democrat for purposes of the rule, just as the old hundreds are thrown off so as to state a figure "in round numbers"—one-third of the senate, roughly, they get one-third of the memberships, also roughly; to wit, eleven seats for Democrats, come of the committees are important, too.

Generally speaking, the arrangements made by the two presiding officers are admirably suited to the purpose which they have in mind: facilitating progressive legislation. The assignment of members fully up to the expectations of those who hope much from this session, and who realize the importance of having the committees friendly to their hopes.

Following the speaker's announcement of committee assignments the committee on reapportionment, which has been in session since the opening of the session, met for the first time. The committee is composed of a broad-gauged group of men who will be in consideration of the subject. All my time and energy will be devoted to this matter until a bill is enacted into law, or is defeated.

The committee will profit by the work of the reapportionment committee of two years ago. That committee did a great deal of work and gathered a great fund of information on the subject. The chairman of the committee, C. Condon, devoting the entire time to the issue. Mr. Condon has placed this information at the disposal of the committee, and at his own expense has had printed a pamphlet containing in concise form the statistics and figures he has gathered. A copy of this pamphlet I will be pleased to furnish any who may be interested in the subject.

Last night's session of the legislature was brief and perfunctory—except for the session on the subject of the two less than a majority and they were without even receiving new bills.

Real work will come quickly after today, as the committee just appointed will get down to work promptly on the bills that have been introduced.

To Prevent Discrimination.

Representative Vasily of Little Falls introduced a sweeping anti-discrimination bill, similar to the South Dakota law recently declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of the United States. It prohibits the sale of any commodity by a corporation at lower rates in one place than in another.

locality than in another, except as freight rates may justify a difference. The state already has a law applying this principle to oil products. The penalty is a fine of $200 to $10,000.

Representative Knapp introduced a bill proposing an amendment to the constitution authorizing the state to secure the ratification of the voters at the recent election.

Other bills introduced last evening were as follows:

Representative C. H. Warner—Allowing town officers in towns that have less than twenty-five voters to work on roads at the usual pay for such work.

Representative Lundberg—Cutting out the principle of a salary basis for the legislature for Sundays and holidays.

Representative Knapp—Providing that logs shall be assessed where they are cut, instead of where they are floated.

Election Contest.

The contest of C. A. Gilman of St. Cloud against J. H. Coates was filed with the state auditor yesterday and referred to the elections committee. The issue in this case is very clear. It is a contest of a few ballots with a very slight difference between the votes of the two candidates. This is the only contest of the session.

Representative Bendixen last night proposed a joint resolution protesting against the action of the legislature in the bill pending in congress giving the national forest reserves to the states in which they are situated.

The legislature is being flooded with petitions, personal and otherwise, for a proposed bill to allow the Minnesota National Forest to be sold to the national organization and form one of their own. Protests against the bill also are being received, but so far the affirmative seems overwhelmingly predominant.

Tonnage Tax Bill.

Northeastern Minnesota's old friend, the tonnage tax bill, will be before the house before the end of the week, with Representatives H. O. Bjorge of Becker county and Thomas Frankson of Fillmore county as its authors.

Both have figured in this role before. Mr. Bjorge introduced a tonnage tax bill in 1907 which was defeated. He also introduced the same bill in 1909, when it passed the legislature. It was vetoed by Governor Johnson. In a veto message that was crushing in its force and logic.

Two years ago Mr. Bjorge not then being a member of the house, Mr. Frankson introduced the same bill, and it was defeated by a decisive vote. This time the two will join hands in introducing the same bill. The bill is a tonnage tax on all vessels of little changed from that of 1909 and 1911.

There has been practically no agitation for the tonnage tax anywhere in the state since Governor Johnson vetoed it four years ago, and there is comparatively little talk of it about Duluth. The measure is a relic of the creation of a progressive organization in both branches of the legislature. It is not believed that there is any probability that the bill will pass the house.

This situation drew the attention of congress and all "seaports" were placed on a strictly salary basis. The principle, however, was never extended to some lakes and Canadian border ports.

The abolition of the naval officers will mark the passing of one of the historic phases of the service. It is a relic of the colonial days. When America was part of the British empire, a local man was appointed as a collector of customs at the various ports and the king of England sent over a naval officer as his personal representative to headquarter the operations of the collector. The position thus had its beginning, and the custom has grown until treasury officials claim that it amounts to a second collector. These seven ports have naval officers: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco. The salary at New York is $8,000 and at the others $6,000.

In reducing the existing 165 custom districts to less than fifty the treasury department has been forced to place each district in charge of a collector, and each port in charge of a deputy collector. The existing port will be reduced to four, and the collector will be the office of the collector.

"Our country has little or nothing in New York state the existing headquarters at New York city, Buffalo, Rochester and Ogdensburg. The state of New York and Erie county, will constitute one district, with Cleveland as headquarters. Cincinnati is strongly clamoring for the location of the collector.

JACK JOHNSON'S ATTEMPTS TO LEAVE COUNTRY FOILED

Johnson is under $50,000 bond to appear in the United States district court to answer to indictments charging violations of the Mann act. He is under $50,000 bond to keep him within the state until his trial.

Johnson is said to have told friends that he intended taking a trip to Toronto for a couple of days. Johnson announced some time ago that he had received offers to fight in Moscow, Russia, and the opinion was ventured that he may be intending to sail via Halifax. United States Marshal Hoy said Johnson is under $50,000 bond to appear in the United States district court to answer to indictments charging violations of the Mann act. He is under $50,000 bond to keep him within the state until his trial.

REBEL ACTIVITY CAUSING ALARM

Refugees Are Pouring Into Acapulco From All Directions.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Concern is felt at the state department over alarming reports of increased rebel activity in Southern and Southwestern Mexico. Consul Edwards at Acapulco reports that all of Costa Grande is in control of a rebel band under Julian Padilla and that refugees are pouring into Acapulco from all directions. Padilla's men were threatening the city when the consul sent his report.

Previous to the recent attack on Casas Grandes, the largest town in the district southwest of this point, the rebels are given official credit for the rout near Madera of Gen. Jose de la Luz Blanco's command and the capture and execution of De la Luz Blanco, an ex-insurrecto leader. It is stated in reliable reports that not only was Blanco executed, but the rebels took prisoners fourteen officers and 140 soldiers, all of whom were hanged to a tree and trampled with bullets.
